3. The increase in the revenue in the Darjeeling district is owing to the collection of Rs. 1,812 on the Balasun ferry at Matigara, belonging to the Darjeeling Improvement Fund, but which amount was subsequently refunded, less Rs. 27 paid on account of the percentage cost of Establishment for offices of account and control and audit; and that in Hazaribagh is mainly due to the increased demand on account of 'cesses on mines,' &c., obtained from the year's valuation of mines under Chapter V, Part II of the Cess Act. In the Lohardaga district the increase is due partly to the contribution of Rs. 2,000 by one Babu Debi Lall Sahu of Armai towards the construction of a road from Bero to Toto, and partly to the better collection of cesses. In the Manbhum district the decrease in the receipts of 'cesses on land' is due to bad collection, while the increase under 'cess on mines,' &c., is owing to the assessment of certain coal mines and quarries newly opened during the year. The decrease in the revenue in the Palamau district was mainly owing to the fact that in 1893-94 a special grant of Rs. 13,000 was given by Government for the construction of the Garwa-Sirguja Road, while in 1894-95 there was no such grant.

4. The following table shows the outlay incurred in 1894-95, compared with that of the previous year:—

5. The closing balances of the cess districts at the end of the year were more than one quarter's kists of the respective Committees, as prescribed in paragraph 9 of the Resolution No. 4228R.C., dated 18th December 1885. The heavy closing balances were due (1) in the Hazaribagh district partly to the large opening balance with which the year began, and partly to certain bills for works done within the year not having been received before 31st March 1895; (2) in the Palamau district, to the grave difficulties that had to be contended with in obtaining contractors and labour; (3) in the Darjeeling district to the Committee having been allowed, in letter No. 5106R.C., dated 26th September 1892, to accumulate its balance to enable it to construct important bridges in the district without having recourse to borrowing. The large closing balance in the Sonthal Parganas district is owing partly to the failure of contractors and partly to the stopping of the construction of the police buildings at Sahibganj at the request of the Police Department.

6. Of the total expenditure incurred during the year, Rs. 3,10,604 was devoted to Public Works, while the outlay under other sub-heads, exclusive of 'Suspense Accounts,' was small, being Rs. 37,517 only in the aggregate. The distribution of the outlay on Public Works is as follows:—

* Includes Rs. 1,000 expended on the maintenance of the portion of the Chittagong-Fort Haka Road lying in the Chittagong District from funds supplied by the District Board of that district, which amount has been shown under "Deposits" both under receipts and expenditure in the accounts of this district.

In the Darjeeling District the low percentage is due to the fact that no Engineer was employed : all the Road Fund works, both original and repairs, were executed by the Tea Planters and non-official residents of the district to whom the thanks of Government are due for their assistance. The sum of Rs. 625 spent under this head was for the Public Works establishment in the Terai subdivision only. The percentage in the Singhbhum district was high.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution, together with the annual accounts of the several District Road Funds and District Road Accounts, extracts from the reports of the Chairmen of the several District Road Committees, and remarks of the Commissioners of Divisions concerned, be published in Part II of the Calcutta Gazette.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded for information to the—

Commissioners of the Rajshahi, Bhagalpur, Chittagong and Chota Nagpur Divisions ;

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. G. H. GLASS,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Abstract of the Report by the Chairman of the District Road Committee of Darjeeling on the operations of the District Road Fund of the District for the year 1894-95.

[Vide letter No. 79R.F., dated 12th July 1895, from R. T. Greer, Esq., C.S., Deputy Commissioner and Chairman, to the Commissioner, Rajshahi Division.]

1. Working of the Committee.—The number of members of the District Committee was 18. Four meetings were held during the year. The average attendance was 9·5, and the percentage of average attendance at a meeting was 52·7. The members of the Terai Branch Committee number 20. Seven meetings were held during the year. The average attendance at a meeting was 8·1, and the percentage of average attendance at a meeting was 40·7.

2. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 19,921-7-7, which together with the year's income, Rs. 24,152-7-7, shewed a total amount available for expenditure of Rs. 44,073-15-2. Rupees 25,299-8-7 were spent during the year, leaving a balance of Rs. 18,774-6-7 made up of actual cash Rs. 10,784-7-6 and unadjusted advances Rs. 7,989-15-1. The closing cash balance is in excess of the amount generally allowed. This has been permitted by the Bengal Government to avoid the necessity for making loans to meet unforeseen expenditure.

RECEIPTS.

3. Assessment and Collection of the Road Cess.—The Road Cess was levied at the maximum rate during the year. The gross demand on cess of lands and mines, &c., during the year, including the previous year's outstanding, Re. 1, was Rs. 17,886. Rupees 16,367 were realized during the year, and Rs. 1,460 were paid in advance, leaving a balance of Rs. 59 outstanding on 31st March 1894. A sum of Rs. 1,645 was received in advance, making a total collection of Rs. 18,012 during the year.

4. Ferry Tolls.—The receipts under this head were on account of the collection of the Balasun ferry at Matigara belonging to the Darjeeling Improvement Fund, and the amount has been subsequently refunded, less Rs. 27, to be paid on account of cost of office of control and audit to Accountant-General, Bengal.

5 Contribution.—The Government grant of ⅛th of 12 per cent. collections from Government and other estates amounted to Rs. 2,328-13-3, against Rs. 1,894-1-11 of the previous year. The increase is due to the resettlement of estates. The contribution of Rs. 2,000 from the Darjeeling Improvement Fund was received, as in previous years, for improvements and repairs to the Terai roads.

EXPENDITURE.

6. Original Works.—There was no original work this year. Rupees 33-13-2 shown under this head were adjusted during the year under review on account of expenditure incurred by the Public Works Department in the previous year on the suspension bridge over the Balasun river at Panighatta.

7. Repairs, Communications.—The expenditure under this head on hill roads and bridges amounted to Rs. 3,096-6-4, against Rs. 5,374-2-3 in the previous year, and the budget grant of Rs. 5,050 for the year under review. The decrease of Rs. 1,954 compared with the budget estimate is due to unadjusted balances of advances made for the works.

8. The expenditure on Terai roads and bridges was Rs. 5,716-3-6, against Rs. 6,171-3 of the previous year. The difference between the estimate and expenditure (Rs. 1,223-12-6) is due to the cause as shown under the head of hill roads and bridges.

9. The expenditure on village roads was Rs. 239-13. It shows a decrease of Rs. 138-3 from the budget grant of Rs. 378 owing to outstanding advances.

10. A total length of 278¼ miles of unmetalled district roads and 18 miles of village roads were repaired at a total cost of Rs. 8,313-1-10, inclusive of Rs. 50 for mile-posts, being Rs. 29 per mile for the district roads and Rs. 13 per mile for the village roads. Rupees 739-5 were spent in repairing bridges.

11. Tools and Plant.—Rupees 16-10-6 were spent in replacing an iron measuring chain.

12. Toll and Ferry Establishment, &c.—There is no ferry under the Committee. Rupees 1,442-7 were shown as spent under the head, but do not represent the actual expenditure of the fund. Rupees 1,811-15-1 were received on account of the Balasun ferry collection, and credited to the Road Fund instead of the Darjeeling Improvement Fund. Of this money, Rs. 1,442-7 were refunded during the year under review, and the balance, Rs. 369-8-1, less Rs. 27, to be paid on account of cost of control and audit, to the Accountant-General, Bengal, has been refunded during 1895-96.

13. Arboriculture.—Trees were planted during the year 1894-95 along the side of the Road No. 21, Matigara to Phansidewa at a cost of Rs. 50.

14. Contribution.—The Committee has contributed Rs. 11,500 to Government for a wooden truss bridge over the Balasun river at Matigara, Rs. 10,000 being paid by the District Committee and Rs. 1,500 by the Terai Branch Road Cess Committee.

15. Public Works Establishment.—No professional Engineer was entertained under the Committee. All works, as usual, were executed by the tea-planters and non-official residents, whose help has been of great value to the Road Cess Committee. One overseer was entertained by the Terai Branch Road Cess Committee. The relative expenditure on works and repairs in the hills cannot therefore be compared with the expenditure on Public Works establishment. The total cost of Public Works establishment in the Terai was Rs. 625, and the cost of repairing Terai roads Rs. 5,956; the percentage of establishment to repairs in the Terai was therefore 10·49.

INSPECTION OF ACCOUNTS.

No. 203R.C., dated Ranchi, the 6th August 1895.

From—W. H. GRIMLEY, Esq., Commissioner of the Chota Nagpur Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the accompanying annual reports and accounts of the several District Road Committees in the Division for the year ending 31st March 1895.

2. The constitution of each Road Committee, the number of meetings held, and the percentage of average attendance at those meetings, are shown below:—

DISTRICT.	NUMBER OF MEMBERS FORMING THE COMMITTEE.			Number of meetings held.	Percentage of average attendance.
	Official.	Non-official.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6
Hazaribagh	8	16	24	3	40·0
Lohardaga	4	8	12	7	33·0
Palamau	4	12	16	10	31·8
Manbhum	5	13	18	14	38·08
Singhbhum	4	8	12	9	48·1

In Singhbhum alone the percentage of average attendance has been over 48·1. In the other districts it ranges between 31·8 in Palamau and 40·0 in Hazaribagh. The district officers complain of the want of interest taken generally by the non-official members in Road Cess matters. This may be attributed partly to some of the members living at long distances from head-quarters, and partly to their apathy in matters which do not directly concern themselves.

3. The Branch Road Cess Committee at Giridih held four meetings, in two of which no quorum was obtained. The average attendance of members in these meetings was 3·75 against 3 in the preceding year. Six of the members of this Committee are reported to have failed to attend any meeting at all. The Branch Road Cess Committee at Gobindpur in Manbhum did not hold any meeting, as they had no business to transact, no funds having been placed in their hands.

4. The Cess Act was in force in the districts of Hazaribagh, Lohardaga, Palamau, Manbhum, and in pargana Dhalbhum in Singhbhum, and the cess was levied in all of them at the maximum rate allowed by law. The following table compares the opening balance, income, expenditure and closing balance of each Road Committee during the past two years:—

	Hazaribagh.		Lohardaga.		Palamau		Manbhum.		Singhbhum.

Hazaribagh and Lohardaga show increases of Rs. 2,553 and Rs. 8,030 respectively in their incomes during the year. In the former the increase is mainly in the demand of cesses on mines, &c., obtained from the year's valuation of mines under Chapter V, Part II of the Cess Act. In Lohardaga the increase is due partly to the contribution of Rs. 2,000 by one Babu Debi Lal Sahu of Armai towards the construction of a road from Bero to Toto, and partly to better collections of cesses,—the percentage of current collection on net current demand being 84·5 against 82·3 in the preceding year. Palamau, Manbhum and Singhbhum show decreases of Rs. 7,384, Rs. 17,022 and Rs. 1,727 respectively in their incomes. In Palamau there was a special grant of Rs. 13,000 made by Government in 1893-94 from Provincial revenues towards the construction of the first section of the Garwah-Sirguja road. In Manbhum there was a decrease in income on account of Provincial rates in consequence of bad collections the percentage of current collections of cesses on net current demand falling from 92·4 in 1893-94 to 68·8 during the year under review.

5. The following table shows the revenue of each Road Committee (including the suspense heads), the expenditure incurred on works, and the establishment charges on account of those works :—

Districts.	Revenue.	Amount spent on works.			Cost of establishment employed on works.	Total expenditure on works, including establishment charges (total of columns 5 and 6). The percentage of expenditure on account of establishment for works on the amount spent on works ranged from 16·6 in Palamau to 31·4 in Singhbhum, though the total establishment charges incurred by each Road Committee were within the limit of one-fourth of its income.

Original works.

6. In Hazaribagh Rs. 2,169 were spent during the year in the construction of five inspection bungalows and one road-side well. In Lohardaga the construction of the Bero-Toto road, thirty-five miles long, was taken in hand, and nearly the whole of the earthwork was executed during the year, and the bridges were under construction when the year closed. The expenditure on this road to the 31st March last amounted to Rs. 4,603. The approaches to four unbridged rivers, namely, two on the Ranchi-Palkote road and two on the Lohardaga-Sambalpur road, were rendered easy at a total cost of Rs. 960. An inspection bungalow with kutcha-pucka masonry walls and terraced roof and out houses was also constructed at Jheria on the Ranchi-Palkote road, at a cost of Rs. 1,399. A sum of Rs. 325 was also spent in sinking wells and in improving natural springs. In Palamau a twenty-five feet bridge of masonry abutments and sál timber roadway over the Okraha nala on the Daltonganj-Maharajganj road was constructed during the year, at a cost of Rs. 1,019. Thirty-five culverts, namely, seventeen on the Daltonganj-Maharajganj road the same number on the Daltonganj-Ranchi road, and one on the Daltonganj-Hariharganj road, were also constructed at a total cost of Rs. 4,418. The first section of the Garwah-Sirguja road viâ Ranka was constructed up to the ninth mile at a cost of Rs. 6,085. The District Road Committee also provided the staging bungalow at Manka on the Daltonganj-Ranchi road with an out-house at a cost of Rs. 351. A masonry well at Khanrih on the fourteenth mile of the Daltonganj-Ranchi road was constructed at a cost of Rs. 416. In Manbhum a sum of Rs. 1,306 was spent during the year towards the construction of a feeder road to the Bengal-Nagpur Railway from Bagmundi to the Balarampur railway station viâ Mahta, a temporarily-settled Government estate in the district. The total amount spent on this road up to the close of the year amounted to Rs. 2,958. In Singhbhum the total expenditure on account of original works amounted to Rs. 4,839, namely, Rs. 2,545 in gravelling heavy portions of the four district roads named in the margin, Rs. 766 in cutting the ramps of nalas on the Chaibassa-Amda road, Rs. 366 for a diversion on the Chaibassa Subarnarekha road, Rs. 1,038 in completing the Hari nala bridge on the 51st mile of the Chaibassa-Bend road, Rs. 10 in the construction of a small feeder road from Juggernathpur to Goilkera, and Rs. 114 in the construction of rough wooden culverts on the Dadkurhi-Kamaraha village road.

In Lohardaga twenty-three district roads were maintained at a cost of Rs. 21,931, and the village roads, at Rs. 6,218. HAZARIBAGH,
The 16th May 1895.

E. M. KONSTAM,
Chairman.

Abstract of the Report by the Chairman of the District Road Committee of Lohardaga on the operations of the District Road Fund of the District for the year 1894-95.

[Vide letter No. 67D.R., dated 17th June 1895, from Lieut.-Colonel A. Evans Gordon, Chairman to the Commissioner, Chota Nagpur Division.]

1. Working of the Committee.—The attendance of the non-official members was unsatisfactory, as out of eight non-officials, two attended five, one three, one two, and four one meeting only. Of the seven meetings held, five were special and two ordinary. The average attendance was four, the same as last year.

RECEIPTS.

2. Collections.—The demand on account of cess on lands and mines during the year, including the arrears of last year, amounted to Rs. 52,024, of which Rs. 46,698 were collected within the year, leaving a balance outstanding at the close of the year of Rs. 5,326. The whole of the balance fell due on the 28th March, and could not therefore be realized under the Certificate Act within the year.

EXPENDITURE.

3. Original works.—The following works were carried out during the year:—

(1) A project for the construction of the Bero-Toto road, 35 miles in length, was prepared on regular survey and levels, and the estimate sanctioned by Government in letter No. 5449L.C., dated 26th November 1894. Nearly the whole of the earthwork was executed, and the bridges were under construction.

(2) Approaches to two unbridged rivers on the Ranchi-Palkote road and two on the Lohardaga-Sumbulpur road were cut to easy gradients.

(3) An inspection bungalow with kutcha-pucka masonry walls and terraced roof and out-offices was constructed at Jharia on the 33rd mile of Ranchi-Palkote road.

4. Repairs.—448½ miles of district roads were maintained passable for traffic by surface and patch repairs, and repairs to metalling and temporary bridges. Surface repairs were done to 5th class roads, of which the Chapka-Sirguja road was much improved by easing gradients and constructing temporary bridges. Besides the above, portions of certain roads were newly gravelled and a mile of the Lohardaga-Sumbulpur road and three miles of the Bundu-Jhalda road were constructed in place of mere tracks.

5. Village roads, 164 miles.—Twelve miles of road were constructed in place of village tracks, one mile was gravelled, several temporary bridges were constructed, and 157 miles of roads were kept passable by petty repairs. Besides the above, over 100 miles of village tracks were improved and made passable for carts.

6. Arboriculture.—1,419 seedlings of mango, jack, karanj, teak, jamun and others were planted along different roads to fill up vacancies. Some indigenous trees were also planted, and the road-side trees were attended to throughout the year; 1,550 large dallas (bamboo gabions) of an approved type were supplied for the protection of plants, b sides some of ordinary kinds. Many plants had to be protected with fencing of thorny stick for want of sufficient funds to purchase proper gabions.

7. Nurseries.—In the nursery at head-quarters, mahogany, teak, jack, mohua, karanj, sal, toon, tamarind-sisoo, seris, kunack-champa, asan, kusum, nim, chalta and others, in all 1,027 seedlings, were raised during the year. The chaukidars in charge of the Lohardaga and Opa bungalows also kept small nurseries.

8. Stating bungalows.—The staging bungalows at Lohardaga and Opa were thoroughly repaired, and petty repairs were done to the Road Cess office, bungalows and godowns and to the staging huts.

9. Sanitation.—Rs. 325 was spent in finishing 12 daris or natural springs, from which the people get their supply of drinking water, constructed last year, and in improving six daris, two with masonry walls and four with corrugated iron rings.

10. Generally, it may be said that more attention has been paid to good and lasting quality of work in roads and buildings than to quantity.

11. The works have all been executed by contract during the year under report, and the small sums advanced to the contractors have been adjusted.

12. The establishments entertained under the Road Cess Act are:—

(a) For collection of revenue.
(b) Committee's office establishment.
(c) Engineering establishment.

The staff for collection of revenue consists of one head clerk and accountant, an assistant clerk, and one peon. These officers also do the work of the Committee's office, for which there is no separate establishment. The several establishments employed under the Committee performed their duties to its entire satisfaction.

13. The following table shows the relative expenditure on works and repairs compared with expenditure on establishment, &c., in 1894-95:—

7,286 13 9	29,648 6 5	36,935 4 2	7,773 4 7	7,316 0 10	21 0 5

14. Accounts.—The monthly accounts of the Road Fund and of the District Engineer's office were examined and audited by the Vice-Chairman and two English-knowing members of the Committee who were appointed for the purpose. The accounts of the year were duly examined and audited by a Sub-Committee consisting of the Vice-Chairman and two English-knowing members of the Committee. The Local Auditor inspected the District Board's and District Engineer's offices on the 23rd January 1895, and the result was satisfactory on the whole.

Abstract of the Report by the Chairman of the District Road Committee of Palamau on the operations of the District Road Fund of the District for the year 1894-95.

[Vide letter No. $\frac{D.R.}{63}$, dated 27th May 1895, from H. C. Streatfeild, Esq., C.S., Deputy Commissioner, Palamau, to the Commissioner, Chota Nagpur Division.]

1. District Road Committee.—Ten meetings of the District Road Committee were held during the year, of which one fell through for want of a quorum. No new members were added to the list during the year. The average attendance of the members was 5·1, against 7·3 in the preceding year out of a total of 16 members.

RECEIPTS.

2. Working of the Cess Act.—The Road Cess was levied as usual at the maximum rate of half an anna in the rupee both on the annual value of lands and on the annual net profits from mines. The demand on account of cess on lands and mines during the year under report was Rs. 21,768, against 21,788 in the previous year. The current demand, Rs. 21,768, plus the arrear demand, Rs. 2,349, gave a total of Rs. 24,117 for realization during the year under report. Of this amount, Rs. 21,044 (including a sum of Rs. 786 previously paid in advance) were collected, leaving a balance of Rs. 3,073 at the close of the year. A further sum of Rs. 879 was collected on account of advance for future years. Out of the above balance of Rs. 3,073, Rs. 966 are due from the Deputy Commissioner of Lohardaga on account of road cess for the portion of the Chota Nagpur Estate lying within the local jurisdiction of this district. The remaining arrears which are mostly those for the kist of 28th March 1895 are due from the Jagirdars of Palamau. A sum of Rs. 1,400, including the amounts due from Lohardaga, has since been realized.

The opening balance of the District Road Committee on the 31st of March 1894 was Rs. 33,785-10-6, and that on the 1st April 1895 was Rs. 24,097-15-6. This balance could not be brought down to the limit of one quarter's income, as prescribed by the rules, in consequence of the grave difficulties that had to be contended with in obtaining contractors and labour.

EXPENDITURE.

3. Original works.—The following original works were undertaken during the year with the exception of No. 7 at a cost of Rs. 18,678-3-2, against the budget allotment of Rs. 30,850:—

(1) Construction of a 20-feet bridge of masonry abutments and sál timber road-way over the Okaha nulla on the 23rd mile of the Daltonganj-Hurrihorganj road. (6) The first section of the Gurwa-Sirguja road, 13¼ miles in length, for which a special grant of Rs. 13,000 was sanctioned by Government, was constructed up to the 9th mile, and an expenditure of Rs. 6,084-12-6 incurred during the year out of an allotment of Rs. 11,530. The road is a third class one with dry rubble stone culverts and grades not exceeding 1 in 25 except at approaches to unbridged rivers and nullas where the grades are 1 in 18.

(7) The construction of the proposed extension of the Daltonganj-Hussainabad road to the bank of the Sone river at Dangwar could not be put in hand owing to the delay in the acquisition of the land required. The land acquisition estimate for the work amounting to Rs. 1,890 was sanctioned and made over to the Collector for defraying the cost of proceeding under the Act. A further sum of Rs. 45-5 was expended during the year in measuring the lands for acquisition. The budget grant for this work was Rs. 3,500 + Rs. 1,890 = Rs. 5,390.

(8) Construction of a 7-feet culvert on the 21st mile of the Daltonganj-Maharajganj road at a cost of Rs. 233-9, against the allotment of Rs. 237. This work was taken in hand last year and reported as unfinished.

(9) A sum of Rs. 700 was sanctioned for constructing two pucka wells, one at Khamdihi on the 14th mile and the other at Chandwa on the 57th mile of Daltonganj towards Ranch road. The Khamdih well was completed during the year at a cost of Rs. 415-11-11. It is 28 feet deep, 6 feet internal diameter and is lined with pucka masonry laid in lime and soorkee mortar. The sinking of the well at Chandwa was not commenced during the year.

(10) Construction of a Jail Magazine at a cost of Rs. 407-1-4, against an allotment of Rs. 410. The unexpended balance of Rs. 2-14-8 was refunded, as per order of the Government of Bengal contained in their letter No. 1397B., dated the 18th March 1895.

(11) Providing wire-netting to the record-room of the Deputy Commissioner's office. The amount expended was Rs. 46-15-6, against the sanctioned grant of Rs. 47.

(12) Constructing a pucka drain at the side of the Jail enclosure at Daltonganj at a cost of Rs. 125.

(13) Construction of the Registration office building at a cost of Rs. 3,035-0-1 including the cost of providing a light-terraced inner roof to the record-room of the building. The sanctioned grant was Rs. 3,043.

(14) Effecting improvements in the cess-pool arrangements of the Jailor's quarters at Daltonganj. Sanctioned allotment, Rs. 22, which was expended.

(15) Making additions and alterations to the old Cutcherry building at Daltonganj. The cost was Rs. 376-12-11, against Rs. 385, the budget grant.

4. Repairs, District Roads.—Of the 305¼ miles of fair weather roads in the district, 284¼ miles are of class III and 21 miles are of class V. This is exclusive of the 9 miles of the Gurwa-Sirguja road (class III) constructed during the year. The total expenditure on 284¼ miles of roads of class III during the year was Rs. 9,179, as against Rs. 8,857 of the previous year, or an average of Rs. 32 per mile, as against Rs. 31 in the year 1893-94. The principal items of work executed in repairing the roads were—

(a) Executing surface repairs and maintaining new surface in fair order.

(b) New drain cutting where the road is in surface to improve drainage, specially in steep grades and in cuttings.

(c) Regrading some of the steep approaches to beds of unbridged streams.

(d) Rebuilding temporary jungle wood culverts which had collapsed or been washed away during the rains.

(e) Petty repairs to a few pucka culverts that exist and jungle clearing from banks and slopes.

(f) Gravel patch repairs to the first four miles (which are gravelled) of each of the three principal roads leading out of Daltonganj.

(g) Pruning road-side trees, dishing the earth at their bases and otherwise maintaining them in fair order, and putting new and improved gabions to trees.

5. Repairs, Village roads.—The expenditure on 25½ miles of village roads was Rs. 275, against Rs. 518 of the previous year, or an average of Rs. 11 per mile, against Rs. 17 per mile in the year before. This comparatively small expenditure on village roads was due to a member not being able to spend the advance made to him.

6. The total expenditure incurred during the year on "Repairs" was Rs. 12,226-12, against Rs. 9,360 during the previous year.

7. Arboriculture.—An allotment of Rs. 300 was made during the year for arboriculture, against Rs. 100 in the previous year. The total number of road-side trees was 1,700, as against 1,400 in the year before, and the number protected by substantial bamboo gabions was 933, against 408 in the previous year. The Nursery garden at Daltonganj was maintained with over 200 seedlings. Expenditure, Rs. 299-8.

8. Public Works Establishment.—The Public Works of the district were throughout the year in charge of the District Engineer assisted by a Sub-Overseer. The relative expenditure on works and repairs compared with the expenditure on establishment employed on roads is shown below:—

District	Year.	Revenue.	Amount spent on original works including Tolls Ferry Establishment.	Amount spent on repairs.	Total expenditure on original works and repairs. 9. Tools and plant.—The expenditure under this head was Rs. 232-14-1.

10. Staging Bungalow Establishment and Contingencies.—A sum of Rs. 710-5-3 was expended during the year in keeping the bungalows in good condition.

11. Staging Bungalow Petty Construction and Repairs.—A sum of Rs 496-10-11 was spent in executing repairs to staging bungalows at Daltonganj, Kajri, Manka, Chandwa, Balumath, Patki, Latiahar and Bogasi out of a budget grant of Rs. 500. Besides the above, eight ghatwali police bungalows made over to the District Road Committee for Inspection Bungalows were reconstructed at a cost of Rs. 2,069-2-11.

12. Accounts.—The accounts of the Committee's office are kept under the direct supervision of the Chairman. These accounts as well as those of the District Engineer's office were audited monthly by the standing sub-committee consisting of the Vice-Chairman and two other English-knowing members. The accounts up to the month of December 1894 were examined by the Local Auditor in the month of February last, the result of which was satisfactory.

RAKHAL MOHAN BANERJEE,

For Chairman, District Road Committee, Palamau.

Abstract of the Report by the Chairman, District Road Committee of Manbhum, on the operations of the District Road Fund of the district for the year 1894-95.

[Vide letter No. $\frac{D\ R.}{68}$, dated 8th June 1895, from L. F. Morshead, Esq., C.S., Chairman to the Commissioner, Chota Nagpur Division.]

1. Working of the Committee.—During the year under report the Committee held 14 meetings for the transaction of their business, and at all of them a sufficient number of members was present to form a quorum.

Mr. N. Warde-Jones, Subdivision Officer of Gobindpur, was Chairman of the Branch Road Committee. No meetings were held during the year under report. There are no funds placed in the hands of the Branch Committee for allotment to necessitate the holding of meetings, either to look after its distribution or its expenditure, &c. The estimates are drawn up by the District Engineer and passed by the Chairman of the District Road Committee. The Chairman of the Branch Committee appoints contractors to carry out the estimated works After the contractors' work is checked and accepted by the District Engineer, the bills are passed for payment by the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Branch Road Committee. There are no separate allotments as in other districts for village roads apparently owing to there being no necessity for the same.

RECEIPTS.

2. Working of the Cess Act IX of 1880.—The demands, collections and balances of Road and Public Works Cesses for the year 1894-95 are shown in the following statement:—

NAME OF DISTRICT.	Arrears outstanding from last year.	Demand for the year.	Total of columns 2 and 3.	Previously paid in advance for the present year.	Net demand.	Collected on account of arrears during the year.	Collection on account of current year made within the year.	Collected in advance on account of future years.	Total collection.	Gross balance.	Remissions.	Net balance.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
Manbhum	Rs. 6,087	Rs. 78,137	Rs. 84,224	Rs.	Rs. 84,224	Rs. 5,993	Rs. 55,320	Rs. 11	Rs. 61,323	Rs. 22,912	Rs. 765	Rs. 22,147

The outstanding balance of the year 1893-94 was Rs. 6,087 (viz., Rs. 5,766 as shown in column 13 of the previous year's statement, and Rs. 321 added to it on account of arrears of cess realized from Messrs. R. Watson and Company for their jungles in pargana Burrabhum for the years 1891-92, 1892-93 and 1893-94, after the decisions of their appeals by the Commissioner), and the demand for the year 1894-95 was Rs. 78,137 against Rs. 24,199 (outstanding balance), and Rs. 68,831 (demands), respectively, for the previous year. There was an increase of Rs. 9,306 on account of the revaluation of the eight revenue-paying estates, and also on account of the assessment of certain coal mines and quarries newly opened during the year. The collections for the year were Rs. 61,323, against Rs. 87,210 of the previous year, showing a decrease of 25,887. The percentage of the total collection on the total demand is 72·89. The deficient collection is due to the large amount of arrears from the Pachete estate. The Raja is not in the habit of paying his cesses until his property is held up to sale. The large amount due for the March kist could not therefore be realized during the year. The gross outstanding balance of the year was Rs. 22,912, of which Rs. 765 have been remitted by order of the Commissioner. The total amount placed in the hands of the District Road Committee, consisting of road cess and other petty miscellaneous collections, and the expenditure during the year under report are shown below:—

Receipts.

	Rs.
Road cess collections ...	30,662
Other collections and contributions.	6,930
Total ...	37,592

Expenditure.

	Rs.
Establishment	11,041
Original work ...	1,318

Total ...	38,083

Besides the above, the Government contributed Rs. 13,000 (lately reduced to Rs. 12,900) for the maintenance of the two Provincial roads, the whole amount of which is spent on the roads and nothing is left for establishment. There is only one Sub-Overseer on Rs. 35 who is directly paid by Government.

EXPENDITURE.

3. Original Works —(a) Communication.—The budget grant under this head was Rs. 2,000, viz., Rs. 1,500 towards the construction of a third class road from Balrampore to Bagmoondi (the total estimated cost of which is Rs. 17,056 sanctioned by Government, vide Bengal Government, Public Works Department, letter No. 2267C., dated 11th April 1893), and Rs. 500 for surveying and levelling a feeder road from Chandil Railway Station to the border of the district in the direction of Bundu in Lohardaga. The actual expenditure on the former was Rs. 1,306 during the year under report. The total payments made for this work up to 31st March 1895 was Rs. 2,958 (of which Rs. 1,306 were paid within 1894-95), against a budget grant of Rs. 5,000, viz, Rs. 3,500 for 1893-94 and Rs. 1,500 for 1894-95. The budget grant, Rs. 3,500, for 1893-94 included Rs. 2,500, a contribution expected from Government. This contribution was received in July 1894. The work had to be stopped for the greater part of the season and could not be taken in hand till after the harvesting of the winter rice crop, as no land was acquired for the construction of the road. As regards the other work, viz., the surveying of the Chandil-Bundu Road, no payment was made, except Rs. 12 (wages of a peon for 2 months), as the surveyor to whom this work was given on contract, fell ill and could not do much work within the year.

(b) Buil'dings.—
(c) Sanitation.—
(d) Miscellaneous.— } Nothing was done under these heads during the year under report.

4. Repairs—Government Roads.—There are two Provincial Roads under the Committee with a total length of about 59 miles, of which one (Purulia-Barakar Road), 42 miles in length, is metalled, and the other (Chass-Goolbera Road), 17 miles in length, is kutcha. The annual Government grant for their up-keep is Rs. 13,000. The total amount spent on them during the year was Rs. 14,527, being Rs. 10,328 for works executed during the year under report, and Rs. 4,199 for the previous year. A detailed statement of the amount spent is given below :—

Repairs, District Roads.—The total expenditure for repairs to district roads of all classes, during the year under report, was Rs. 22,388 against a budget grant of Rs. 24,424. The former includes payments made during the year for works executed in the preceding year. The actual expenditure on works done during the year under report was Rs. 12,850. Though most of the works were completed within the year, payments could not be made partly on account of the length of the roads in charge of each subordinate, being more than they could properly manage, and partly on account of the senior Sub-Overseer being absent on leave for three months during the last working season. A statement showing the expenditure on each class of road is given below:—

The operations of the year were almost entirely restricted to the maintenance of the several roads and petty improvements to road surface and approaches to unbridged nalas. The following deserve particular mention:—

(1) Road No. 9 (Balrampore-Burrabazar road) was improved by gravelling the kutcha portion of the road.

(2) Besides the above, 30 miles of road were improved by gravel work, viz., 10½ miles of 2nd class, 14 miles of 3rd class and 5½ miles of 4th class roads.

(3) Some of the banks and approaches to unbridged nalas in road No. 10 (Raghunath pur-Hazaribagh road) were improved.

(4) Some of the banks and cuttings in road No. 27 (Jargo-Bagmundi road), the improvement of which was taken in hand during the preceding year to give employment to the labouring class of people in the locality through which the road passes, were properly adjusted.

Repairs, Buildings.—Besides the inspection bungalows and rest-houses in the several roads, the only other buildings in charge of the District Road Committee are the cart serais. These were maintained properly and kept up in good condition.

5. Working establishment.—During the year under report there has been no material change of the Executive Establishment of the Committee, excepting that an additional clerk on a salary of Rs. 20 per month was appointed under the District Engineer of Manbhum.

6 Arboriculture.—The work done under this head out of the District Road Fund was generally restricted to the maintenance of the nursery seedlings started last year in the Town Hall compound and the young trees (75 in number) planted in and around the compound, as well as the plantation of 170 young trees with gaps in the avenues in some of the Station Roads. The old established trees (2,422 in number) along these roads were also taken care of. The total expenditure on this work was Rs. 184 against a budget grant of Rs. 300.

On the Provincial roads under the Committee, the work done under this head consisted of the following in addition to the maintenance of the five nurseries of seedlings started in the preceding year in the compounds of the inspection bungalows.

(1) Chass-Goolbera road.—557 young trees of sizes were maintained and 231 were planted during the year to complete the avenue in the portion of the road under plantation.

(2) In the 1st section of the Purulia-Barakar road.—127 established trees (five more than in the preceding year) and 647 young trees were maintained carefully, and 146 young trees were planted to fill up gaps.

(3) In the 2nd section of the Purulia-Barakar road.—937 established trees (64 more than in the preceding year) and 761 young trees of sizes were carefully maintained, and 329 young trees were planted to fill up the gaps.

NAVIN KRISHNA BANERJEE,
Vice-Chairman, District Road Committee, Manbhum.

PURULIA,
The 12th June 1895.

Abstract of the Report by the Chairman, District Road Committee of Singhbhum, on the operations of the District Road Fund of the district during the year 1894-95.

[Vide letter No. 86R.C., dated 16th May 1895, from C. H. Bompas, Esq., C.S., Chairman to the Commissioner, Chota Nagpur Division.]

Committee's meetings.

1. There were nine meetings of the Committee, in all of which a quorum was obtained, the average attendance being 5·7 against 5·2 in the preceding year. The percentage of average attendance during the year under review was 57·00 against 52·00 in the previous year. As the resident members of Dhalbhum failed to take sufficient interest in the working of the Act, the Committee was reconstituted, and a few pleaders of the local bar representing the Ranees and other tenure-holders of Dhalbhum were appointed as members of the Committee, with the sanction of Government, during the year under report.

RECEIPTS.

2. The Working of the Cess Act.—The cess was levied in pargana Dhalbhum at the maximum rate of half-anna or six pies per rupee on the annual value of lands and net profits from stone quarries and jungles. The demand on account of cess on lands and quarries and jungles during the year under report was Rs. 4,738 [including Rs. 118, being the road cess due to the Collector of Midnapore for that portion of Dhalbhum (Taraf Porihaty) which lies within the fiscal jurisdiction of the Midnapore district], against the actual demand of Rs. 4,741 in the previous year. The decrease of Rs. 3 is due to the reduction in the annual demand of quarries and jungles assessable under Chapter V of the Cess Act. The year commenced with an arrear balance of Rs. 88. This, together with Rs. 4,738, the demand for the year, gave a total of Rs. 4,826 for collection within the year under report. Of this sum, Rs. 4,707 were collected within the year under report (Rs. 10 on account of arrear and Rs. 4,697 out of the current demand). Out of the current collection, Rs. 4,697, Rs. 118 was remitted to the Collector of Midnapore on account of road cess due to him for 1894-95. Thus the balance outstanding at the close of the year, deducting remission of Rs. 69 (sanctioned in Commissioner's letter Nos. 53R.C. and 84R.C., dated the 4th and 24th May 1894, respectively) was Rs. 50 (Rs. 9 old arrears and Rs. 41 current balance). All possible endeavours were made to get the balance realized through the peons within the year, but without success. There is a tendency among the quarry and a few jungle tenure-holders of Dhalbhum to put off payment until Certificate Act is put into force. A portion of the outstanding balance, including cost, has since been covered by certificates. The percentage of total collections on gross demand is 97·54, or deducting the remission the percentage will be 98·95.

The total receipts of Rs. 14,795 under 'cess on lands,' 'mines,' 'quarries,' and 'jungles,' 'Government grant' and a few other 'miscellaneous subheads,' together with the opening balance of Rs. 4,381, gave the total income of Rs. 19,176 available for expenditure during the year under report.

The following table compares the opening balance, receipts, charges and closing balance of the year under report with those of the two preceding years:—

	1892-93.	1893-94.	1894-95.	REMARKS.

	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Opening balance ...	3,136	5,413	4,381	The closing balance of the year under report is less than those of the two previous years. The reason for this is that pension and collection establishment cost for 3 years were met from revenue of the year.

EXPENDITURE.

3. Original Works.—The total expenditure incurred was Rs. 5,084 against the estimated cost of Rs. 6,022. The following original works were executed during the year under report:—

(a) Gravelling heavy portions of roads of an aggregate length of five miles at a cost of Rs. 2,546.

(b) Ramps of nalas on the Chaibassa-Amda feeder road, No. 4, class III, were cut at a cost of Rs. 766.

(c) The diversion road at Maniokqui ghat on the Chaibassa-Subarnarekha river road has been nearly completed during the year under report. The most important and difficult portion of the work, viz., rock-cutting, has been finished. The only work that remains to be done is the turfing of the side slopes of the road in bank. Instead of cutting ramps in the approaches to the Chepo nala on the south end of the diversion, it was considered advisable, with the approval of the Superintending Engineer, to make a wooden platform bridge having rubble masonry piers and abutments with rolled joist beams at a cost of about Rs. 900. As the Raja Bahadur of Seraikela, in whose elaka the road is, refused to help us with necessary wood-work available in the locality, he was requested to subscribe a moiety of the total estimated amount (Rs. 450). But the Raja Bahadur gave Rs. 120 only for the construction of the bridge The work will be taken in hand as soon as funds are available.

(d) The masonry bridge at Ghatsilla on the 51st mile of the Chaibassa-Bend road, which was undertaken in 1893-94, has been almost finished. The bridge will be greatly beneficial to traffic during the rains. The total expenditure incurred up to date is Rs. 2,538 against Rs. 3,014, the estimated cost.

(e) Construction of rough wooden culverts on the Dudkurhi-Kamararha (old Sambalpur) road was taken up and the cost incurred in the works was Rs. 114 against an estimated cost of Rs. 618.

(f) As directed by the Commissioner, the Juggernathpur-Goilkera feeder road was taken in hand and a sum of Rs. 10 was spent in survey operation on a portion of the road during the year under report.

(g) Varieties of young plants were obtained from the Superintendent of the Botanical Gardens, and planted along the road sides during the rains at a cost of Rs. 246. Owing to the close supervision by the District Engineer, these plants have grown up well.

4. Repairs.—The amount spent under this subhead was Rs. 5,460 (including Rs. 232 for maintaining old trees) on the following roads:—

(a) 104 miles of unmetalled but bridged roads at Rs. 2,085, being Rs. 20·05 per mile.
(b) 69½ miles of roads with temporary bridges at Rs. 1,050, being Rs. 15·10 per mile.
(c) 256½ miles of surface tracks at Rs. 1,806, being Rs. 7·04 per mile.
(d) 51 miles of village roads at Rs. 227, being Rs. 5·63 per mile.

In many places the gravel had to be renewed and the aggregate length thus renewed was about a mile. Several low portions of the roads were raised and rain-damages repaired with earth. The following village roads, aggregating about 51 miles in length, have been repaired and made passable for cart traffic at a total cost of Rs. 287:—

5. Working Establishment.—The following establishment was employed on the design and construction of works:—

1. District Engineer.
2. Sub-Overseer.

There was no change under this head during the year under report, except that the Sub-Overseer was succeeded by a new man qualified under the rules.

6. Tools and Plant.—The expenditure under this head amounted to Rs. 97, viz., Rs. 14 for purchasing measuring tapes and Rs. 83 for purchasing office furniture.

7. Petty Construction and Repairs.—The rest-house at Ghatsilla on the 50th mile of the Chaibassa Bend road was improved with additions and alterations, and the thatched roof was replaced by a tiled one. All the other rest-houses were kept in fair order with the limited means available. The total cost incurred under this head was Rs. 782, which includes Rs. 14, being half the cost of repairing the office building recovered from the Chaibassa Municipality.

8 Provident Fund.—Three of the employés under the Committee, viz., (1) the District Engineer, (2) Sub-Overseer, and (3) the Accountant, contribute to this fund. The District Engineer's office clerks' services under the Committee date from before the 1st April 1887. He is therefore eligible for pension under the pension rules sanctioned by Government in its letter No. 5327L.S.-G., dated the 12th November 1894.

9. Suspense Account, Advances.—The advances made both to the contractors and for Departmental works during the year under report were Rs. 2,231. Out of this sum Rs. 2,080 were fully recovered and adjusted within the year. The balance outstanding at the close of the year was Rs. 151, which will be recovered as soon as the work for which the advance was made is completed and measured up.

10. The following statement compares the revenue of the Committee (excluding advances and deposits), the expenditure on original and repair works, and on the executive establishment employed on works, the percentage cost of such establishment on the amount spent on works, as also the percentage of total expenditure on works, including establishment calculated on the revenue :—

11. Accounts.—The accounts of the Committee's office, as well as those of the District Engineer's, were kept under the direct control of the Vice-Chairman and the District Engineer, respectively, during the year under review. These accounts were, as usual, audited by a Sub-Committee appointed under section 174 of the Cess Act. The Local Examiner of Accounts, Mr. Robertson, inspected the system of keeping accounts and registers, and gave instructions to the office on several points and took notes of the forms in use under the Committee. The Local Auditor also examined the accounts of the District Engineer and the Committee's office on the 3rd April 1895. The District Engineer's office was also inspected by the Superintending Engineer, Western Circle, during the year under report. The annual accounts were duly examined and certified by the Sub-Committee of audit and approved of at a special meeting of the Singhbhum District Road Committee, held on the 16th May 1895.

HARI NATH ROY, Vice-Chairman.

C. H. BOMPAS, Chairman, District Road Cess Committee.

No. 2023J., dated Bhagalpur, the 11th September 1895.

From—G. TOYNBEE, Esq., Commissioner of the Bhagalpur Division and Sonthal Parganas,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit herewith the annual report on the administration of the District Road Fund in the Sonthal Parganas for the year 1894-95. The annual accounts are also herewith submitted.

2. The Road Cess Act is not in force in this District. The Deputy Commissioner exercises the powers of a District Road Committee.

3. The District Road Fund is composed of grants from Government plus a few items of miscellaneous receipts. The year opened with an unexpended balance of Rs. 19,094, against one of Rs. 22,079 in the previous year.

4. Financial results.—The following statements show the income and expenditure of the years 1893-94 and 1894-95 under the several heads :—

	1893-94.	1894-95.

RECEIPTS.

5. Ferry tolls.—A sum of Rs. 218 was received on account of the rent of ferries in the Damin-i-koh, in the Rajmahal subdivision, and was credited to the District Road Account under a misapprehension. It has been refunded to Government during the current year.

6. Miscellaneous receipts.—The donation of Rs. 1,000 by Raja Ram Narayan Singh of Khaira for the improvement of the Sivaganga tank at Deoghar, and of Rs. 2,500 by Thakurburm, zamindar of Mahagama, for the construction of a masonry bridge over the Hahajore stream crossing the Godda and Pirpainti road swelled the income under this head in the year 1893-94, and the absence of such receipts, during the year under review, is the cause of decrease in the last year.

7. Grant from Government —The increase under this head is chiefly owing to the additional grant of Rs. 10,000 made in Government letter No. 228C., dated the 14th January 1895.

8. Land Revenue.—This is a new heading opened under the orders contained in Government, Financial Department, letter No. 47F., dated the 8th January 1895. The grant under this head for works of improvement in Government Estates was Rs. 15,434 (exclusive of a sum of Rs. 150 refunded by the Revd. Mr. Blaich of Taljhari on account of the amount paid to him for Sonthal emigration), against Rs. 15,432 in the year 1893-94.

9. Suspense Accounts —The amount of advances recovered during the year was Rs. 18,966, against Rs. 19,118 in the previous year. A sum of Rs. 600 on account of deposits is also included under this head.

EXPENDITURE.

10. As noted in paragraph 5 of the report for 1893-94, Rs. 82, credited to the District Road Account under a misapprehension, was refunded to Government in March 1895.

11. Stationery and Printing.—The decrease of Rs. 101 in the expenditure incurred under this head is owing to the fact that in the last year there was no demand from the Secretariat for the payment of expenditure incurred for printing annual report, and no charges were incurred for supplying tracing cloth to the District Engineer as in the year 1893-94.

12. Public Works.—The decrease in expenditure under this head of Rs. 3,211 is owing to the fact that the Forest Officer was absent from Katikund during the greater portion of last year, and consequently the amount provided for Miscellaneous Public Improvements in the Dumka portion of the Damin-i-koh could not be all spent. The decrease is also due to "Repairs" not having been duly executed to the amount of the sanctioned allotment.

13. Miscellaneous.—The increase under this head of Rs. 1,318 is due to the writing off of Rs. 1,261 on account of balances of advance outstanding in the hands of the Subdivisional Officers of Rajmahal (Rs. 893) and Godda (Rs. 368) at the end of the year 1893-94. Some of these advances date back as far as 1887. The European and native gentlemen entrusted with the expenditure of the money have now left the above subdivisions without rendering final accounts. The Subdivisional Officers believe that the money was spent on roads to the best advantage, and I saw no advantage in keeping the amount outstanding against them, though I considered that the Subdivisional Officers concerned were to blame for not having insisted on timely adjustment. The increase is also due to the purchase of cooking utensils for the Dumka and furniture for the Sahebganj staging bungalows.

14. Suspense Accounts.—The amounts advanced to the Subdivisional Officers and others for work and not adjusted during the year was Rs. 14,534, against Rs. 17,709 in the previous year. The expenditure of Rs. 14,762, shown under this head in the table given in paragraph 4, includes Rs. 228 on account of refund of the security deposit to a contractor.

15. The following statement compares the expenditure incurred during the year on account of Public Works with that of the previous year :—

Year.	Original Work.	Repair.	Establishment.	Tools and Plant.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1893-94	18,462	44,583	7,464	690	71,199
1894-95	19,095	39,847	8,417	632	67,991
	+633	—4,736	+953	—58	—3,208

The small increase of Rs. 633 under the head "Original Works" calls for no explanation. The decrease under the head "Repairs" has already been explained in paragraph 12 of this report. The increase under the head "Public Works Establishment" is owing to the payment of salary and allowance to the Public Works sub-overseer lent by Government to this District and to the larger expenditure incurred in the payment of the travelling allowance of the District Engineer and others. The decrease of Rs. 58 under the head "Tools and Plant" requires no explanation.

16. The percentage of the cost of establishment is 12·3, against 10·4 in the previous year. The cause of this increase is indicated in paragraph 15.

17. The principal original works executed during the year are briefly described below :—

From the District Road Fund.

(1) Construction of a bridge over the Ranibahal stream on the 86th mile of the road No. 1 from Bhagalpur to Soory with 4 spans of 10 feet each having segmental arches and wholly made of first class rubble masonry at a cost of Rs. 2,138.

(2) Completion of a rubble masonry bridge over the Murjora Channel on the 87th mile of road No. 1 of 2 spans of 15 feet each with segmental arches at a cost of Rs 969.

(3) The causeway over the Ramgurh stream on the 21st mile of road No. 2 Dumka to Ramgurh was widened during the year, giving a clear roadway of 15 feet 10 inches wide at a cost of Rs. 768; the roadway (10 feet), it provided before, was too narrow for the heavy traffic on this road.

(4) For the same reason, the bridge over the Sunamjore stream on the 23rd mile of road No. 2 was also widended at a cost of Rs. 694.

(5) The work of improving the Harindanga and Dhulian road No. 10 (a) [described in Government letter No. 1946L.C., dated 20th April 1892, as the Pakour and Dhulian road] was taken in hand during the year under report, but owing to other more pressing requirements of the District, the Deputy Commissioner could not spare more than Rs. 5,000 for this work out of the additional grant of Rs. 10,000 made by Government.

(6) The construction of an inspection bungalow at Jamtara, sanctioned by Government No. 157T F. of 10th June 1893, was completed at a cost of Rs. 1,591.

(7) A sum of Rs. 1,184 was expended under the supervision of the Subdivisional Officer for the improvement of the inspection bungalow at Godda under the sanction quoted in (6) above.

From Land Revenue.

(8) The construction of two bridges on the Damin road from Godda to Simlong was completed during the year at a cost of Rs. 1,697. Both are built with rubble masonry piers and abutments and timber superstructure.

(9) A rubble masonry bridge of 2 spans of 17 feet each having segmental arches was built during the year under review on the 11th mile of road No. 4 Dumka to Pakour at a cost of Rs. 1,560.

Work done from private donations.

(10) The zamindar of Mahagama in the Godda subdivision in the year 1893-94 contributed a sum of Rs 2,500 for the construction of a masonry bridge of 3 spans of 10 feet each to prevent the Godda road being breached by the overflow of the Hahajore jheel in the Godda subdivision. The project also included the construction of a small bye-wash and sluice on either side of the jheel. About half of this work was done during the year.

Original Works from Public Works Fund.

(11) Among the works carried out from the Public Works Fund, the only one of importance was the construction of a condemned cell in the Dumka Intermediate Jail at a cost of Rs. 798.

18. Repairs.—All the roads entered in the Schedule, except the Kumrabad road No. 19, which is maintained by a zamindar, were repaired during the year. There are about 770 miles of roads, of which 183 are metalled and 587 unmetalled. Out of these 587 miles, 17½ miles are village roads. The cost of maintenance per mile of the different classes of roads is noted below :—

	Cost of repairs.	Cost per mile.
	Rs.	Rs. A.
183 miles of metalled roads	15,766	86 0
567½ miles of unmetalled roads	13,166	23 0
17½ miles of village roads	405	22 8

19. Public Works Buildings.—The annual grant for the maintenance of the Government buildings is Rs. 6,245, of which Rs. 799 is for Imperial and Rs. 5,446 for Provincial buildings. There was an unexpended balance of Rs. 1,131 at the end of the year 1893-94, i.e., Rs. 917 on account of Imperial and Rs. 214 on account of Provincial buildings. The total amount available for expenditure during the year was Rs. 7,376. The expenditure incurred during the year was Rs. 6,081 as follows, leaving a balance of Rs. 1,295:—

	Rs.
Imperial buildings	787
Provincial buildings	5,294
	6,081

20. Arboriculture.—Nothing was spent on new plantations during the year, the trees already planted were maintained at a cost of Rs. 537, against Rs. 702 in the previous year.

21. Closing balance.—There was a large closing balance of Rs. 23,764, owing to the failure of contractors and to the stopping of the construction of the Police building at Sahebganj at the request of the Police Department.

* * * * * * *

23. The principal works to be executed during the year 1895-96 are the following:—

(2) Construction of an Inspection Bungalow at Pakour	1,591

The decrease in receipts during the year 1894-95 was due to the fact that the amount of Government grants and the opening balance were less than those of the year 1893-94. Besides there were receipts under heads 'Miscellaneous' and 'Advances,' amounting to Rs. 225 in the latter year, whereas the receipts under such heads in the former amounted to Re. 1 only. The decrease in expenditure was consequent upon the decrease in receipts as well as upon a less amount being expended under the several subheads of works.

EXPENDITURE.

2. Of the gross expenditure of the year, viz. Rs. 36,116-4-8, Rs. 35,007-14-11 represent, as shown in accounts, the expenditure on Public Works, which is detailed below :—

Works.	Repairs.	Total works and repairs.	Establishment.	Tools and plant.	Percentage of the cost of establishment on the outlay on works and repairs.

3. Besides the expenditure of Rs. 28,100-15-1 on works and repairs, a sum of Rs. 1,000 was expended during the year from the funds supplied by the District Board of Chittagong, on the maintenance of their portion of the Chittagong-Fort Haka road, and shown in the accounts under the sub-head 'Deposits.' If this amount be added to the Rs. 28,100-15-1 alluded to above, the total expenditure on works and repairs during the year amounts to Rs. 29,100-15-1, and the percentage of the cost of establishment on this outlay would be 23·18.

4. The narrative report on the Original Works executed during the year is as follows :—

I. Constructing light sawn timber bridges along the 1st section of the Chittagong and Fort Haka road, lying between Raogan and Rangamati.—An allotment of Rs. 2,494 was made in the budget estimate for constructing 12 sawn timber bridges along this road Ten of these were constructed at a cost of Rs. 2,224-4. The construction of the remaining two of 20 feet each was not considered necessary, as the streams are not deep and the beds are always very hard.

II. Constructing sawn timber bridges along the 2nd section of the above road between Rangamati and Tegga.—No provision was made in the Provincial budget estimate for this work. An estimate amounting to Rs. 2,934 was, however, submitted in August 1894, and it was sanctioned in letter No. 5212C., dated 13th November 1894, from the Secretary, Government of Bengal, Public Works Department. The estimated quantity of work was executed with an excess charge of annas four only.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th January, 1896:—

No. 3 of 1896.

A Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure.

XIV of 1882. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Code of Civil Procedure; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Title and commencement.

1. (a) This Act may be called the Civil Procedure Amendment Act, 1896; and (b) It shall come into force on the first day of March, 1896.

Amendment of section 195, Act XIV, 1882.

2. For the first paragraph of section 195 the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"195. In any ex parte suit, in any non-contentious proceeding and upon an application in any suit or proceeding, evidence may be given by affidavit, but the Court may order the attendance for cross-examination of the declarant."

Evidence in certain suits.

Amendment of section 235.

3. In section 235, after the words "or by the attachment of his property," the following shall be inserted:—

"or by the attachment and sale of his property."

Substitution of new section for section 289.

4. For section 289 the following shall be substituted.—

"289. The proclamation shall be made in manner prescribed by section 274 and shall, whenever the decree-holder shall so apply, be made simultaneously with the attachment. A copy of such proclamation shall be served upon the judgment-debtor in the manner prescribed for the service of summons or upon his pleader if he shall have appointed any in the execution proceeding.

Mode of making proclamation.

"The Local Government may make provision and rules for the advertisement of the property, if of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, in a local Gazette for each district or group of districts. When such provision and rules shall have been made for any district or group of districts, the property shall be advertised in the local Gazette of such district or group, and costs of the advertisement shall be deemed to be costs of the sale. But, until such provision and rules shall have been made, the Court may direct that the property shall be advertised in the local official Gazette or in a local newspaper, the costs of such advertisement being costs of the sale."

Addition of new chapter after section 653.

5. After section 653 the following sections shall be added:—

"CHAPTER L.

"SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS.

Applications for stay of proceedings in certain suits.

"654. In any suit for the institution of which a previous notice is necessary under any law in force, if the defendant shall raise a question regarding the service or legality of notice, the plaintiff may apply that the proceedings in the suit be stayed for such period as may give the defendant time not less than the time for which he is entitled to have notice.

Stay of proceedings.

"655. The Court shall, upon such application, stay proceedings in the suit for such period as may give the defendant time not less than the time for which he is entitled to have notice.

"Upon the expiration of such period, the defendant may elect either to make a fresh defence to the action or to confess judgment and place at the disposal of the Court for delivery to the plaintiff the property or money claimed.

Costs in such suits.

"656. If the defendant shall confess judgment and place at the disposal of the Court the property or money claimed, the Court shall not award any costs against him.

"If the defendant shall make a defence, the Court shall not allow any question regarding, or depending upon, the service or legality of notice to be raised in the suit, but shall decide the other points, if any, in issue between the parties. If the Court shall decide in favour of the plaintiff, it shall provide that its decree shall take effect from such date as may be just under the circumstances of the case."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE amendments which this Bill proposes to make in the Code of Civil Procedure are not only expedient, but some of them seem to be absolutely necessary.

I. The first amendment is of section 195, under which evidence by affidavit could be given upon applications. The amendment will enable the Court to receive evidence by affidavit in ex parte suits and non-contentious proceedings. In the High Court, evidence by affidavit is received in non-contentious proceedings for the grant of probate or letters of administration. There is no reason why evidence by affidavit may not be given in all ex parte suits and non-contentious proceedings, subject always to the discretion of the Court to require the attendance of the declarants for cross-examination.

II. The next two amendments may be considered together. At present there is no provision in the Procedure Code for the simultaneous issue of the process of attachment and proclamation as there is in section 163 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. The amendments will enable the decree-holder to apply for the attachment and sale of the debtor's property and for the simultaneous issue of the processes thereof and save the cost and delay of successive service.

The next provision is for the service of proclamation upon the judgment-debtor. The framers of the Procedure Code were probably of opinion that proclamation upon the property was a sufficient notice to him. But the service of such proclamation is often a matter of considerable doubt and controversy and, even when bonâ fide made, would not apprise the judgment-debtor of the intended sale, if he did not reside in the neighbourhood. The Civil Procedure Amendment Act, 1894, renders it almost indispensable that the judgment-debtor should have notice of sale in order that he might take steps for setting it aside within thirty days from its date by depositing the amount due under the decree and 5 per cent. compensation for the purchaser.

The second paragraph of the amended section 289 enables the Local Government to provide and make rules for the advertisement of property in a local Gazette which should be in the language of the district and advertise all land-sales by public auction whether by order of Civil Courts or Revenue-authorities. The ancient primitive method of proclamation by beat of drum is wholly inadequate, and requires to be supplemented by advertisement in a local Gazette always open and available to the land-buying public.

III. The rule of giving notice prior to the institution of suits seems to be wholly unsuited to this country, where its tendency is clearly mischievous and to seriously handicap justice. It raises an artificial preliminary issue between the parties and puts the real issues in the background. It is a lamentable sight to see suits thrown out under the rule. The supplemental provisions which it is proposed to add will take off its sting, and will, while giving the defendant every advantage which he has under the rule, save suits from dismissal without trial upon the merits. The Court will now say to him: "You say you are entitled to six months' notice and such notice has not been given. Well, we will stay the suit for you for six months. All this time the property will remain in your possession, and all this time you will have for considering and maturing your defence, if you think fit to make any. If you have no good defence, you can confess judgment and place the property in the hands of the Court for delivery to the plaintiff, and then there will be no costs against you. In fact, you will have everything that you may fairly claim, short of getting a dismissal of the suit without trial and a field day with witnesses over the question of notice."

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th January, 1896:—

NO. 4 OF 1896.

A Bill to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1877, and the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

1877. 1872. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1877, and the Indian Evidence Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Registration Act Amendment Act; and (2) It shall come into force on the first day of January, 1897.

Amendment of section 33, Act III, 1877. 2. In section 33 (a), for the words "and authenticated by the Registrar or Sub Registrar within whose district or sub-district the principal resides," the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"authenticated by any Registrar or Sub-Registrar."

Insertion of new section after section 47 of said Act. 3. The following shall be inserted after section 47, namely:—

Effect of document first registered. "47A. But, if more than one document be executed by the same executant in respect of the same property, the document first registered shall take effect against any document subsequently registered, though executed on a prior date."

Amendment of section 90, Act I, 1872. 4. In section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, I of 1872. after the words "where any document purporting or proved to be thirty years old," the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"or any document registered under the Indian Registration Act and more than twelve years old."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTION 33 (a) of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, as it now stands and as it is ordinarily construed, is productive of great inconvenience and hardship It frequently happens that the principal has to execute a power-of-attorney for the registration of a document when he is away from his residence or home and is for a time in another sub-district on business or for other cause. There is no good reason why he may not execute it before the sub-registrar of such sub-district and get it authenticated by him. The law makes it incumbent upon the executant to execute his power-of-attorney before a registering officer. He will never authenticate without being satisfied of the executant's identity. This acts as a sufficient safeguard, and the further provision which it is proposed to omit is an unnecessary restriction.

2. Section 47A, which it is proposed to add, is a very important and necessary provision. The present law, section 47, leaves a wide door open for the commission of fraud. A executes a transfer of his property to B, and does not immediately register the deed. The law allows four months, which may be extended under certain circumstances to eight months, for its registration, and, if executed out of British India, the registration may be deferred for years at the option of the parties. There is nothing to prevent A from again transferring the property to C within the time allowed for registering the first deed. If C made any enquiry in the registry office, he would obtain no information of the execution of the prior deed, and would be easily taken in. Under the present law, if the transfer in favour of B be afterwards registered, it will take effect against the deed in favour of C. In such cases there is generally some kind of understanding between the vendor and the first transferee. But it is very difficult to prove collusion between them, and the result of litigation between the rival purchasers generally is that the vendor sells his property twice over, and the second purchaser is completely sold This should not be. The section proposed to be added will, by giving priority to prior registration, prevent the commission of such fraud. There is a similar provision in the English Statute Law, 7 Anne, c. 20, and 38 & 39 Vict., c. 87, s. 28.

3. With regard to registered documents of a certain age, say, twelve years, when they are past the age of being questioned by suit, it is desirable that the Civil Court should have the power to use them as evidence without formal proof of execution. Prudent men of business generally rely and act upon registered documents without such formal proof. Why should not the Civil Court be at liberty to dispense with it, when it thinks fit to do so? If, however, a registered document be seriously impugned or be the subject of an issue in the cause, the Court will doubtless go into evidence upon it. This is exactly what the amendment provides. The expression "may presume" is thus defined in the Indian Evidence Act :—

"Whenever it is provided by this Act that the Court 'may presume' a fact, it may either regard such fact as proved, unless or until it is disproved, or may call for proof of it."

This presumption applies at present to all documents more than thirty years old, although they may have never seen the light until produced in Court. It is proposed to extend this presumption to registered documents of a less age but having a greater guarantee of authenticity by reason of registration. The proposed amendment, while it will simplify the procedure of the Court and save the recording of a lot of formal evidence, seems to be necessary in the interests of justice for the protection of purchasers at auction-sales, who have to depend chiefly upon certified copies of deeds from the registry office and find it extremely difficult to obtain evidence of their execution.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 685 of 1895) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals on the east coast of Mala (Malaita) island:—

1. A shoal, apparently coral, on which a sounding of 4¼ fathoms was obtained (possibly there may be less water), lies in the northern entrance to Maramisike passage, with Pyramid island bearing East, distant 1½ miles; and Annuta island about S. 25° W.

1. A shoal, of sand and coral, with depths of less than 5 fathoms on it, extends for a distance of 2 miles northward of the north point of Dulampiri, and has depths of 11 fathoms for a distance of half a mile further northward.

PACIFIC OCEAN—ISABELLA, WATERWITCH AND COMBE BANKS.

Banks north-west of Uea or Wallis islands.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 688 of 1895) that the following information respecting the Isabella and other banks in its vicinity, north-west of Uea or Wallis islands, has been received from Lieutenant and Commander J. W. Combe, H. M. Surveying Vessel Waterwitch:—

Isabella bank, on which a depth of 12 fathoms, coral, was found, is circular in shape and about 2 miles in diameter; its centre is approximately in lat. 12° 24′ S., long. 177° 26′ W.

Waterwitch bank, situated between the parallels of 12° 29′ and 12° 34′ South latitude, and the meridians of 176° 41′ and 176° 50′ West longitude, is of atoll-like formation, having a narrow rim of growing coral, with soundings of from 12 to 16 fathoms, all round its outer edge, and depths of 23 to 28 fathoms inside.

Combe bank, situated between the parallels of 12° 24′ and 12° 28′ South latitude, and the meridians of 177° 30′ and 177° 41′ West longitude, is a coral bank with from 14 to 22 fathoms over it. The soundings on this bank were not sufficient to decide whether it is of a similar formation to the Waterwitch bank, but the shoaler soundings are near the outer edge.

All these banks are "steep-to," with soundings of over 100 fathoms near their outer edges

CURRENT.—Whilst the Waterwitch was employed sounding these banks (September 1895) a slight current setting to the west-north-west was experienced. With a fresh trade wind this set was much increased and there was a troublesome sea in the neighbourhood.

Lights in connection with breakwater works.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 696 of 1895) that on 1st November 1895, the red light, previously shown at the extremity of the breakwater wharf, Ahuriri bluff would be discontinued; and the undermentioned lights would be exhibited from the breakwater works near Ahuriri bluff, Napier:—

1. A red light is shown from a red beacon, at an elevation of 25 feet above high water, in a position 146 feet from the eastern extremity of the breakwater wharf, or about N.-E. ¼ E. (N. 48° E.), nearly 2 cables distant, from the north-east extremity of Ahuriri bluff.

   Approximate position, lat. 39° 28′ 15″ S., long. 176° 57′ 5″ E.

The above lights or beacons in line, bearing S.-E. ¼ E, lead into the breakwater harbour.

The breakwater now extends about 2 cables beyond the red light or beacon (1), and the extremity of the rubble foundation about 3 cables beyond that light.

Vessels entering Napier harbour by day should keep well outside the breakwater works buoys, and those marking Auckland rocks. By night vessels should be in the white sector of Eastern pier light, bearing S.-W. before losing sight of Ahuriri bluff light, bearing S. by W.

The southern limit of the green light (2), E. ½ N., passes over the 3 fathoms limit of soundings between the breakwater and the entrance to port Napier.

NOTE.—A chart is in course of preparation, and will shortly be published, showing the breakwater works, &c., in the vicinity of Ahuriri bluff.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean at the numerical means average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question station in the district sending in return divided by the number of stations. Explanation.— .. indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least ·01 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 21st January 1896.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 18TH OF JANUARY 1896.

AT the beginning of the week under review the general meteorological conditions in Bengal were fairly normal in character. On the 12th of January, or the first day of the week under review, pressure in Bengal was rising slowly, while temperature was generally falling, and temperature was becoming rather largely below the normal, particularly in the night or minimum temperatures; a steady north-east monsoon wind current varying from westerly to north-easterly was blowing over the whole province; skies were also practically cloudless, and absolutely no rain was falling. In North-Western India, on the other hand, a barometric depression had entered from the westward, where it was giving disturbed weather. On the 13th the depression had moved in an easterly direction, and the centre was close to Meerut, but it was still too far distant from Bengal to affect the weather, though pressure was commencing to fall very slowly, while a decided increase of temperature was recorded; skies, however, still remained clear, and the whole province was rainless. On the 14th a further slow decrease of pressure had occurred in Bengal; temperature also had risen moderately and weather remained fine. The depression had again moved in a south-easterly direction and was shown over Oudh, but it was quickly filling up and had become of little importance. On the 15th the slight depression had passed over Bihar, but beyond again causing an increase in the temperature and a slight fall in the pressure it scarcely affected the weather in Bengal. On the 16th the depression was still over Bihar, but it was less strongly marked than on the 15th, and pressure was usually rising over the whole of Bengal, while a rapid increase of temperature, equalling in some cases 4° and 5°, had occurred, but still skies remained either cloudless or only lightly clouded, and the whole province was rainless. On the 17th the feeble depression still existed in Bihar, and a moderate fall of pressure occurred over Bengal, while temperature began to fall a little, and on the 18th again pressure rose slowly, and the depression practically disappeared, while temperature was generally distinctly above the normal. Throughout the whole week, however, skies have been only lightly clouded, or in many cases cloudless, while there has been a complete absence of rain.

Pressure.—The variation of the mean pressure of the week from the normal has been small, and about half the stations register slightly defective pressure and the other half slight excess amounts.

Temperature.—The general average mean temperature for the week has been 0·8° in defect, but the defect has been mainly confined to Orissa and South-West Bengal.

The actual average temperatures registered in the province for the week and their variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

EXPLANATION SHEET ATTACHED TO SCHEDULE OF NORMAL RATES OF PRICES, PREPARED BY THE DIRECTOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

N.B.—No rates are shown in the Schedule which are not averages of at least two quotations for the same month in different years.

Burdwan.—Prices-current papers for 1891 for Katwa subdivision are reported by the Collector to be not forthcoming Hence average of four years only, viz., 1892—95, have been shown for this mart.

Birbhum.—The Collector does not give the prices of common rice in Rampur Hat for July and October 1891 and for January 1892. The price of wheat in the same mart is shown only for January and April of 1891. The figures for barley and maize are also to a large extent wanting.

Bankura.—Quotations of prices are to a large extent wanting for barley and maize.

Hooghly.—The Collector furnishes no figures for 1891, and reports that the half-monthly returns of retail prices of that year were destroyed as "C" papers. The figures for the Sadar mart for 1891 have been filled in from the Gazette. Figures for barley are wanting to a large extent.

Howrah.—The quotations for rice are not complete, except for the Sadar mart, and for gram are also defective.

24-Parganas.—The Collector reports that the prices of food-grains of the Barasat, Magrahat, and Baduria marts for the years 1891 and 1892 could not be given as the fortnightly prices-current returns regarding these marts were discontinued until May 1892 under the Bengal Government Circular No. 7 Agri., dated 14th May 1891 (issued from the Revenue Department). The prices for the years 1888 and 1889 have been furnished instead, the year 1890 having been one of scarcity.

Nadia.—Prices for 1891 and part of 1892 have not been furnished in the case of the Ranaghat and Chuadanga marts, as the Collector reports the necessary papers were destroyed as "C" papers.

Murshidabad.—The Collector furnishes no figures for the Lalbagh mart and reports that, owing to the abolition of the Subdivisional office in 1892, no prices-current returns have been prepared for it since then.

Jessore.—The Collector gives figures for 1889 and for 1891 to 1895. When figures are available for 1891 to 1895, no figures are wanted for 1889. The latter have accordingly been rejected and the necessary corrections in calculation made in this office. Figures for the subdivisional marts for the year 1891 could not be furnished by Collector owing to destruction of returns as "C" papers. Averages of four years have been taken for the Provincial statement.

Khulna.—Only the price of rice is shown for the Bagirhat mart. Subdivisional prices previous to June 1892 are not forthcoming. Averages of four years have been taken in such cases.

Dinajpur.—The Collector furnishes figures for 1891 to 1895, but he has overlooked the fact that the year 1892 was a year of some scarcity. Relief operations were opened in 1892 in this district from January to July. The Collector's return shows, that prices ruled higher generally in 1892 than in other years of the five-year period 1891 to 1895. The prices of 1890 have been taken from the Gazette and substituted for those of 1892.

Jalpaiguri.—For the Alipur mart, the Deputy Commissioner furnishes figures only from October 1892, the date on which the record of prices-current was started in this mart.

Darjeeling.—Returns are not available in all cases for the year 1891, owing, it is stated, to the discontinuance of prices-current returns under Government orders. There were mistakes in the method of calculation in this return, which have been rectified in this office.

Rangpur.—Owing to destruction of "C" class papers, no figures have been furnished for Gaibanda for 1891, and the quotations are for four years only. For the Nilphamari mart, figures for 1890 have been substituted by the Collector for figures of 1892, owing, it is stated, to the high prices of food-grains in the latter year. From the Famine reports, it does not appear that Rangpur was visited by scarcity or famine in 1892, but the distress in Dinajpur in this year may have probably affected prices in Nilphamari. The Collector's figures for 1890, therefore, have been accepted.

Pabna.—The Collector reports that the figures for the years 1891 and 1892 of the Serajganj mart are not available, as no half-monthly returns of retail prices of that mart were prepared for those years. A few returns are wanting in the Sadar mart, which the Collector says is due to destruction of "C" class papers. These have been supplied from the Gazette.

Dacca.—Figures for 1893 have not been furnished by the Collector, the year having been a year of scarcity. The Collector states, that figures previous to 1893 are not available for marts other than the Sadar. Figures for 1890 have been substituted by the Collector for the case of the Sadar mart for those of 1893.

Mymensingh.—The figures for 1891 and 1892 and for the month of January 1893 are not returned by the Collector for any mart, owing, it is reported, to the destruction of "C" class papers. The figures for the Sadar mart for those years have been supplied in Director's office from the Gazette.

Faridpur.—The years 1893 and 1894 have been left out of calculation by the Collector as years of scarcity, and figures for 1889 and 1890 substituted in the case of the Sadar mart. Figures for the Goalundo and Madaripur marts are not available, the Collector states, for the years 1889, 1890, and 1891, and for January and April 1892, as no returns have been submitted from the subdivisions separately, mart by mart.

Backergunge.—The distress that prevailed in Faridpur in 1893 and 1894 extended to Backergunge. The Collector has left out figures of 1893 only out of calculation on account of scarcity. The figures for 1890 have been substituted by him for 1893.

Tippera.—The Collector excludes the period July 1893 to June 1894 as a period of scarcity, and includes instead the year 1890.

Noakhali.—The Collector substitutes for the period from October 1893 to July 1894, figures of 1890, as in the period first named prices were high on account of repeated and extensive floods.

Patna.—In the case of the Sadar mart, the Collector has substituted figures of 1890 for those of 1892, which he reports was a year of some scarcity. For the subdivisional marts, figures are forthcoming only for three years.

Gaya.—As in Patna, the Collector has substituted 1890 prices for those of 1892, which he reports was a year of scarcity.

Saran.—For the subdivisional marts, figures are forthcoming only for four years. It would appear from the Administration Report for 1890-91, that relief measures were opened in the beginning of the year 1891 in Chapra, but the distress was evidently not serious and prices do not appear from the return to have been affected.

Muzaffarpur.—The Collector leaves out 1892 as a year of scarcity in noting prices for the Hajipur mart, but he shows 1892 prices in the other two marts of the district. His figures have been maintained.

Darbhanga.—The Collector leaves out 1892 prices in the Darbhanga and Madhubani marts, but for Samastipur he gives prices for 1892, remarking that "it is reported there was no famine between 1891 and 1895 affecting the Samastipur mart." A perusal of the Samastipur return shows that prices ruled high in Samastipur in 1892. The Collector's figures have been maintained however.

Monghyr.—Figures for four years only have been furnished by the Collector for the subdivisional marts. For the Sadar mart, the year 1891 is left out as a famine year. It appears from famine reports, that relief operations continued from February to August 1892. The Collector's figures are accepted.

Bhagalpur.—In the case of the Sadar and Banka marts, the Collector has left out only 1892 as a year of scarcity, and substituted 1890 prices. For the Madhipura and Supaul marts, he has left out both 1891 and 1892, and substituted 1889 and 1890 prices in their place. His figures are accepted.

Purnea.—The Collector substitutes the prices of 1890 for 1892, as the latter was a year of scarcity.

Malda.—The figures for the Rohanpur mart are very incomplete.

Sonthal Parganas.—The Deputy Commissioner reports that prices for 1891 are not available for the Pakour and Rajmahal marts.

Cuttack.—The Collector omits prices for 1892, which he reports was a year of scarcity, and substitutes prices for 1890.

Puri.—The Collector reports, that 1892 was a year of scarcity. His figures for 1890 for the Sadar mart have been accepted in place of the figures for 1892. For Khurda, the figures for 1892 are retained.

Hazaribagh.—For the Giridi mart, figures for 1891 and some figures for 1892 are not available.

Lohardaga.—Figures for 1891 are not available for the Palkot mart.

Manbhum.—The Deputy Commissioner reports, that figures for 1891 are not available in his office. Figures for 1891 for the Sadar mart have been obtained from the Gazette.

III.—Application for a transfer certificate must be made either personally or by letter (registered, if necessary) to the Principal of the college; and when so made the certificate is to be given without any avoidable delay. The only grounds on which it can be refused are (1) gross misconduct; (2) failure to pay the sums due to the college, including tuition fees and fines and transfer fee (if any). If a certificate is refused, the cause of refusal shall be notified in writing to the applicant.

IV.—Any instance of "gross misconduct" on the part of a student, whether followed by expulsion or not, must be at once notified to the Department, failing which no future action can be taken on it. A student expelled for misconduct cannot be admitted to another college without the express sanction of the Director of Public Instruction.

V.—For the purposes of the transfer certificate, the date on which a student presents his application for transfer, or the date of receipt of the letter (Rule III), shall be regarded as the date upon which his connection with a college ceased, and no fee shall be charged to him for any subsequent month. But if the student does not pay the sums due from him to the college within three days of his receiving intimation of their amount, he shall be treated as "absent without notice" until such sums are paid, subject (as regards any further sums so accruing) to the limit stated in Rule VI.

VI.—A student quitting a college without notice shall be liable to pay fees, together with fines for absence, for one month subsequent to that in which he last attended the college, after which his connection with the college shall be considered to have ceased.

IX.—A student before being sent up to the University examination shall be required to pay all sums due to the institution in which he has been reading, including fees up to the end of the session in May.

X.—A student quitting a college, except after appearing at a University examination, or, if prevented from appearing, after paying the fee for admission to such examination, shall be liable to pay a transfer fee before obtaining his certificate. The transfer fee shall not (except under special orders of the Department in the case of colleges in which no fees are charged) exceed the ordinary monthly fee of the class.

XI.—A student in whose transfer certificate it is stated that he has failed at the test examination of his college shall not be sent up to the University examination in the same academical year as a student of any other college.

XII.—The transfer of Government scholarship-holders shall be subject to the previous sanction of the Director of Public Instruction, which will be withheld unless satisfactory reasons are assigned for the transfer.

A scholarship-holder will be allowed one transfer (subject to the foregoing rules) during the tenure of his scholarship. A second transfer will not be allowed except in cases of proved and urgent necessity.

XIII.—When a student has held a scholarship, free studentship, or half-pay studentship under express stipulation in writing, signed by himself and his father or guardian, that the whole or a portion of the sum drawn by, or remitted to, him shall be refunded to the college in case of withdrawal from it within a certain period, the transfer certificate may be withheld until the sums so due have been repaid, provided that the amount so claimed shall not exceed the amount actually drawn or remitted.

XIV.—If a student be found producing a false document or making a false statement as to his attendance at any college, shall be liable to expulsion and shall be reported to the Department.

XV.—Wilful transgression or colourable evasion of any of the foregoing rules will render a college liable to forfeit the right of sending up candidates for senior scholarships and to be reported to the University for further penalties.

XVI.—All questions arising between one Principal and another respecting the interpretation of these rules shall be referred, as soon as possible, to the Director of Public Instruction.

Any departure from these rules must have the previous sanction of the Director of Public Instruction in the case of colleges and of high schools attached to first grade colleges, and of Inspectors in the case of other high schools (vide Rule XIX of the Transfer Rules for High Schools).

RULES FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF SUB-INSPECTORS OF POLICE.

THE next divisional examination of candidates to fill vacancies in the rank of Sub-Inspector of Police will be held on the 20th and 21st July 1896, at the following centres:—at Calcutta (Senate House) for the Presidency, Rajshahi, and Burdwan Divisions; at Bankipore for the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions; at Dacca for the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions; and at Cuttack for the Orissa Division. The following classes of candidates will be admissible to the examination:—

(a) Persons who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta, Allahabad or Punjab University, provided they are not less than 21 nor more than 25 years of age.

(b) Persons now serving as head-constables and writer-constables in the police, who have obtained the permission of the District Magistrate to appear at the examination, provided that they are not more than 30 years of age, and are of not less than two years' standing in the Department. This permission will only be given to persons who satisfy the conditions laid down in Rule 2.

2. No person will be deemed qualified who does not satisfy the following conditions:—

I.—That he has no disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for police duties, and that he is up to the physical standard prescribed by Government circular No. 4436J., dated the 9th July 1892.

NOTE.—"Stuttering or stammering" is a constitutional defect, and represents a physical disqualification.

II.—That he is of good moral character.

III.—That he belongs to a respectable family.

IV.—That he produces a certificate of ability to ride signed by a district officer.

3. Applications for permission to appear at the examination must be submitted, not later than one month before the date fixed, to the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides, stating the place at which he desires to appear for examination. Each application from class (a) candidates must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 5. All candidates will be required to satisfy the conditions specified in Rule 2 above. The certificate of health should be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate ordinarily resides, or in Calcutta by one of the Professors of the Calcutta Medical College. Forms of application are available in the offices of District Superintendents of Police.

The Magistrate should require a personal identification of each candidate by some known person, whose name should be recorded, and satisfy himself that the certificates of respectability and moral character refer to the individual applying for permission to appear at the examination, and send him to the District Superintendent for certificate as to physical fitness. This certificate should contain the applicants' descriptive roll, thumb impression, signature and address for purposes of identification. The District Superintendent will then obtain a health certificate, the fee for which will in all cases be Rs. 4 from the Civil Surgeon, and send it, together with the certificate of physical fitness, to the Magistrate, who will, after subjecting the candidate to an examination in riding and noting the fact, grant a written permission to appear at the examination.

As these certificates form the verification rolls of candidates, they should be very carefully examined and enquiries made when necessary.

The above papers with the examination fee will be forwarded without delay by the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides to the Magistrate of the centre at which the candidate wishes to be examined.

The Examination Committee before the examination will compare the descriptions, thumb impressions (duplicate impressions being taken for the purpose, if necessary), and signatures and satisfy itself about the identity of the person appearing.

At the examination the candidate will be required to sign the papers in every subject, writing his father's name and his own address on them to avoid confusion arising out of a similarity of names.

After the result of the examination is known, the certificates of passed candidates will be forwarded to the Principal of the Police Training School, Bhagalpur, and will then be treated as verification rolls.

The certificates of unsuccessful candidates will be returned if asked for within two months, or destroyed at the end of that period.

4. The subjects of examination will be as follows:—

I.—Dictation, letter-drafting, precis-writing, and a short translation from Bengali Uriya or Hindi into English. Europeans and Eurasians will be allowed to choose one out of these three languages to be examined in. No candidate failing to obtain half-marks in this paper will be considered qualified for appointment.

II.—Paper on general knowledge. The questions will be set so as to test the general information and intelligence of candidates.

III.—Mathematics, including arithmetic and algebra, and account-keeping.

IV.—Law, including the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act.

N.B—Class (b) candidates will be exempted from passing in algebra.

5 The marks will be given on the following scale :—

1.	Dictation and language	200
2.	General knowledge	300
3.	Mathematics	200
4.	Law	200

6. The number of candidates to be selected by the examiners for each Range will be notified in the Calcutta Gazette on or before the 24th June 1896. This number will be determined by the Inspector-General of Police with reference to the number of vacancies existing or estimated as likely to occur within the course of the following year.

7. After the results of the examination have been ascertained, a list will be prepared of the candidates selected for appointment. Those who have not obtained half-marks in dictation and language, and one-third marks in the aggregate of the remaining papers may be struck out as ineligible for appointment. Of the remaining candidates a list will then be composed as follows—(a) one-half of the candidates who stand highest on the list in order of merit; (b) one-half of candidates selected from among those candidates who have obtained not less than one-third of the marks. At least two-thirds of the appointments will, if qualified candidates are available, be given to outsiders.

8. Natives of Bengal Proper will be eligible for appointments in all Bengal districts and in Manbhum; natives of Bihar in Bihar districts and in Hazaribagh and Lohardaga; and natives of Orissa in the Orissa Division and the district of Singhbhum. Selected candidates will be liable to be transferred to any district.

9. Selected candidates on appointment will undergo a three months' course of instruction at the Bhagalpur Police Training School. This course will include drill, elementary surveying, anthropometry, and instruction in prosecuting cases in Magistrates' Courts. At the end of the three months all probationers obtaining a certificate of proficiency will be posted to districts and receive appointments in due course as 5th grade Sub-Inspectors. During the period of probation candidates will receive 20 rupees a month as salary; on being passed out of the Training School, they will receive Rs. 30 a month as salary. Candidates who fail to display due diligence during their period of probation will be liable to lose their appointment.

10. The position of selected candidates in the Range lists from which promotions are made will be determined by the places obtained by candidates at the Final Examination held at the conclusion of the Training School Term.

11. Candidates resident in any of the districts of the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions, who take up Hindi at this examination, will be considered to be natives of Bihar. Candidates competing at Cuttack, who take up Uriya, will be considered natives of Orissa.

12. Information as to the hour and place of examination can be obtained 15 days before the examination by applying to the District Magistrates of the 24-Parganas, Dacca, Patna, and Cuttack.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 685 of 1895) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals on the east coast of Mala (Malaita) island:—

1. A shoal, apparently coral, on which a sounding of 4¼ fathoms was obtained (possibly there may be less water), lies in the northern entrance to Maramisike passage, with Pyramid island bearing East, distant 1¼ miles; and Annuta island about S. 25° W.

The extent of this shoal is doubtful, and a wide berth should be given to the Sister islands, until the locality has been thoroughly examined.

PACIFIC OCEAN—ISABELLA, WATERWITCH AND COMBE BANKS.

Banks north-west of Uea or Wallis islands.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 688 of 1895) that the following information respecting the Isabella and other banks in its vicinity, north-west of Uea or Wallis islands, has been received from Lieutenant and Commander J. W. Combe, H. M. Surveying Vessel Waterwitch:—

Isabella bank, on which a depth of 12 fathoms, coral, was found, is circular in shape and about 2 miles in diameter; its centre is approximately in lat. 12° 24′ S., long. 177° 26′ W.

Waterwitch bank, situated between the parallels of 12° 29′ and 12° 34′ South latitude, and the meridians of 176° 41′ and 176° 50′ West longitude, is of atoll-like formation, having a narrow rim of growing coral, with soundings of from 12 to 16 fathoms, all round its outer edge, and depths of 23 to 28 fathoms inside.

Combe bank, situated between the parallels of 12° 24′ and 12° 28′ South latitude, and the meridians of 177° 30′ and 177° 41′ West longitude, is a coral bank with from 14 to 22 fathoms over it. The soundings on this bank were not sufficient to decide whether it is of a similar formation to the Waterwitch bank, but the shoaler soundings are near the outer edge.

All these banks are "steep-to," with soundings of over 100 fathoms near their outer edges.

CURRENT.—Whilst the Waterwitch was employed sounding these banks (September 1895) a slight current setting to the west-north-west was experienced. With a fresh trade wind this set was much increased and there was a troublesome sea in the neighbourhood.

NEW ZEALAND, NORTH ISLAND—NAPIER.

Lights in connection with breakwater works.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 696 of 1895) that on 1st November 1895, the red light, previously shown at the extremity of the breakwater wharf, Ahuriri bluff would be discontinued; and the undermentioned lights would be exhibited from the breakwater works near Ahuriri bluff, Napier:—

1. A red light is shown from a red beacon, at an elevation of 25 feet above high water, in a position 146 feet from the eastern extremity of the breakwater wharf, or about N.-E. ¼ E. (N. 48° E.), nearly 2 cables distant, from the north-east extremity of Ahuriri bluff.

   Approximate position, lat. 39° 28′ 15″ S., long. 176° 57′ 5″ E.

The above lights or beacons in line, bearing S.-E. ¾ E., lead into the breakwater harbour.

The breakwater now extends about 2 cables beyond the red light or beacon (1), and the extremity of the rubble foundation about 3 cables beyond that light.

Vessels entering Napier harbour by day should keep well outside the breakwater works buoys, and those marking Auckland rocks. By night vessels should be in the white sector of Eastern pier light, bearing S.-W. before losing sight of Ahuriri bluff light, bearing S. by W.

The southern limit of the green light (2), E. ¼ N., passes over the 3 fathoms limit of soundings between the breakwater and the entrance to port Napier.

NOTE.—A chart is in course of preparation, and will shortly be published, showing the breakwater works, &c., in the vicinity of Ahuriri bluff.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the Humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean at the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question station in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least ·10 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 28th January 1896.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 25TH OF JANUARY 1896.

DURING the last two or three days of the previous week an extremely feeble barometric depression had reached Bihar from North-Western India, and had given slightly abnormal conditions. At the close of the week, however, the depression had practically filled up, and ordinary north-east monsoon weather again obtained. On Sunday, the 19th instant, a moderate decrease of pressure had occurred over Bengal, and temperature was usually falling, and fine settled weather still obtained over the province, skies were practically cloudless, rainfall was absent, and a fairly steady northerly wind prevailed at almost all stations. A slight to moderate increase of pressure occurred on the 20th instant, accompanied usually by an increased temperature. A decided increase in cloud proportion was also reported, and a few drops of rain fell in East and North Bengal, but on the whole weather remained fine and settled. On the 21st a rapid increase of pressure had occurred over Bengal, which was accompanied generally by a rapid decrease of temperature; skies also cleared, and rainfall was absent except for a light shower at Barisal. On the other hand, a shallow barometric depression had appeared over part of North-Western India. On the 22nd this feeble low-pressure area had apparently travelled eastwards, and was over part of the North-West Provinces. Hence pressure was falling briskly in Bengal, and a rather rapid increase of temperature was taking place at the western stations, but the depression was too feeble to affect the weather to any material extent, and the sky remained clear, and there was no rain. On the 23rd pressure rose slowly in Bengal, and the depression apparently passed away, but its effect was shown in the decided increase of temperature which was reported over the province, while humidity also was decidedly high. Gnatong on this day reported a snow-storm, and a few drops of rain were reported in Assam, but elsewhere weather remained fine. On the 24th a further rapid increase of pressure occurred, and pressure was rather largely in excess of the normal, while the changes of temperature were variable, as it was rising over the eastern half of the province and falling at the western stations. Gnatong again reported a snow-storm on this day, but elsewhere weather was fine, and the sky almost cloudless. On the 25th, or the last day of the week, a brisk fall of pressure had occurred—largest at the northern stations, but pressure was still above the normal by amounts ranging up to more than a tenth of an inch at the western stations. Temperature, on the other hand, was nearly normal for the season, and a steady north-east monsoon current was blowing over the whole province, skies were almost cloudless, and there had been no rain. Throughout the greater part of the week, therefore, weather has again been fine and settled, and of ordinary north-east monsoon character.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been decidedly above the normal, and the excess has usually varied from about 0·03″ to 0·05″. The variations at neighbouring stations are, however, a little irregular in amount.

Temperature.—The average mean temperature of the whole province for the week has been 0·4° below the normal, the largest defect having been recorded in Orissa.

The actual average temperatures registered in the province for the week and their variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given:—

Rainfall.—A few light showers, but of no practical importance, have been reported in East, North, and South-West Bengal. The highest average amount has been in East Bengal, where, however, it has only equalled five hundredths of an inch. The falls have occurred principally in the districts of Faridpur, Pabna, and Nadia.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 25th of January 1896 :—

RULES FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF SUB-INSPECTORS OF POLICE.

THE next divisional examination of candidates to fill vacancies in the rank of Sub-Inspector of Police will be held on the 20th and 21st July 1896, at the following centres:—at Calcutta (Senate House) for the Presidency, Rajshahi, and Burdwan Divisions; at Bankipore for the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions; at Dacca for the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions; and at Cuttack for the Orissa Division. The following classes of candidates will be admissible to the examination:—

(a) Persons who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta, Allahabad or Punjab University, provided they are not less than 21 nor more than 25 years of age.

(b) Persons now serving as head-constables and writer-constables in the police, who have obtained the permission of the District Magistrate to appear at the examination, provided that they are not more than 30 years of age, and are of not less than two years' standing in the Department. This permission will only be given to persons who satisfy the conditions laid down in Rule 2.

2. No person will be deemed qualified who does not satisfy the following conditions:—

I.—That he has no disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for police duties, and that he is up to the physical standard prescribed by Government circular No. 4436J., dated the 9th July 1892.

NOTE.—"Stuttering or stammering" is a constitutional defect, and represents a physical disqualification.

II.—That he is of good moral character.

III.—That he belongs to a respectable family.

IV.—That he produces a certificate of ability to ride signed by a district officer.

3. Applications for permission to appear at the examination must be submitted, not later than one month before the date fixed, to the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides, stating the place at which he desires to appear for examination. Each application from class (a) candidates must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 5. All candidates will be required to satisfy the conditions specified in Rule 2 above. The certificate of health should be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate ordinarily resides, or in Calcutta by one of the Professors of the Calcutta Medical College. Forms of application are available in the offices of District Superintendents of Police.

The Magistrate should require a personal identification of each candidate by some known person, whose name should be recorded, and satisfy himself that the certificates of respectability and moral character refer to the individual applying for permission to appear at the examination, and send him to the District Superintendent for certificate as to physical fitness. This certificate should contain the applicants' descriptive roll, thumb impression, signature and address for purposes of identification. The District Superintendent will then obtain a health certificate, the fee for which will in all cases be Rs. 4 from the Civil Surgeon, and send it, together with the certificate of physical fitness, to the Magistrate, who will, after subjecting the candidate to an examination in riding and noting the fact, grant a written permission to appear at the examination.

As these certificates form the verification rolls of candidates, they should be very carefully examined and enquiries made when necessary.

The above papers with the examination fee will be forwarded without delay by the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides to the Magistrate of the centre at which the candidate wishes to be examined.

The Examination Committee before the examination will compare the descriptions, thumb impressions (duplicate impressions being taken for the purpose, if necessary), and signatures and satisfy itself about the identity of the person appearing.

At the examination the candidate will be required to sign the papers in every subject, writing his father's name and his own address on them to avoid confusion arising out of a similarity of names.

After the result of the examination is known, the certificates of passed candidates will be forwarded to the Principal of the Police Training School, Bhagalpur, and will then be treated as verification rolls.

The certificates of unsuccessful candidates will be returned if asked for within two months, or destroyed at the end of that period.

4. The subjects of examination will be as follows:—

I.—Dictation, letter-drafting, precis-writing, and a short translation from Bengali Uriya or Hindi into English. Europeans and Eurasians will be allowed to choose one out of these three languages to be examined in. No candidate failing to obtain half-marks in this paper will be considered qualified for appointment.

II.—Paper on general knowledge. The questions will be set so as to test the general information and intelligence of candidates.

III.—Mathematics, including arithmetic and algebra, and account-keeping.

IV.—Law, including the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act.

N.B.—Class (b) candidates will be exempted from passing in algebra.

2.	General knowledge	...	...	... 200
3.	Mathematics	...	...	... 200
4.	Law	...	...	... 200

6. The number of candidates to be selected by the examiners for each Range will be notified in the Calcutta Gazette on or before the 24th June 1896. This number will be determined by the Inspector-General of Police with reference to the number of vacancies existing or estimated as likely to occur within the course of the following year.

7. After the results of the examination have been ascertained, a list will be prepared of the candidates selected for appointment. Those who have not obtained half-marks in dictation and language, and one-third marks in the aggregate of the remaining papers may be struck out as ineligible for appointment. Of the remaining candidates a list will then be composed as follows—(a) one-half of the candidates who stand highest on the list in order of merit; (b) one-half of candidates selected from among those candidates who have obtained not less than one-third of the marks. At least two-thirds of the appointments will, if qualified candidates are available, be given to outsiders.

8. Natives of Bengal Proper will be eligible for appointments in all Bengal districts and in Manbhum; natives of Bihar in Bihar districts and in Hazaribagh and Lohardaga; and natives of Orissa in the Orissa Division and the district of Singhbhum. Selected candidates will be liable to be transferred to any district.

9. Selected candidates on appointment will undergo a three months' course of instruction at the Bhagalpur Police Training School. This course will include drill, elementary surveying, anthropometry, and instruction in prosecuting cases in Magistrates' Courts. At the end of the three months all probationers obtaining a certificate of proficiency will be posted to districts and receive appointments in due course as 5th grade Sub-Inspectors. RESOLUTION.

The 31st January 1896.

READ the following Orders of Her Majesty in Council, dated, respectively, the 29th February 1868, the 30th December 1878, the 20th April 1883, and the 21st November 1895, regarding the exemption from remeasurement for tonnage of certain ships belonging to the Kingdom of Denmark:—

AT THE COURT AT OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

The 29th day of February 1868.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it is enacted that "whenever it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act have been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and are in force in that country, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct that ships of such foreign country shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers; and thereupon it shall no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships is to be deemed of the tonnage of such ships." And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships now in force under "the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," have been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark and are in force in that country and that such rules came into operation on the 1st of October, 1867.

Her Majesty is hereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which are dated on and after the said 1st of October, 1867, shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry.

AT THE COURT AT OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

The 30th day of December 1878.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it is enacted that "whenever it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act have been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and are in force in that country, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct that the ships of such foreign country shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers; and thereupon it shall no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships is to be deemed the tonnage of such ships."

And whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1876," it is enacted that when "Her Majesty has power under 'The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854,' or any Act passed or hereafter to be passed amending the same, to make an Order in Council, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time to revoke, alter, or add to any Order so made."

And whereas by an Order in Council dated 29th day of February, 1868, Her Majesty to whom it was made to appear that the said rules for the measurement of the tonnage of merchant ships had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, was pleased to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which were dated on and after the 1st October, 1867, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry.

And whereas certain modifications have been recently made in the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships in force in Denmark, whereby, from and after the 1st day of October, 1878, the allowance for engine-room in certain steamships will be estimated in a mode differing from that in force in this country.

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is desirable to alter the said Order in Council so far as the same applies or relates to the mode of estimating the allowance for engine-room in Danish steamships; Her Majesty is hereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct as regards Danish steamships that if the owner or master of any merchant ship belonging to the said Kingdom of Denmark, and measured after the said 1st day of October, 1878, which is propelled by steam, or any other power requiring engine-room, desires the allowance for engine-room in his ship to be estimated under the rules for engine-room measurement and allowance applicable to British ships, instead of under the Danish rule, the engine-room shall be measured and the allowance calculated according to the British rules.

AT THE COURT AT OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

The 20th day of April 1883.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it is enacted that "whenever it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act have been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and are in force in that country, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct that the ships of such foreign country shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other national papers; and thereupon it shall no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the some purposes in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships is to be deemed the tonnage of such ships."

And whereas by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, it is enacted that "where Her Majesty has power under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or any Act passed or hereafter to be passed amending the same, to make an Order in Council, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time to make such Order in Council, and by Order in Council to revoke, alter, or add to any Order so made."

And whereas by Order in Council dated the 29th day of February, 1868, Her Majesty, to whom it was made to appear that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships now in force under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, and were in force in that country, was pleased to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which were dated on or after the 1st day of October, 1867, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry.

And whereas certain modifications were subsequently made in the said rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships in Denmark, whereby from and after the 1st day of October, 1878, the allowance for engine-room in certain steamships would be estimated in a mode differing from that in force in this country; and it was made to appear to Her Majesty that it was desirable to alter the said first-recited Order in Council so far as the same applied or related to the mode of estimating the allowance for engine-room in Danish steamships.

And whereas Her Majesty by Order in Council dated the 30th day of December, 1878, was pleased to direct as regards Danish steamships that if the owner or master of any Danish steamship measured after the said 1st day of October, 1878, desires the allowance for engine-room in his ship to be estimated under the British instead of under the Danish rules, such engine-room shall be measured and the allowance calculated according to the British rules.

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is expedient that certain additions should be made to the provisions of the said last-recited Order in Council in regard to the mode of estimating the net registered tonnage of certain Danish steamships.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty in virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Acts, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is further pleased to direct as follows, viz, that in the event of the net registered tonnage of merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Denmark, which are propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room estimated under the British rules, being denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry issued on or after the 1st day of September, 1882, such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage so denoted in the said certificates.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 21st day of November 1895.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Order in Council dated the 29th day of February, 1868, made by Her Majesty in exercise of the powers conferred upon Her by the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which were dated on and after the 1st October, 1867, should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry:

And whereas by another Order in Council dated the 30th day of December, 1878, Her Majesty was pleased to direct as regards Danish steamships that if the owner or master of any merchant ship belonging to the Kingdom of Denmark and measured after the 1st day of October, 1878, which is propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room, should desire the allowance for engine-room in his ship to be estimated under the rules for engine-room measurement and allowance applicable to British ships instead of under the Danish rule, the engine-room should be measured and the allowance calculated according to the British rules:

And whereas by another Order in Council dated the 20th day of April, 1883, Her Majesty was further pleased to direct that in the event of the net registered tonnage of merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Denmark, which are propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room estimated under the British rules, being denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry issued on or after the 1st day of September, 1882, such ships should be deemed to be of the tonnage so denoted in the said certificates:

And whereas by section 84 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, it is enacted that whenever it appears to Her Majesty the Queen in Council that the tonnage regulations of that Act have been adopted by any foreign country and are in force there, Her Majesty in Council may order that the ships of that country shall, without being re-measured in Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other national papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship:

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that the tonnage regulations of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, have been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, and that such regulations are now in force in that country, having come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1895:

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India. BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

The Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, the British Indian Association, and the Indian Association were also asked for reports on the same subject.

2. The replies received by Government from unofficial persons conclusively show that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers and of staking dead bodies in rivers, has not the sanction of religion, and that there is no reason to apprehend any agitation or opposition if it were generally prohibited. Thus the British Indian Association write:—

"The practice of casting dead bodies into rivers never found a justification on the score of religious sentiment in the eyes of the native community. Looking to the difficulties of checking the practice, it was formerly regarded as an unavoidable nuisance, but always with abhorrence. The change for the better, which has gradually taken place in this respect, is no doubt partly due to the vigilance of the police, but it is in a great measure owing to the people gradually realising the true character of the evil."

A similar opinion is expressed by the Maharajas of Durbhanga and Hatwa, but they suggest that there should be no interference with the funeral customs of the Sanyasis or other Hindu ascetics, among whom it is the custom not to cremate dead bodies, but to consign them to the sacred river with heavy stones attached to them.

3. The Commissioners of Divisions, who were consulted by Government, are unanimously of opinion that the evil complained of is decreasing in all parts of Bengal, and that the feeling of all educated persons is in favour of steps being taken by Government to prohibit the practice where it prevails. The only serious objection to any measure of the kind appears to be that of expense in the case of persons belonging to the poorest classes, especially during times of scarcity and epidemic. But even in the case of this class of persons, there is ample evidence that help from neighbours and other sources is usually forthcoming. Moreover, the cost of cremation is trifling compared with the sums spent on even the humblest marriages, and the Lieutenant-Governor is therefore prepared to direct that measures should now be taken in the direction suggested by Dr. Gregg, the late Sanitary Commissioner. His Honour is satisfied that the time has come when the recommendations of the Calcutta Conference of 1887 can be enforced without objection or difficulty in all places to which they are applicable, and that Municipalities and District Officers should unite in their endeavours to put an end to a practice which is condemned on all sides as highly insanitary, and is not supported by religious prejudice or sentiment.

4. In accordance with these views, all Municipalities will now be called on to apply, where they have not already done so, for the extension of sections 254 to 260A of the Municipal Act; to provide proper burning ghâts, where necessary, under section 259 of the Act; to provide for the burning and burial of paupers under section 260; and to enforce the provisions of section 257, which prohibit the burial or burning of corpses in unregistered ground. If these provisions of the law are properly enforced they appear to provide sufficiently for the protection of urban areas. It does not seem possible at present to invite District Boards to follow similar lines, but District Magistrates should generally take action in the same manner and direction as was done in 1888 under the advice of the Advocate-General in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions. Sir Charles Paul then advised that Magistrates should not promulgate an order addressed to the public, but that the Government should "cause notices to be exhibited in convenient places, stating that any person found throwing a corpse or a carcass into the Hooghly will be prosecuted under section 290 of the Indian Penal Code, Government being advised that the practice causes danger to health, and is therefore a common danger to the public and to the people in general who dwell in the vicinity of the river." The Lieutenant-Governor does not consider that such notices will be necessary or desirable in all districts. In some parts of the country the obnoxious practice of consigning dead bodies to the rivers does not exist, while in Eastern Bengal it may be said that the throwing of bodies into the enormous volume of such rivers as the Padma or Meghna can hardly be described as creating a public nuisance. Moreover, it must often be the case in some districts during the rains, when the whole country is under water, that no other means of disposal of the dead can be found. Sir Alexander Mackenzie does not wish to publish these notices in such tracts or to harass the people with impracticable reforms. He desires also that care may be taken not to exercise any interference with the religious rites and customs of Sanyasis and other Hindu ascetics, who usually consign dead bodies to a watery grave. Notices must be published only in places where they are applicable and with the previous sanction of the Commissioner of the Division, and it must always be remembered that prosecutions under the Penal Code should be instituted with discretion.

5. With reference to these remarks, Commissioners are requested to apply to Government for the number of notices they require for each district in their respective Divisions, and to state the vernacular languages in which the notices should be printed. These notices will be published in such a manner as the District Magistrate may determine.

Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners, and to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for information and guidance.

Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police and to the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal for information.

Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Municipal Department of this Government for information, and for communication to the Sanitary Board.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution and of the reports received be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Dated Gosain-Durgapur, the 13th June 1895.

From—Babu Syama Charan Chatterjee, B.A., M B., Practising Physician,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

In continuation of my note to Dr. Lidderdale, President of the Nadia Fever Commission, in 1881, on the etiology of malarial fever and other epidemic disease, in which I had occasion to remark on the pollution of drinking water by casting dead bodies into rivers, or staking them in the beds of rivers, in order to avoid the expense of incineration at proscribed ghats, I have the honour to submit the following additional notes for the consideration of our enlightened Government, in the hope that stringent legislative measures may be adopted and enforced for the suppression of a highly pernicious—nay dangerous—practice so unequivocally interdicted by the Hindu shastras, and strongly condemned by the teachings of sanitary science.

2. The rigorous enforcement of section 290 of the Indian Penal Code by order of Sir Steuart Bayley checked this obnoxious practice to a certain extent in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, but in the mufassal hardly any notice is taken of the contamination of the water of rivers, khals, &c., largely resorted to for drinking and culinary purposes by the people living in rural villages. The village chaukidars, panchayet and the police, as a rule, seem to sleep over the matter, and never think of attempting even to check this malpractice which our Government is so anxious to suppress by all fair means for the benefit of public health. Since Government have invited an expression of public openion on a resolution lately published, I consider it worth my while to submit certain additional notes and suggestions on behalf of rural villages, and in the interests of people who cannot make their grievances felt by the ruling authorities. It is a well-known fact that the bulk of the rural people, in Bengal at least, look upon the Government as their ma-bap, and think that whatever is done for them by that Government is solely intended for their own good. The doctrine of the "divinity that doth hedge a king" still rules their minds in all its glory. Now, I beg to urge, for the earnest consideration of Government, that the subject under discussion is a matter in which they may exercise their parental authority with discretion and moderation for the benefit of those whom Providence has entrusted to their care and kindness. Certain legal measures ought by all means to be passed, of course with due safeguards against unnecessary oppression and hardship, for the prevention of the pollution of drinking water in rural villages. I have consulted several agriculturists and workmen of strong common sense on this subject, and they are one and all of opinion that the drinking water ought to be protected against pollution by all fair means.

3. It is a notorious fact that the rivers of Bengal (the deltaic parts) have been exhibiting, within the last quarter of a century at least, a tendency, greater or less at places, to silt up gradually. Their beds are becoming contracted and elevated, and the streams shallow and stagnant. The causes of this gradual physical change it is not for me to discuss at length in this communication, but I simply wish to give prominence to it, so that the subject of the gradual scarcity of drinking water for man and beast, particularly during the dry months, may be fully considered, and its importance as a factor of public health be thoroughly appreciated. Now, let us consider for a moment that if unburnt or half-burnt or scorched carcasses are indiscriminately cast into these shallow water-courses, whether the small volumes of water contained in them be not rendered thereby utterly unfit for human consumption. These shallow channels, by a process of natural erosion, form at places stagnant pools of water, largely used by ignorant people living on the banks. The carcasses borne into these pools by the meandering streams fester and decompose there till they are driven away elsewhere by the force of the wind. It is a noteworthy fact that cholera spreads itself always down the course of river and seldom up. The dead bodies or other filth containing germs are borne down by the current and disseminate them by the agency of the drinking water. Even animal oil has sometimes been seen floating on the surface of water at places largely inhabited. I think it is the bounden duty of all my educated and enlightened countrymen in one voice of accord to help Government towards adopting salutary measures for the suppression or removal of the most potent amongst the preventible causes of epidemic disease, popularly called "mahamaree." No voice of opposition on mere imaginary grounds should be heeded. The protection of public health and the prevention of epidemic disease in the light of Western science and common sense are matters so important that any frivolous opposition proceeding from the culpable indifference of certain ignorant classes, or from their utter disregard of the simplest laws of hygiene, ought to count for nothing with our enlightened rulers. It may be urged, as a plausible argument, that the poor people, that is, those who have not the means to pay for the necessary expenses of cremation or incineration, may suffer, in case any penalty be imposed by law for non-incineration of dead bodies before casting them into water-courses. True, I admit the bulk of rural Hindus are poor. But is incineration of a dead relative such an expensive affair as to be beyond their scanty means? As far as my experience goes, hardly if ever. One needs some dry fuel wood, an earthen gurra, and a piece of rope to cremate a poor deceased relative. The very poorest even may ask for and easily procure the wherewithal to burn his relative's corpse before throwing it into any water-course near his village. It is an admirable trait in the character of the peace-loving and charitably-disposed rural Hindu that he is ever ready to help in the funeral obsequies for the benefit of the soul of his deceased co-religionist—whether rich or poor—without the distinction of caste even. I have witnessed with my own eyes the funeral ceremonies of a destitute and friendless dead stranger gladly performed by other strangers amongst whom he happened to breathe his last as a poor traveller. Such being the rural custom and practice, the argument as to the poverty of means of rural Hindus, seems to be at best but a plausible one, and may be advanced by those only who wish to display deliberate hostility towards any measure proposed by Government without duly weighing the gravity of its importance or its absolute necessity. Such chronic hostility ought to be treated at its due worth, and should on no account be permitted to dissuade Government from their path of benevolence and righteousness.

4. Polluted water disseminates the germs of disease as freely as the putrefying carcasses themselves. The prevention of such pollution, and the adoption of other known prophylactic measures, if rightly understood and practically given effect to, would tend a great deal towards effectually checking the spread of cholera and other epidemic disease, and lessening the apalling mortality caused by those foll scourges. It is a fact that the bulk of my ignorant countrymen (as is the case all over the world) look upon the matter as a divine infliction, to which they must submit in all humility as a predestined affair—beyond human control. But those who can rightly understand that much of the virulence of an epidemic scourge, such as cholera, is under our control, and therefore preventible, ought, in a body, move Government to adopt measures for the mitigation of an evil intensified by our own habits of gross negligence, instead of hampering them by any voice of foolish opposition against a benevolent measure calculated to benefit us one and all, in strict obedience to the precepts of our sacred shastras—(vide my Sanskrit texts in the annexure to my first report).

5. The following suggestions are respectfully submitted for the acceptance of Government :—

(a) At every village or at the centre of a group of small hamlets, where flows a river or any other water-course, there shall be a separate burning ghat at a little distance from the busti, for the cremation of dead bodies of Hindus, as Musalmans invariably bury their dead. At no other place than this prescribed ghat should cremation or incineration be allowed, except under special circumstances with the sanction of the authorities.

(b) Staking, scorching the mouth or the forehead, or tying a piece of rope round the neck with an earthen pot attached thereto, before throwing the carcass into the river, are practices common amongst certain classes of the people. But in no instance should any dead body be allowed to be cast into the river without thorough incineration.

(c) The burning ghat may be kept under the control of the village panchayet or chief panchayet and the police. The chaukidars, who are at present mere do-nothings, can keep watch over it day and night. The panchayets, if well utilized, can discharge this duty satisfactorily under the control of subordinate executive officers exercised through the local Police Inspectors.

(d) Washing of clothes and bedding infected with cholera or other excreta even at burning ghats, not to speak of the usual bathing ghats, should be strictly prohibited. People may carry the water and do the washing at their own places.

(e) The village panchayet is to be informed beforehand whenever any dead body be brought to the burning ghat for incineration. He shall keep a register in which the names of all the deceased burnt there be recorded, and other particulars inserted for inspection by executive officers while out on tour. There are very few riparian municipalities in Bengal, but village panchayets may be well utilized in this connection, and in respect of other matters of rural sanitation under the guidance of sanitary inspectors. I beg to suggest, though with diffidence, that a nominal tax of one pice per head may be safely levied from the relatives of the deceased to meet the expenses of inspection and cleansing. The poorest people may be exempted from this trifle of a contribution towards a fund for general use. Out of this fund, a sweeper may be retained to cleanse the ghat daily; well-to-do people may be taxed at a higher rate.

(f) It has been brought to my notice that some Bairagees bury their dead in river beds. They may bury them at certain other places, but shall not be permitted to do so in beds of rivers lest contamination of the water take place during the freshets at the time of the periodical inundation.

Further suggestions may be continued to meet any hostile opposition against the adoption of repressive legal measures.

Dated Calcutta, the 18th June 1895.

From—Rai Raj Kumar Sarvadhikari Bahadur, Secretary, British Indian Association,

To—The Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Judicial Department.

In reply to your letter No. 2156J., dated the 16th ultimo, I have the honour to submit the following opinion of the Managing Committee of the British Indian Association on the practice of throwing dead bodies into the rivers of Bengal.

2. The practice of casting dead bodies into rivers never found a justification, on the score of religious sentiment, in the eyes of the native community. Looking to the difficulties of checking the practice, it was formerly regarded as an unavoidable nuisance, but always with abhorrence. The change for the better, which has gradually taken place in this respect, is no doubt partly due to the vigilance of the police, but it is in a great measure owing to the people gradually realising the true character of the evil.

3. The Committee would beg leave to add in passing that the poverty of the people generally has contributed to some extent to bring on the evil complained of. Municipalities are authorised to provide funds for the burning of paupers free of charge, but no such provision exists in respect of rural areas which by far exceed those of municipalities. Though assistance in burning the dead poor may be obtained when sought for, it is not likely to be always ready at hand, and it would be well if other local bodies, such as panchayets, could be empowered to find funds for the cremation of paupers.

4. The general feeling against the pollution of rivers by casting dead bodies into them is indeed so strong that the Committee of the Association do not for a moment apprehend that any action taken by Government for the purpose of preventing the practice would be regarded as a grievance by any section of the community. From the very nature, however, of the case, the measures to be taken need not be at all stringent. A notification, similar to the one published in 1888, may be published in all riparian villages, but no prosecutions need be undertaken except in rare cases. Although, for obvious reasons, it would be impossible to root out the practice, the Committee of the Association entertain every hope that the pressure of native public opinion, aided by the sanction of a possible prosecution, would ere long minimise the evil.

No. 5384, dated Calcutta, the 22nd June 1895.

From—A. H. JAMES, Esq., Offg. Commissioner of Police, Calcutta,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your endorsement No. 2152J. of the 16th April last, regarding the practice of casting dead bodies and carcasses of animals into the river, and in reply beg to report that from enquiries it appears no corpses are now ever thrown into the Hooghly river within the town limits of the Port of Calcutta. Those found by the conservancy boats have either been drowned accidentally or carried in by the tides from beyond town limits. There are, however, grounds to believe that dead bodies of boatmen are sometimes thrown into the canals, but these cases are happily few, as far as can be ascertained.

The number of carcasses found floating, and dealt with by the Police, still appear large; but when it is taken into consideration that dead dogs, cats, rats and even fowls are classed under this heading, the evil is really less than it appears.

2. There is no doubt that all educated natives, especially those inhabiting the districts round Calcutta, condemn the practice of throwing corpses into the river, and are prepared to co-operate in preventing this dangerous custom. I would therefore be inclined to publish the notice mentioned in paragraph 5 of the Government Resolution all over Bengal, leaving the working of the law as much as possible to the Municipal Commissioners and local bodies, except in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions, where instructions should be given to insist upon the police putting a stop to the nuisance.

3. If it is found that the practice can be put down in the above divisions, then the law might be put in full force in other districts, by which time the inhabitants will have become more reconciled to it, and give up their old habits without much trouble.

No. 398Jct., dated Darjeeling, the 5th July 1895.

From—P. NOLAN, Esq., Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your memorandum No. 2152J., dated the 16th April 1895, and the enclosed Resolution, in which I am invited to report what is the practice followed in this Division as to disposing of corpses in streams, and to elicit public opinion on the proposals made by Government for putting a stop to this source of contamination.

2. The practice prevails in this Division, though not to the same extent as in other parts of Bengal. There seems to be little religious feeling in its favour. The two Hindu District Magistrates of this Division, Mr. L. Palit and Mr. Umesh Chandra Batavyal, report that there is none, and that they have already taken steps to stop the nuisance on their own account. I enclose copies of their letters. Mr. Fisher, District Magistrate of Pabna, writes:—

"I am informed that, according to the Hindu shastras, children under two years of age are buried either on the banks of rivers or in the beds of dry nalas. The Muhammadans commonly bury their dead in cholera time in shallow graves in the dry beds of khals. This nuisance, however, is rarely committed within the municipal limits."

3. I am of opinion that, so far as this Division is concerned, the steps indicated in Government Resolution No. 2151J., dated the 16th April 1895, may be taken to suppress the practice. I am not, however, very sanguine as to the result. The circumstances attending the disposal of dead bodies by the poor are such that convictions can rarely be secured in prosecutions such as those contemplated. Moreover, the rivers of this country teem with animal life, from the alligator to the microscopic insect, and therefore with the débris of such life, in the form of dead bodies. They are the sewer conduit for the floating population by which they are navigated, and for the towns or villages which crowd their banks. I doubt whether the improvements which the proposed measures will by itself effect will be perceptible to the closest analysis.

No. 662J., dated Dinajpur, the 28th June 1895.

From—L. PALIT, Esq., Magistrate of Dinajpur,
To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division.

WITH reference to your No. 77Jct., dated 26th April 1895, I have the honour to state that Hindu birth, from my knowledge of Hindu sentiments, and from the opinions of Hindu gentlemen I have consulted on this subject, I am of opinion that to punish the act of throwing dead bodies into rivers as a public nuisance is not all opposed to Hindu religious sentiments or to their feelings. I have no hesitation in saying that such acts should be punished as public nuisance, and I may state that I have already had it notified to thana officers and to chaukidars that cases of throwing dead bodies into rivers are to be reported as cases of public nuisance.

No. 207J., dated Bogra, the 30th May 1895.

From—UMESH CHANDRA BATAVYAL, Esq., Offg Magistrate of Bogra,
To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division.

WITH reference to your Circular No. 77Jct, dated 26th April 1895, on the subject of throwing dead bodies into rivers, I have the honour to submit copies of the reports noted on the margin, and to add the following observations.

1. Letter No. 57M., dated 18th May 1895, from the Chairman of the Bogra Municipality.
2. Letter No. 24M., dated 15th May 1895, from the Chairman of the Sherpur Municipality.

2. The practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers prevails to a considerable extent in this district. Low-caste Hindus and mendicant Baisnabs are the men who are chiefly guilty in this respect. The dead bodies of persons dying of cholera and other diseases which are believed to be contagious are also frequently thrown into the rivers. The practice, however, has not the sanction of religion or of any binding custom, and I do not apprehend that any agitation will be set on foot, if the proposed notification is issued. Indeed, as a Magistrate, I have dealt with such conduct as an offence under section 290, Penal Code. Cholera is often propogated by throwing the dead bodies of cholera patients into streams the water of which is used for domestic purposes. In the district of Malda, when an epidemic cholera was prevailing, I used to pay rewards to chaukidars for bringing the offences to light, after issuing a general proclamation that the practice was an offence and the offenders would be prosecuted.

3. When I joined the district in December 1894, I found an epidemic of small-pox prevailing in the eastern tracts, and Dr. Watts, the Civil Medical Officer, whom I asked to make a special report, brought it to my notice that dead bodies are frequently thrown into the rivers. In consultation with the District Superintendent of Police, I issued an order to the police to make enquiries from chaukidars, who come to report deaths, how the dead body in each case has been disposed of, and if any corpse is found to have been thrown into a river, to report the matter to me for prosecuting the offender. Quite recently I ordered the prosecution of two persons, who being Brahmans had thrown the corpse of a cholera patient into the Karotoya river, near Sherpur, and they were fined Rs. 5 each. Within my experience no one ever raised the plea that the practice was enjoined by custom or religion. It requires to be put down with vigour. Those who cannot afford to burn the dead bodies of their relatives or friends should bury them, and the dead bodies of paupers who are friendless should be buried at the cost of the State.

No. 57M., dated Bogra, the 18th May 1895.

From—BABU BENI MADHAB CHAKI, Chairman of the Bogra Municipality,
To—The Magistrate of Bogra.

In reply to your memorandum No. 125J., dated the 4th May 1895, forwarding therewith a copy of Government Resolution No. 2151J., dated the 16th April 1895, I have the honour to state that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers is in vogue in this district, and this is ordinarily done by the poorer classes of the Hindu community who cannot afford to pay for the cost of completely incinerating dead bodies. Sometimes the lips of a dead body are merely scorched and the whole body is then thrown into the river, and sometimes half-burnt dead bodies are also committed to the river. I do not think there will be any opposition to measures that may be adopted to put a stop to this injurious practice. But there is another practice prevailing in this as in other parts of the country which almost every section of the Hindu community, rich or poor, will not be ready to abandon, i.e., throwing the remains of the dead body, after it is reduced to ashes, into the sacred stream, which they think would lead to eternal salvation in after life. And I think there will be a regular hue and cry amongst the Hindu community if the practice of committing the asthi (bone) into the Ganges or any other sacred stream be put a stop to, or in any way interfered with.

No. 24M., dated Sherpur, the 15th May 1895.

From—Babu Kali Kishore Munshi, Chairman of the Sherpur Municipality,
To—The Magistrate of Bogra.

With reference to your office memorandum No. 125J. of the 4th instant, I have the honour to state that in my humble opinion the practice of throwing corpses into dead rivers, specially in the dry season, should be put a stop to.

There is some difficulty no doubt in compelling the poor people to incur the expenses of cremation in the mufassal, but they may most probably get assistance from the neighbours, if no other alternative is left. The Bairagis and other lower-caste Hindus generally resort to the malpractice of throwing dead bodies into the water. But the former are also at liberty to bury their dead. Hindu burial or shomaj grounds should be opened in suitable localities before the above practice is prohibited. Throwing into large rivers is not so much objectionable.

No. 1565J., dated Bhagalpur, the 13th July 1895.

From—G. Toynbee, Esq., Commissioner of the Bhagalpur Division and Sonthal Parganas,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

With reference to your endorsement No. 2152J., dated the 16th April 1895, forwarding Government Resolution No. 2151J., dated the 16th idem, and directing me to report on the practice which prevails among the poorer class of Hindus of casting dead bodies into the rivers, as well as of staking them in the beds of rivers in order to avoid the expense of cremation in prescribed places, I have the honour to state that I have consulted the District Officers, and beg to report as follows.

2. Monghyr—I submit a copy of letter No. 2017J., dated the 18th August 1894, addressed by Mr. Phillips, the permanent Magistrate, to the Civil Surgeon of his district, which embodies his opinion and the result of his enquiries.

The Officiating Magistrate, Mr. Wheeler, has also made some enquiries, but has not elicited anything new. There is a general consensus of opinion that the practice of staking dead bodies in rivers is not in vogue in Monghyr.

The evil of throwing only partially cremated corpses into the rivers undoubtedly does exist in the Sadar and Begusarai subdivisions.

In Jamui the Subdivisional Officer states that it is not common, because there are no rivers with a constant flow of water all the year round, and because fuel is fairly plentiful; cremation is therefore comparatively easy. The difficulty is only with the poorer classes, who cannot afford even cheap fuel.

Animal carcasses are not thrown into the rivers in Monghyr. The Chamars take the skins, jackals and vultures eat the flesh, and itinerant merchants take away the bones.

Mr. Wheeler considers that repressive measures against the practice of throwing imperfectly cremated bodies into rivers would be repugnant to the feelings of the better class Hindus. If it were clearly made known by proclamation that such a practice was forbidden, it would be necessary to guard against the impression, which might gain ground with the common people, that the objection was as much to cremation as, such as, to their taking dead bodies to the banks of the Ganges. But in so far as the practice arises out of the inability of the poor classes to afford complete cremation, any remedy will be unsatisfactory which does not get over this difficulty. He draws attention to Mr. Phillips' suggestion that in towns, municipalities and in the mafassal some form of village sanitary union should be responsible for the provision of wood for the cremation of paupers' corpses.

Without some measure of this kind it will be impossible to check the practice completely by a few desultory prosecutions. The well-known burning ghats can be supervised, but not the miles and miles of river bank equally available for the purpose. He sees no objection to making fixed burning ghats so far as possible in all places for villages or groups of villages, and not allowing cremation out of them. He thinks this is a measure called for on sanitary as well as general grounds. The wishes of the people would be consulted in fixing the locality of the burning ghats. Promiscuous cremation near villages or by the roadside in the sight of every passer-by is most undesirable. If it were an offence to cremate a body outside a specified spot, detection would be more easy. Mr. Wheeler also thinks it possible that in time a special spot might acquire a special holiness as a cremating ground, and that people of the locality might desire to cremate their dead there rather than anywhere at random on the riverside; the more so as fuel-sellers and Brahmins would be sure to congregate there.

3. Bhagalpur—The Officiating Magistrate of Bhagalpur, Mr. B. K. Mullick, states that the poorer classes in this district, by reason of their poverty, almost invariably consign their dead to the river after a very superficial scorching of the lips. It is said that the evil is aggravated by the growing want of firewood. He states that among those who can afford a more complete incremation of the corpse, it is an universal custom to stake the remains in some sacred stream.

The Secretary of the Landholders' Association, himself a big zamindar, does not think much harm is done by throwing into a stream or staking in it the remains after thorough cremation. He disapproves of the practice in regard to partially incremated corpses, but he does not think the penal action proposed by Government will be effective. He would for the present limit the operation of section 290, Indian Penal Code, only to streams and rivers in the vicinity of big towns and villages.

The Maharaja of Sonbursa admits the almost universal pollution of streams and rivers by semi-cremated corpses. He thinks, however, that police interference would offend religious prejudices. He would not have any penal legislation in the matter, but would ask Government to work through the zamindars. He suggests that Government should set apart in each village a separate burning ground for human beings and a burial ground for animals. He thinks the Maharaja's proposal practically amounts to letting things remain as they are. Whether penal legislation, as suggested by the Sanitary Commissioner, will be very effective, is another matter, but Mr. Mullick would welcome it at any rate as a potential force in the hands of the executive. He does not consider that there is anything to fear on the ground of religious opposition.

4. Purnea.—Mr. Temple, the Officiating Magistrate of Purnea, reports that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers is greatly resorted to by the poorer classes of Hindus almost everywhere in the district, except in the Kishanganj subdivision, which has a large preponderence of Muhammadans. The practice of staking dead bodies in the beds of rivers prevails also, though to a very limited extent.

The Magistrate, in the course of his inspection, has found that dead bodies are also very often imperfectly burnt and thrown into khals or other large places containing water. Even in the sadar station there are two such places. The attention of the Municipality was drawn to this very objectionable practice with a view to put a stop to the nuisance, and orders were passed on the police to stop it and report offenders for prosecution. The practice obtains in the Araria subdivision to an appallingly large extent. He thinks that a rigorous enforcement of section 290, Indian Penal Code, to put a stop to this practice, will be very effective and is very desirable.

The Officiating Magistrate states that to resort to the measures recommended by the sanitary authorities will not be opposed to Hindu sentiment, and that there will be no public feeling against the suppression of the practice on religious grounds. The poorer classes may object to it, but only on the score of expenses. The plea of poverty often sent up as an excuse for merely putting a little fire in the mouth of the corpse and then throwing it into the nearest piece of water has no validity, and he thinks that prosecutions under section 290, Penal Code, should be instituted, and then the practice will soon cease.

5. Malda—Mr. Price, the Magistrate of Malda, reports that dead bodies are seldom thrown into rivers or into any watercourse in that district.

6. Sonthal Parganas.—The Deputy Commissioner reports that the publication of a proclamation forbidding the staking of dead bodies in the beds of rivers, khals and other watercourses, which are resorted to for drinking and culinary purposes, will not be an innovation in this district.

People who disobeyed the orders were prosecuted under sections 290 and 291 of the Indian Penal Code, and this has stopped the practice.

The practice of burning bodies on the banks of river and watercourses in order that the ashes or unburnt remains may be washed into the water, is founded on religion, but so were other practices which have been effectually checked. There is no feeling in this district which can be said to be public opinion, and the orders of Government will be submitted to (whenever they cannot be evaded) without any expression of discontent.

7. I think myself that the notice mentioned in paragraph 5 of the Government Resolution should be published generally throughout the province, and that prosecutions under section 290, Indian Penal Code, should follow in flagrant cases where the offence can be brought home. But no prosecution should be instituted without the special sanction of the District Magistrate. This would prepare the way for more radical measures. The matter can, I think, only be thoroughly dealt with in a Village Sanitation Act, which must, no doubt, sooner or later, be passed for rural Bengal, if sanitation is to make any real progress, or be anything more than a name.

No. 2017J., dated Monghyr, the 18th August 1894.

From—H. A. D. PHILLIPS, Esq., Magistrate of Monghyr,
To—The Civil Surgeon of Monghyr.

IN reply to your No. 557, dated 10th instant, I have the honour to state that I have never heard of the practice of staking dead bodies to the beds of rivers.

2. As regards municipal areas the question is simple. It is the duty of the Municipality to cremate all pauper corpses, and the Magistrate should enforce this liability.

3. Outside municipal areas the question is more difficult. The best way to deal with this and other matters affecting the public health is to pass a simple Village Sanitation Act for the province, and to impose a legal liability on panchayets and village headmen.

4 The practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers after nominal cremation prevails, I should say, in all districts. This practice is resorted to by poor people, who cannot afford the expense of total cremation. It is enjoined in the Hindu shastras that dead bodies are to be brought to the banks of the Ganges and there cremated to ensure spiritual salvation. To merely disfigure the mouth of the corpse by partial burning, and then throw it into the river, is an offence punishable under sections 268—290 of the Penal Code. If such a practice prevails in any particular place or at any much frequented burning ghat, the Magistrate could issue an injunction under section 143 of the Code of Criminal Procedure not to repeat or continue the nuisance. Disobedience would then be a cognizable offence under section 291, Penal Code, and the police could arrest. This would greatly lessen the nuisance, but only special legislation would remove it altogether, as we have not a sufficient police force to post a constable at every burning ghat. In this connection, however, I would remark that there are particular burning ghats resorted to from long distances For instance, bodies are brought from Jamalpur to Chandisthan.

5. As regards legislation, I would have a village officer at all the principal burning ghats. He would be bound always to keep a sufficient quantity of dry wood, and would be allowed to charge fixed fees. As to the bodies of those who have no relatives or whose relatives are too poor to pay, this would be a charge on the tax to be collected under the Sanitation Act. Personally I do not advocate the imposition of any regular cess or tax, but I think Unions might be constituted under the Local Self-Government Act in every large centre, and I would give them the power of collecting certain kinds of unobjectionable fees to cover this charge and other cognate charges incidental to the preservation of the public health.

6. For the present a legal obligation to see that pauper corpses are thoroughly cremated might be imposed on the panchayets constituted under Act II of 1870 (B.C.), and they may be permitted to recoup themselves out of the chaukidari tax collections. But even this will require an amending section: the tax could not be diverted to this purpose by an executive order.

From—E. V. WESTMACOTT, Esq., Commissioner of the Presidency Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

WITH reference to Government order No. 2152J., dated the 16th April 1895, forwarding for report a copy of the Government Resolution on the practice of casting dead bodies into the rivers of Bengal, I have the honour to submit herewith copies of the reports* on the subject which I have received from the District Officers in this Division, all of which I think it desirable to lay before Government.

2. I agree with Mr. Collin in thinking that neither the upper nor the lower classes of Hindus would raise any objection to the measures indicated by the Advocate-General, and I have no hesitation in saying that, though there has been some improvement in the last thirty years, the water-supply of the country is even at this day polluted by corpses to an extent which renders it highly desirable that something should be done to prevent it. Whether any measures taken would be effectual or not would depend upon the attitude taken by the Judicial Courts, and the excuses which might be found for exempting offenders from punishment. The executive co-operation of Magistrates, Police officers, Municipalities and other local authorities might be secured without difficulty, but would be liable to be nullified by the action of the Judicial Courts.

3. The difficulty of cremating their dead is by no means so great among the poor as might be imagined, as the more wealthy Hindus consider it meritorious, if not a religious duty, to contribute to the expenses of crematio among their indigent neighbours, if the latter beg for it, as they do not unfrequently. It is true that many find it less troublesome to throw their dead into the water, but if that were rendered punishable they could ask their neighbours for fuel, and would get it. I do not think the disposal of the corpses of cattle otherwise than by throwing them into the water presents any difficulty in a country consisting so largely of vast open plains as this division. The flesh of a carcass laid in an open place is very soon disposed of by vultures and beasts and birds of prey, and the bare bones very soon cease to be offensive. I do not suppose there is a village in the division which cannot find an open space for the disposal of carcasses at a sufficient distance from human habitation.

4. I am in favour of proceeding on the lines indicated by the Advocate-General.

No. 499M., dated Alipore, the 7th June 1895.

From—E. W. Collin, Esq., Offg. Magistrate, 24-Parganas,

To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

With reference to your letter No. 18J.J., dated the 27th April 1895, on the subject of Government Circular No. 2151J., dated the 16th April 1895, calling for a report regarding the custom of throwing corpses into rivers, I have the honour to submit the following reply.

2. From the information which I have received it appears that the practice of throwing corpses into rivers and khals still prevails in the district, but that it is less common than formerly. In 1890-91 notices were widely issued, prohibiting the disposal of dead bodies in this manner, and prosecutions were successfully instituted under section 291. The measures then taken are reported to have had considerable effect. Some of the municipalities also took action, and in Naihati Domes were engaged to watch the river bank, and arrangements were made for the cremation of paupers at the expense of the Municipality.

3. It is, however, not uncommon to throw the bodies of those whose relatives cannot afford proper cremation, or who being strangers, have no relatives at hand, into the rivers and khals of the district, and corpses are occasionally to be seen in the river Hooghly, in Tolly's nala and elsewhere.

4. The circular of Government under reply has been distributed to all Municipalities and to the District Board, but it does not appear to have excited any special interest either for or against the proposal of Government to take further measures to prevent the pollution of rivers. There is a general consensus of opinion among those who have replied to the circular and whom I have consulted that the practice of disposing of corpses without cremation has no religious sanction, and is repugnant to Hindu sentiment. The question, it is true, does not materially affect the upper classes, who can afford to cremate their dead; but judging from the effect of the action taken in 1890 and 1891 to prevent the pollution of rivers, it is not probable that the lower classes will seriously resent any action which may be taken to suppress the nuisance.

5. Action may be taken in several ways in addition to the methods proposed by Government. It appears that up-country Hindus generally resort to burial for the disposal of their dead. This class is chiefly found in the neighbourhood of the mills and in municipalities, and burial-grounds should be provided for them. The factories within the Naihati Municipality have provided such a burial-ground for their employés, and they allow the corpses of others to be buried there. The same arrangement might be made in other municipalities and by other industrial concerns.

6. Low caste Hindus, such as Jogis and Baisnavs, bury their dead, and they select by preference the banks of rivers for the graves, and thus contribute to the pollution of the water. The practice can be stopped by executive action through the Police and Municipal Officers, whose attention should be directed to the subject.

7. In some cases corpses are thrown in a half-burnt state into rivers by the Domes, with a view to profit by the saving of fuel. In these cases the Domes, and not the relatives of the deceased, are to blame, and except where bodies are thrown into running rivers, like the Hooghly, it would be easy to detect the offenders in such cases. Municipal officers should be directed to take measures for the prevention of such offences, and in rural areas chaukidars could be stimulated by the promise of rewards to bring to notice cases in which Domes are responsible for the pollution of waters. It might be necessary to keep a register of Domes, and to provide rules for their effective supervision.

8. There remains the class of indigent deceased and of strangers for whose cremation no private provision is possible. In municipal areas there should be no difficulty in providing for their cremation under section 260 of the Act, and it does not appear that municipal bodies have any objection to the expenditure of money for this object. They find it difficult, however, to ascertain when a cremation at the expense of the municipal fund is necessary, and their action would be helped if the police co-operate with them and bring to notice immediately any cases when paupers or strangers have died without means for the proper disposal of their bodies. The expense of cremation is about Rs. 3 for a corpse In rural areas, where fuel is generally easy to obtain, such difficulties ought seldom to arise, but in cases of epidemics the District and Local Boards could provide funds, which Union Committees and panchayets could distribute.

9. I have ventured to discuss the question with some detail, because it is clear that the mere issue of an order prohibiting the pollution of rivers by corpses would not be sufficient. It is necessary to provide some other means for disposing of them. The people do not resort to this practice for any religious or sentimental grounds, but from necessity. Before the practice can be prevented, therefore, it is necessary to provide some other method of disposal. The Hindus of the district will not resort to burial, and therefore, if for any reason they are unable to afford the expense of cremation, provision must be otherwise made.

10. There remains the question of the disposal of the corpses of children under two years of age. Hindu custom is opposed to their cremation and prescribes burial, but it is said that owing to the notices issued in 1890-91, people are generally afraid to bury the bodies of children, and therefore throw them into rivers or tanks. The withdrawal of the prohibitory notices in the case of children would, it is said, be a popular measure, and it could be at the same time accompanied by a notice ordering that such corpses should be buried sufficiently deep to prevent their disturbance by animals.

No. 1792J.G., dated Krishnagar, the 28th May 1895.

From—J. H. E. GARRETT, Esq., Offg. Magistrate of Nadia,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

IN your memorandum No. 18J.J., dated the 27th ultimo, forwarding for an expression of my opinion papers relating to the practice of throwing corpses into rivers, you directed me to submit my report within a month. I asked you for spare copies of the papers to enable me to obtain the opinion of the District Board and other local bodies, but these copies not having been received, I have been unable to obtain their opinions.

2. I am afraid that the practice of throwing partially burnt and unburnt corpses into rivers and khals is very prevalent in this district. Moreover, cases in which dead bodies are staked to the bottom of the rivers and khals are not unknown. It would appear from the Resolution of Government and its annexures that the only efficient way of putting a stop to this disgusting practice would be to pass a special Act for the promulgation of the notice warning people against the practice has admittedly been of little or no practical effect. The question of whether or no the people are ripe for legislation on this point is a difficult one, and granting that they are, the difficulty of deciding what form the legislation should take would be very great. There can be no doubt that at times of great mortality the poorer classes would be quite unable, even if they had the desire, to completely incinerate all their dead. Consequently, any legislation which forbade the present practice, without providing some system of public crematoriums, could not be carried into effect without very great hardship. In fact, under present circumstances, the difficulties in the way of legislation appear insurmountable, and I do not see any practical method for combating the evil.

No. 1147G., dated Jessore, the 24th May 1895.

From—F. R. ROE, Esq., Magistrate of Jessore,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

IN accordance with your memorandum No. Cir.18J.J., dated the 27th April 1895, I have the honour to submit the following report :—

2. Copies of Government Resolution No. 2151T. were forwarded to the District Board, and to the Municipalities of Jessore, Kotechandpur, and Moheshpur for an expression of their opinions on the subject.

3. Replies have been received from all of them. The replies are unanimous on the point of Hindu ceremonial. There is absolutely nothing in that ceremonial enjoining the consignment of unconsumed remains to the sacred stream, but in no reply has any mention been made of the actual practice now followed by the poorer classes; nor has any mention been made of the difficulties to which these poorer classes may be put from the difficulty of obtaining firewood. I was myself present at the meeting of the District Board, and from the discussion on the subject I gathered that the practice of staking dead bodies was very common, and that of throwing unconsumed portions of human dead was also common. It appeared to me also that the greatest nuisance was occasioned by the practice of moochies throwing into the river the carcasses of cattle from which they had taken the skins.

4. The District Board passed the following resolution on the subject:—

"Resolved that the Board highly condemns the practice, and that in order to guard against it, notices should be issued to each village through the police, and stuck up in a convenient place in every village, to the effect that any one staking a dead body or throwing any unconsumed part of a dead body or the corpse of any animal into any river in the district, would be punished under section 290 of the Indian Penal Code, and that chaukidars be warned on parade days that any failure to report breaches of this rule will be punished under Act V of 1861.

"Resolved further that the zamindars of the district be asked to see that the burning ghat of each village is in proper order, and in cases where there are no burning ghats be asked to provide them, and that the Local Boards and the Subdivisional Officers be asked three months hence to report what has been done in the matter."

5. The Municipalities of Jessore and Kotechandpur have each framed bye-laws on the subject, imposing penalties of Rs. 10, Rs. 20 and Rs. 30.

The bye-laws make incumbent on all persons to dispose of dead bodies by burning or burying them in a place set apart for the purpose by the Commissioners. They make no provision for the stopping of the practice of throwing the carcasses of dead animals into rivers, but as this practice can be punished under section 290, the omission is not serious.

6. The Moheshpur Municipality has as yet framed no bye-law, but is resolved to do so on receipt of the orders of Government.

7. If the zamindars do their duty in the matter of providing free burning ghats, and if the chaukidars do their's in the matter of reporting all cases of obnoxious disposal, an improvement may be expected, but I am not sanguine of either event coming to pass. It was proposed at the District Board meeting to promise rewards of Rs. 10 to each chaukidar reporting a case. I opposed this for obvious reasons, but I think that rewards should be given to chaukidars and panchayets who have shown themselves zealous in the matter, and this, combined with punishment in cases of neglect, should have a good effect.

8. The main difficulty lies in the scarcity of fuel. My experience of this district is practically nil, and in the absence of mention of the subject in the reports of the local bodies, I can make no suggestions. I have, however, consulted the local officers, and gather that firewood can be had throughout the district practically for the gathering, so that no hardship will be imposed on the poorer Hindus by insisting on their disposing of their dead in a sanitary manner. What the moochies are to do with the carcasses of cattle, I cannot say. In the Sonthal Parganas there were large tracts of uncultivated land in every village, and the carcasses were simply thrown away to become food for birds of prey. I think it wood be hard on the moochies to insist on their burning these carcasses, but am unable to suggest any alternative.

No. 471, dated Berhampur, the 1st June 1895.

From—J. KENNEDY, Esq, Magistrate of Murshidabad,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

IN continuation of my No. 460, dated the 31st May 1895, I beg to report I have now just got a reply from the Chairman of Jungipur Municipality, who states that the throwing of a small unburnt portion of the body is a part of the religious rites of the Hindus, and that in the present state of public opinion, the practice of staking dead bodies in the beds of the rivers cannot be interfered with. The Chairman seems to be singular in the latter opinion. As to the first point I understand it is not proposed at present to forbid throwing the unburnt navel into the river, which is, I believe, the Hindu custom referred to.

No. 460, dated Berhampur, the 31st May 1895.

From—J. KENNEDY, Esq., Magistrate of Murshidabad,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

IN reply to your memorandum No. 18JJ., dated the 27th April 1895, forwarding copy of Government Resolution No. 2151J., dated the 16th April 1895, on the subject of defiling the rivers and streams in this country by casting dead bodies therein, I beg to report there appears to be a unanimous opinion that the proposals contained in paragraph 6 of the Resolution, should be carried out. The District Board and the Municipalities of Berhampur and Kandi are agreed on the point. Lalbagh and Jungipur have not yet submitted any report, but as directed in your memorandum under reply, I shall wait no longer for them.

No. 1314, dated Khulna, the 31st May 1895.

From—F. N. FISCHER, Esq., Offg. Magistrate of Khulna,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

WITH reference to your memorandum No. 18JJ., dated the 27th April last, and its enclosure, regarding the practice of throwing dead bodies into the rivers by Hindus, I have the honour to state that the Government Resolution was circulated to the Commissioners of all the Municipalities and to the Chairman of the District Board, but replies have been received only from the Commissioners of the Municipalities of Satkhira, Debhatta and Chanduria. They are of opinion that the practice of throwing half-burnt or unburnt dead bodies into the rivers and khals within municipal limits, is objectionable. They consider the practice of staking dead bodies in the beds of rivers and khals equally objectionable, and hence are of opinion that it must be put down by the introduction of bye-laws. I think this course may be adopted with advantage within the municipal limits. In rural areas the water of the rivers and khals gets defiled to an equal extent with the dead bodies which are thrown into them, and to put a stop to the practice, I would propose to issue a general notice, through the local police, as was done in the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions, prohibiting the casting of unburnt or half-burnt dead bodies into the rivers and khals on pain of prosecution under section 290, Indian Penal Code.

No. 568M., dated Chittagong, the 17th July 1895.

From—W. B. OLDHAM, Esq., C.I.E., Commissioner of the Chittagong Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

IN reply to your No. 2152J., dated 16th April 1895, I have the honour to report that the practice of throwing corpses and carcasses into rivers and their tributaries in this division is very rare. The practice of staking corpses in water-courses or river beds seems to be unknown here. In the cases of epidemics I hear that corpses and carcasses are thrown into the rivers to get rid of them. But in all my journeys by river I have never seen a floating corpse. There are no sacred waters, except the Sitakund and Barabakund springs, in the division.

2. Speaking, therefore, for this division only, there would be no opposition on religious grounds to legislation or other action on the proposals put forward by the Sanitary authorities to put a stop to the evil such as it is. The only objections suggested by the bodies or individuals consulted are to any interference with the people till Government or the local authorities undertake the task of the proper disposal of the unclaimed or pauper dead.

3. Only one referee, Babu Nityanunda Roy, of Chittagong, goes out of his way to deprecate, on grounds of orthodoxy, any interference with the Hindu practice of consigning the dead to the sacred Ganges.

No. 330J., dated Ranchi, the 26th July 1895.

From—W. H. GRIMLEY, Esq., Commissioner of the Chota Nagpur Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 2152J., dated 16th April 1895, calling for a report regarding the practice of casting dead bodies into rivers in the districts of this division, and in reply to state as follows.

2. In the Hazaribagh district the practice of staking dead bodies in the beds of rivers does not obtain: the dead are always either cremated, wood being abundant and cheap, or buried. Mr. Konstam, the late Officiating Deputy Commissioner, states that while he was in charge of the Jhenidah subdivision in Jessore, which adjoins that of Chuadanga mentioned in the Government circular, his attention was repeatedly directed to the pollution by this cause of the numerous channels with which the district is honeycombed. In most of these the water was stagnant, except for a very short period every year, and in all of them it was used for every domestic purpose. He found that nothing could be done to stop the practice, except in particular places where things were especially bad, owing to the immediate proximity of a burning ghat to a village, or to some other circumstance of its position. In these cases it was possible to take action under Chapter XI, Criminal Procedure Code. During one of the years he was in charge fever was reported to have carried off one-twentieth of the population. He cannot conceive a measure calculated to be of more sanitary benefit to the terribly malarious districts than such an order as is contemplated by the circular of Government. All the educated native gentlemen to whom he has spoken on the subject (both in Bengal proper and in Tirhut, where it prevails to a less extent) have condemned the practice; and he has never heard it stated that it was in conformity with orthodox Hindu usage. So far as he understands, to commit the ashes of the dead to the stream is considered by pious Hindus as much if not more efficacious than to consign the unburnt remains. The practice of partial incineration is, he believes, due much more to the poverty of the survivors, and the difficulty of transporting fuel when the burning ghat is at a distance from the home of the deceased, than to any religious considerations. The existence of a very strong belief in the sacred character of the smaller channels in the Ganges Delta is decidedly questionable; for the richer classes of Hindus in Jessore often go to considerable expense to transport the remains of their relatives to the Bhagirathi, which they believe to represent more closely the Ganges itself.

3. Colonel Gordon, Deputy Commissioner of Lohardaga, reports that he circulated the Government Resolution on the subject to the following gentlemen and associations:—

(1) The Bishop of Chota Nagpur.
(2) The Revd. Dr. A. Nottrott, Superintendent of the G. E. L. Mission.
(3) The Maharaja of Chota Nagpur
(4) The Commissioners of the Ranchi Municipality.
(5) The Members of the Ranchi Bar.

Their unanimous opinion is that the practice is very objectionable, and ought to be prevented. In the district of Lohardaga there are no large rivers, and as far as can be ascertained corpses are rarely, if ever, thrown into rivers. Colonel Gordon adds that the practice, wherever it exists, is certainly dangerous to public health, and in order to put a stop to it something should be done; but he would not adopt the procedure indicated by the Sanitary Commissioner, which seems to him to be clumsy and unworkable. He would suggest a section being inserted in the Penal Code, itself (say 290A), in which the act itself would be constituted an offence. This would have universal application; and as its enforcement would not come into conflict with any religious prejudices, such legislation would be unobjectionable.

4. Mr. Streatfeild, Deputy Commissioner of Palamau, states that as far as he can learn dead bodies are not thrown unburnt in this district, the fact being that fuel is plentiful and cheap, and the economy in disposing of dead bodies is therefore uncalled for.

5. Mr. Morshead, Officiating Deputy Commissioner of Manbhum, reports that he wrote to several native gentlemen and received replies from them. Babu Nando Gopal Banerjee, District Engineer of Manbhum, reports that (1) the practice of burning or burying dead bodies in beds of nalas and rivers may be said to be universal in Manbhum, so far as the Hindus are concerned. In places where there is no water-course within a short distance, dead bodies are generally burned in the beds of old silted-up tanks, which are not used for any other purpose. The poorer classes of people often under ordinary circumstances, and in the event of epidemics, throw away their dead bodies in a scorched condition at local places of cremation, chiefly beds of near st water-courses; (2) the custom is so old and universal that, so far as Manbhum and its people are concerned, he does not think that the practice is either increasing or decreasing, excepting in so far as such a thing is likely to be affected by changes which may have taken place in the general condition and health of the people; (3) he is of opinion that a prohibition of the practice of burning or burying deads bodies in beds of water-courses will meet with no objection from the Hindus. Like the practice amongst high-class Hindus of throwing into the Ganges, or any other river held sacred, a bit of bone of the departed, as soon after cremation as possible, the prevailing custom amongst the Sonthals is to throw away bones in a big river. The Burrakar, the Damoodar and the Subarnarekha are, amongst others, held sacred by them. He thinks that it is very necessary that this practice should not be interfered with. So far as he can judge it will be a very good thing to stop the practice of burning, burying or throwing dead bodies in a semi-burnt condition in beds of water-courses. Babu Nando Gopal Banerjee has been in this district for 14 or 15 years, so that his opinion is entitled to consideration Manbhum is a sparsely populated district, and the water-courses are usually dry except when they contain raging torrents, both of which conditions help to counteract whatever insanitary result may follow from the practice. Mr. Morshead does not think that the enactment contemplated is necessary in this district, though it might be useful to have it to fall back upon. None of those consulted suggest that the prohibition contemplated is likely to meet with objection.

6. Mr. Bompas, Officiating Deputy Commissioner of Singhbhum, reports that the practice does not exist in this district, and there is therefore no public opinion on any proposed restrictive measures.

7. It will thus be seen that while all are agreed that the practice of throwing corpses into rivers, or of staking them in the beds, is highly objectionable and dangerous to health, yet owing to the abundance of fuel and the absence of large rivers, it does not exist in the districts of this division, except in Manbhum, and there not to any serious extent, so that, as far as this division is concerned, there is no special need for legislation or for additional precautionary measures; but in the malarious districts of Bengal there can be no two opinions as to the necessity for such a sanitary measure. I myself think that the enactment of a special prohibition in the Penal Code is likely to be much more effectual than the issue of a notice referring to the punishment provided in section 290 of that Code. Notices and proclamation may be of service for a time while the subject is new, but in a little time they are forgotten. I would therefore propose special legislation on the subject as the only really effective remedy for the evil.

From—E. V. Westmacott, Esq., Commissioner of the Presidency Division,

In continuation of my No 79J.G., dated the 13th July 1895, reporting on the practice of casting dead bodies into the rivers of Bengal, I have the honour to submit herewith copy of a letter No. 2800J.G., dated the 2nd instant, from the Magistrate of Nadia, with copy of its enclosure, being a précis of the opinions of local bodies in that district on the subject.

No. 2800J.G., dated Krishnagar, the 2nd August 1895.

From—J. H. E. Garrett, Esq., Officiating Magistrate of Nadia,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

In continuation of my No 1792J.G., dated 28th May last, I have the honour to submit herewith a précis of the opinions of all the local bodies in this district. It will be seen that there is a general concensus of opinion that steps should be taken to prevent the pernicious habit in question, and nearly all are agreed that legislation is necessary, provided that proper steps be at the same time taken to provide for the incineration of the corpses of paupers.

NOTE

Giving a précis of the opinion of each Local Body regarding the practice of throwing dead bodies in the river.

The District Board of Nadia, at a meeting held on the 13th July last, resolved that Government should legislate, so as to make it a penal offence to throw unburnt or half-burnt corpses into rivers, &c., except of those who died of unnatural death, provided some provision be made for the disposal of the corpses of the pauper classes.

The Chairman of the Krishnagar Local Board reports that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers being opposed to Hindu shastras ought to be put a stop to by Government, and that the police in charge of each thana, village panchayets, and zamindars ought to be directed to keep an eye to the prevention of the above in question.

The members of the Kushtia Local Board resolved, at a meeting held on the 14th June last, that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers, khals, &c., is highly objectionable, and that Government should interfere in the matter. They further resolved that notices in vernacular should be published by beat of drum in every village, forbidding the throwing of corpses into rivers, &c., under the penalty of being prosecuted under the Penal Code.

The Chairman of the Meherpur Local Board reports that it is desirable that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers, khals, &c., should be put a stop to.

The Vice Chairman of the Ranaghat Local Board reports that the practice of throwing dead bodies and carcasses in the river is highly objectionable, not only from sanitary, but also from social, religious, and moral points of view, and should be put a stop to by strict legislative measures. He further suggests that Municipalities and District and Local Boards should frame special bye-laws, making this practice punishable.

The Chairman of the Kissenganj Union Committee reports that the practice is objectionable, and should at once be checked. He is, however, opposed to any legislative interference. He further states that most of the villagers being very poor are not able to meet the cremation expenses; and in order to avoid hardship to them it is desirable that a fund, sufficient to meet the cremation expenses of the poorer classes, should, in the first place, be raised in each village, and the District Board should contribute to a portion of the fund.

The Chairman of the Muragacha Union Committee suggests that the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers being objectionable should be put a stop to by legislative enactment; but as this will entail hardship on the poorer classes of the people, it is desirable that a tax on the basis of the village chaukidari tax should be raised to meet the cremation expenses of the poorer classes of the people.

The Chairman of the Chuadanga Union Committee reports that the practice of throwing dead bodies into the rivers being objectionable, it ought to be put a stop to by legislation.

The Chairman of the Poradah Union Committee reports that there being no rivers within the jurisdiction of that Committee, the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers is not prevalent in the jurisdiction of that Committee.

The Commissioners of the Krishnagar Municipality are of opinion that no dead body ought to be thrown into any river or water channel, except the small remnant which the Hindus usually consign into the water, considering themselves bound by their religion to do so, under such sanitary provisions as may be considered necessary.

The Chairman of the Nadia Municipality reports that, as the poorer classes of the people are not able to meet the cremation expenses, it would be extremely hard on them if the practice of throwing dead bodies into the rivers be stopped without creating a fund to meet such expenses. But in spite of this he is of opinion that every endeavour should be made to speedily suppress this obnoxious practice.

The Chairman of the Kushtia Municipality reports that the practice is highly objectionable, and ought to be suppressed by special legislation.

The Chairman of the Kumarkhali Municipality reports that dead bodies are very rarely thrown into the river by the people of the Municipality, and those who do so are prosecuted by the police.

The Chairman of the Meherpur Municipality reports that dead bodies are very seldom thrown into the river Bhairab by the residents of the Municipality. He further reports that those who cannot afford to pay the cremation expenses throw their dead bodies in a khal to the north of the town, the water of which is never used for drinking or culinary purposes.

The Chairman of the Ranaghat Municipality reports that the practice of throwing dead bodies into the river, or into any drinking water, being opposed to religious laws prevailing in this country, should at once be put down by legislative measures. But the practice of committing the bone (sacrum) of a dead person to the Ganges, which is enjoined by the Hindu shastras, may be allowed to continue, as it does not pollute the river water.

The Vice-Chairman of the Santipur Municipality, instead of giving any opinion on the point of issue, submits a copy of the bye-laws framed by the Municipal Commissioners, which prohibit the thowing of dead bodies into the river, and make the offence punishable with fine.

The Vice-Chairman of the Chakdah Municipality reports that there is no river within the limits of that Municipality which has no control over the matter of throwing dead bodies into the river.

The Vice-Chairman of the Birnagar Municipality reports that if burning ghats be made at convenient places, and with such arrangements as may be availed of even by the poorest, then the practice of casting dead bodies into the river, and thereby contaminating the water, may be stopped.

No. 591J, dated Cuttack, the 17th September 1895.

From—H. G. Cooke, Esq., Commissioner of the Orissa Division,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

With reference to your No. 2152J., dated 16th April 1895, calling for a report on the practice followed in this Division about casting dead bodies into rivers, I have the honour to report as follows, after consulting the District Officers, some social bodies, and leading men in this Division.

2. All the District Officers report that the practice in question is not prevalent in this Division.

3. As regards the point whether the forbidding of the practice by legislative measures, where it exists, should meet with any opposition from a religious point of view, there is a concensus of opinion that such will not be the case. All consulted advocate the issue of a prohibitive notice similar to those published in the Burdwan and the Presidency Divisions. In the report of the Magistrate of Balasore, which embodies the opinions of some native gentlemen of his district, Raja Baikuntha Nath De Bahadur is said to be of the opinion that in the cases of poor men and pilgrims provision should be made for the cost of cremation being borne by the municipal bodies in municipal areas, and by the District Boards in rural areas.

4. Of the selected private gentlemen consulted, Babu Harry Ballav Bose, Government Pleader, Cuttack, says:—"The practice is not countenanced by the shastras. There is no objection to the issue of a notice, as proposed in paragraph 6 of the Government Resolution." He says, however, that some provision should be made for "free cremation." But the purport of this is not clear.

5. Babu Raj Narayan Das, a zamindar of Balasore, says:—"The practice is not recommended by the shastras; it is rather against them, as calculated to defile sacred water. People will be glad if it is stopped by legislative measures."

6. Raja Baidya Nath Pandit of Cuttack says that the practice is objectionable, and that its prevention will not clash with religious sentiments.

7. Mahant Raghunandan Ramanja Das of Emarmuth at Puri makes quotations from religious books to show that though casting of dead bodies into the rivers is an alternative of burying them, the latter should be given the preference. Burial and cremation meeting the ritualistic requirements of all sections of the Hindu community, as laid down in the shastras, the prohibition of the practice in question will not, in his opinion, affect religion.

8. The President of the Utkal Sammilani Sabha at Cuttack says that as the practice is not prevalent in this province, its prohibition is not likely to go against the religious sentiments of the people.

No. 298J.G., dated Burdwan, the 6th November 1895.

From—H. C. Williams, Esq., Offg. Commissioner of the Burdwan Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

With reference to your office endorsement No. 2152J., dated the 16th April last, forwarding for report a copy of Government Resolution No. 2151J. of the same date, on the subject of casting into rivers dead bodies only partially cremated and of staking bodies in the beds of rivers, and asking for an expression of public opinion on the proposals put forward by the sanitary authorities in order to put a stop to the evil wherever it exists, I have the honour to submit the folllowing synopsis of reports received from district officers, together with the opinions of the leading Hindu gentlemen whom they have consulted.

2. (a) Mr. Windsor, the Magistrate of Burdwan, reports that the numerous gentlemen and officers consulted all admit that the practice of throwing human corpses into rivers exists more or less in certain localities, but that there is a wide divergence of opinions as to (1) the extent and causes of the practice, (2) the connection of the shastras with it, (3) the form which repression should take, and (4) what opposition, if any, need be anticipated.

Raja Ban Bihari Kapur, the Subdivisional Officer of Kalna, and the Chairman of that Municipality are of opinion that the custom is rare in this part of the country, and it is said to be unknown within the municipal limits of Burdwan, although cases may occur in the Damodar river during the rains. On the other hand, in the Kalna subdivision, the practice is said to be very common, and the Subdivisional Officer of that subdivision states that in one journey from Kalna to Katuli he noticed no less than 12 dead human bodies and 10 carcasses of animals floating in the Bhagirathi. The Chairman of the Kalna Municipality agrees with this view, and is supported by Rai Nalinaksha Bahadur. Mr. Windsor does not give his own views, but from what I saw when I was Magistrate of the district, I am confident that along the banks of the Bhagirathi the custom is far too common, though I do not think it is so common in other parts of the district. This perhaps is due to the Bhagirathi being, I believe, considered holier than the other rivers. The practice of staking dead bodies in river beds is rare in this district, and is said not to exist in the Katwa subdivision or in the Burdwan Municipality, and when it does take place, it is only in the case of Baisnabs and Bairagis, and could be easily stopped.

(b) Mr. Drake-Brockman, the Magistrate of Birbhum, says that the practice of throwing dead bodies, both unburnt and partially burnt, is said to be prevalent throughout that district, but that of staking corpses in the beds of rivers and khals or other watercourses does not exist.

(c) Mr. Vincent while Magistrate of Bankura reported that in his opinion and in that of Dr. Mukherjee the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers was common, though that was not the view generelly taken by the police and other gentlemen whom he had consulted. With the exception of the Damodar, the other rivers in that district are small and dry up in the hot weather. Bodies are buried in the sand of the beds of these rivers, and this practice tends to pollute the water considerably when the rivers rise.

(d) Mr. Wheeler as Magistrate of Midnapore reports that the practice of throwing half-burnt or scarcely-burnt corpses into rivers and khals appears to exist pretty generally throughout that district; but as in Contai at least so many of the khals and rivers are salt, the drinking water there is not to a great extent polluted. The practice of staking bodies in the beds of rivers is said not to be prevalent, but in the Sadar subdivision bodies are said to be buried in the beds of rivers, and this is only a little less objectionable.

(e) Mr. Dutt as Magistrate of Hooghly says that the practice of throwing unburnt or half-burnt bodies into the rivers prevails to some extent in tracts through which rivers flow, while in the central parts of the district some bodies are thrown into silted up tanks and cremation fields to be eaten up by dogs and jackals, as there are no proper arrangements for the cremation of dead bodies. The practice of staking dead bodies does not prevail.

(f) Mr. Grierson, Magistrate of Howrah, states that the practice complained of is not in existence in his district. No body, he asserts, can deny the gift of fuel when applied for by poor people in such emergencies.

3. The various causes which have contributed to the growth of the malpractices in question are enumerated thus—

(a) Poverty.—The poor classes seldom completely burn the bodies of the dead owing to the scarcity and price of fuel.

(b) The custom of throwing into rivers and not burning (owing to superstitious reasons) the corpses of those who have died from cholera, snake-bite-small-pox or burning, or when epidemics are raging. In Bankura it is stated that those who die from consumption are also not burnt, owing to the idea that the smoke arising from the corpse is infectious to the neighbours.

(c) The corpses of children up to two or two and-a-half years of age are generally thrown into rivers or buried.

(d) The dead bodies of Baisnabs and Jogis as a rule are never burnt, but are either thrown into rivers or buried. Burying near their houses is preferred; and when this habit is not possible, they are often buried under the sand of the rivers.

(e) Frauds practised by corpse-carriers when unattended by relatives of the deceased.

(f) The victims of murder and accidents and those who commit suicide or are apostates are also not burnt.

(g) Ignorance of sanitary laws. Rai Nalinaksha Basu Bahadur also adds to them—

(h) Love of drink, which induces the lower classes to fritter away the money collected for cremation in buying spirituous liquor.

This gentleman also denies that poverty is one of the causes, as he asserts that poor people can always get wood from their richer neighbours.

4. There is a custom acknowledged among all the Hindus and mentioned by some officers called the asti sanchoy, which requires that a slight unburnt portion of every corpse should be thrown into the Ganges. Raja Ban Bihari Kapur of Burdwan states that this practice should not be interfered with, but it may be hedged in with restrictions, e.g., the portion should be a piece of bone exposed to the fire, though not entirely burnt. Mr. Wheeler states that as a detail of cremation it is further prescribed that the bodies should not be wholly consumed, but that a fragment of bone should be left unburnt and consigned with the residue to the Ganges. In this there appears little objection, as charred bones have not the power of pollution.

The public opinion on the proposals put forward to put a stop to the evils as elicited by the district officers is as follows:—

(a) Mr. Windsor and those whom he has consulted are of opinion that, provided the practice of throwing a slight unburnt portion be not interfered with, no opposition will be raised to the prohibition of the custom on the ground of interference with the Hindu religion, as all agree that the Hindu shastras as a rule strictly enjoin cremation. Government should, he considers, undertake the cremation of paupers and of those dying without relatives. It is, however, easier to prohibit than to prevent the custom.

(b) Mr. Drake-Brockman states that a number of gentlemen, European and native, have been consulted, and all are unanimous in condemning the practice which, besides being highly objectionable on sanitary grounds, is not enjoined by any religious authority. On the contrary it is opposed to the religious teaching of the Hindu religion, which ordains cremation of the body and interdicts the pollution of drinking water.

(c) Mr. Vincent says that he does not think there will be any opposition to the proposed action by the educated classes, who are now fully aware of the benefits of good water and of the danger of contagion in cholera and other epidemics. Those whom he consulted have suggested that there would not be any objection on religious grounds to the prevention of the existing practice.

(d) Mr. Wheeler states that the practice appears generally repugnant to educated opinion, as the throwing of anything unclean into water is expressly condemned in Manu. He does not think any measures in repression of the practice complained of would meet with opposition on religious grounds from Hindus. It is contrary to the rites prescribed by their religion.

(e) Mr. Dutt says that the gentlemen he consulted are unanimously of opinion that the malpractice of throwing dead bodies into the rivers should, under all circumstances, be put a stop to. He does not think there can be any resonable objection to burying dead bodies of children under two years near rivers instead of staking them in rivers.

(f) Mr. Grierson reports that all Hindu gentlemen consulted and the Hindu members of the Local Board are unanimous in condemning the practice as repugnant to Hindu religion and as injurious to health.

(g) Rai Bahadur Nalinaksha Basu of Burdwan says that no opposition will be offered by the educated Hindus to the repression of the practice. He anticipates no opposition from the lowest classes even, who, he states, will remain perfectly indifferent about what action may be taken. There may be possibly, he adds, newspaper agitation on the subject.

(h) Raja Ban Behari Kapur, Manager of the Burdwan Raj Estate, would resort to legislative measures, if necessary, but even under the present law he thinks effective action can be taken by publication of notices as proposed. He advises that if the practice of throwing a piece of bone into the Ganges be not interfered with, no opposition will arise.

6. The preventive measures suggested by the Magistrates of the different districts are as follows:—

(a) The Magistrate of Burdwan, Mr. Windsor, states that within municipal limits municipalities should be responsible for the burning ghats. In rural areas chaukidars should be punished if dead bodies are found in rivers or watercourses. Some officers in this district are in favour of the establishment of regular burning ghats and appointments of special chaukidars.

(b) The Magistrate of Bankura (Mr. Vincent) suggests that every municipality should make bye-laws prohibiting the throwing of dead bodies into streams or burning them in the dry bed of rivers. At the same time places should be carefully set apart for burials when custom makes burial necessary according to the belief of the people. The Bankura Municipality has adopted special bye-laws on the subject, and those at Vishnupur and Sonamukhi propose to enact such bye-laws without delay. In the mufassal the burial of corpses in river beds and the throwing of bodies into rivers may be forbidden by public notice and beat of drum, and panchayets and police officers ordered to report all cases of disobedience for prosecution. At the same time inspecting officers might look into the matter and see if their orders are carried out. In large villages burial grounds would have to be set apart.

(c) The Magistrate of Midnapore (Mr. Wheeler) reports that some general orders about burning and burial grounds would be necessary. Promiscuous burning anywhere and everywhere on the banks of rivers would appear highly objectionable, and it is impossible to effect a check if cremation can be done anywhere. If special localities were selected and defined for villages or groups of villages, supervision might be exercised.

7. The Magistrates of Burdwan, Birbhum, Bankura, Midnapore and Howrah suggest prosecution in cases of disobedience under section 290, Indian Penal Code, where preventive measures fail.

Mr. Wheeler states that prosecution should be applied with moderation and only against those who being able to thoroughly cremate their dead have omitted to do so. Wholesale prosecution against paupers who have no means and who would be utterly unable to pay fines inflicted would not be desirable, and by way of providing for such cases some legislation appears necessary. He further suggests that in municipalities provisions for burial and cremation of paupers may be provided for under section 260, and some extension of similar provisions either to the District and Local Board or village panchayets would appear necessary.

Mr. Windsor states that some provision should be made at any rate at burning ghats situated within or near towns for the effective cremation of paupers and of outcasts. Mr. Dutt says that in cases where a man dies within a municipality and has no relations, or has relations who are too poor to pay for cremation, the municipality should bear the expenses. But where the deaths take place outside the limits of a town, and the deceased has no relations able to pay for cremation, there should be some fund for the purpose. According to his ideas the expenditure for the purpose would be small, as such cases are rare, and Hindu feeling on the subject of cremation of dead bodies is very strong. Well-to-do person in villages generally pay from their own pockets the cremation expenses of their poor neighbours.

8. In my opinion there is no doubt that the practice of throwing bodies half or even less burnt into rivers is very common, and that it should be stopped. The main cause of this is, I consider, the poverty of the people, except in certain cases as alluded to in clauses b, c, d, and f of paragraph 3 of this letter. Ordinarily people would, if they had the means, much prefer to see the bodies of their relations and friends thoroughly cremated; but in many districts the price of wood is now becoming a very serious item of expenditure. Again, in places it is difficult to get burning ghats, especially in the rains. Riparian owners do not care about having dead bodies burnt on their lands, and the owners of regular burning ghats take large sums from them who come to use them. In the case of municipalities there should be no difficulty. Every municipality which has not already a sufficient number of burning ghats should be made to have them, and a certain amount should be annually allotted, as is done in some cases, for the supply of wood to them who are so poor that they cannot afford to pay for it themselves. The Chairmen of the Municipalities must take a real, and not only a nominal, interest in the matter. As regards the mufassal the question is more difficult, but on the banks of large rivers places should be taken up, if necessary, if the owners will not give them, for burning ghats, and the expenses in the case of paupers paid for by the District Boards. Chaukidars should be appointed to look after them, and persons not using them should be prosecuted.

I do not believe there will be any real objection to strict measures being taken, although, as pointed out by one native gentleman, one Calcutta paper at least will make an outcry against any coercive measures.

No. 632G., dated Camp Chapra, the 12th November 1895.

From—A FORBES, Esq., C.S.I., Commissioner of the Patna Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to submit the report called for by Government order No. 2153J., dated 16th April last, on the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers, and the proposals put forward by the Sanitary Commissioner to put a stop to the evil.

2. I have consulted the District Officers on the subject, and submit the following abstract of their reports:—

Patna.—Mr. Inglis reports that the Patna Municipality had already appointed a Sub-Committee to consider the questions now raised before the receipt of the Government order. Matters have not, however, apparently advanced beyond the stage of discussion. The District Board and the Municipal Commissioners of Barh and Dinapore have, however, adopted resolutions to the effect that every endeavour should be made to put a stop to the practice, except where specially enjoined by the shastras. The Magistrate observes that cremation is compulsory among Hindus in all cases except the following:—

(1) Children under two years of age.
(2) Certain sects of Sanyasis.
(3) Persons whose death has been caused by poisons, suicide, small-pox or leprosy.
(4) Persons who have been outcasted.
(5) Those who have no legal heir or kinsman.

In the case of children under two years of age and certain sects of Sanyasis burial is enjoined. In the other cases enumerated above bodies are usually thrown into the river. In the case of the "Hansa" sect of Sanyasis the dead bodies are staked in the bed of the river.

It is well known, however, that in many cases of poor persons the cremation is merely nominal. It takes four to six maunds of wood, costing from Re. 1-8 to Rs. 2-4, to cremate a body properly. The zamindar of the village is often inclined to help in the matter of fuel; but when the bodies have to be brought from some distance, the cost and labour of carriage have to be allowed for. The result is that in many such cases the lighting of a handful of straw placed in the mouth of the deceased is considered a sufficient compliance with religious requirements, and the body is cast into the river intact.

To meet cases of this kind Mr. Inglis thinks that local bodies should contribute help, and he suggests that possibly societies might be formed amongst the wealthy Hindus living in the neighbourhood of burning ghats for a similar purpose; and he thinks that wherever such arrangements can be made the authorities should insist on cremation being efficiently carried out in all cases not coming under the enjoined exceptions. I may here note that I think Mr. Inglis is mistaken in supposing (if he does so, though his meaning is not very clear) that deceased persons of the last three classes mentioned by him are required by the shastras to be thrown into the river. The opinion of the best informed Hindus (see paragraph 3 below) does certainly not support this view. The custom of casting into the river has no doubt been adopted in these cases merely as the easiest means of getting rid of the diseased or ownerless bodies.

Gaya.—Mr. Macpherson writes as follows:—

"The questions referred to (in Government Resolution No. 2151J. of 16th April) have been considered at meetings of the Gaya District Board and of the Gaya Municipality. Both adopted practically the same resolutions. They were unanimously of opinion that the practice of casting corpses into rivers and staking them in the river-bed on or near the banks be stopped, but only if places for burning and burying bodies are available or are provided near by. The District Board were of opinion that Government should empower them to arrange for the burning or burial of bodies on occasions of epidemics, and generally of paupers. Both the District Board and the Municipality are prepared to pass bye-laws to give effect to the prohibition and above arrangements, but they doubted whether they had power under the existing law to frame any that would be of practical effect. Pending the framing of such bye-laws they saw no objection to the Magistrate taking action under section 290, Indian Penal Code, judiciously, where suitable places for the burial or burning of dead bodies are available and where notice * * has been given."

The Magistrate agrees in the above and adds that the staking of dead bodies in or near rivers is practised in the case of small children and frequently also in other cases during the prevalence of epidemics.

Shahabad.—Mr. Marindin reports as follows:—

"The general practice prevailing among the Hindus in this district is to cremate the bodies of their dead, either at the Ganges, if this river is within a reasonable distance, or, if it is too far off, on the banks of the Sone or some other river or old bed of the Ganges. In times of epidemic bodies are often thrown unburnt into the nearest river and sometimes into the canals. The poorer classes who cannot afford fuel are apt at any time to throw away their dead unburnt or only partially burnt. At Buxar, for instance, there are two burning ghats on the Ganges—one above and one below the town. At the Charitar banghat above the town no bodies are allowed to be thrown unburnt into the river, and a municipal peon is stationed there to see that cremation is properly carried out. At the Sarimpur ghat, which is below the town, the Municipal Commissioners, with a fine sense of discrimination between the risk to their own town and to the villages lower down the stream, exercise no control, and bodies are allowed to be thrown into the river. At Sasaram the Subdivisional Officer reports that bodies are often thrown into the canal and sometimes into the Sone. The practice of throwing bodies into the canal is especially dangerous to the health of the villages near its banks, as owing to the sluggish nature of the current the bodies are carried down very slowly. Mr. Beachcroft also reports a case which came under his notice during the cholera epidemic last year, when two bodies were found thrown into an irrigation well so decomposed as to be unidentifiable. From Bhabua it is reported that bodies are generally burnt, and that the poorer classes are usually provided with fuel by their well-to-do neighbours. Mr. Mylne from Jugdispur reports that many of the poorer classes throw their dead into the Ganges to avoid cremating them, and that the general practice is to stuff the mouth of the corpse with burning faggots, and after the features have become unrecognizable to throw the body into the river. From Dumraon Raj, Joy Prakash Lal Bahadur reports that Hindus generally burn the bodies to ashes, but that poor people often throw them unburnt into the Ganges or into the old beds of that river at Bhojpur. The District Superintendent of Police reports that at Chousa there is a bend in the Ganges where bodies thrown in higher up the river collect during a flood and are left high and dry causing a stench which can only be described as awful, and that during an epidemic bodies are thrown into the canal wherever they can be easily got rid of. In the town of Arrah bodies are burnt, and the Municipality provides for the proper cremation of pauper bodies.

"There is thus ample evidence that dead bodies are thrown into the Ganges and other rivers, and into canals especially during times of epidemics, to an extent which would justify the interference of Government on sanitary grounds.

"There is a general concensus of opinion that interference on the part of Government to prevent this method of disposing of dead bodies would not be antagonistic to the religious prejudices of the Hindus. The only local body which takes a different view is the small Municipality of Jugdispur. The Commissioners there consider that legislation against the practice of throwing dead bodies into rivers would be looked upon unfavourably by the Hindus. The Arrah Municipality, the District and Local Board, the Sasaram, Buxar and Bhabhua Municipalities, however, take a different view. Government need therefore have no hesitation in interfering with the practice complained of on the score of offending religious prejudice."

After some further discussion of the question in which he points out that the evil arises mainly from two causes, viz., the poverty of the poorer classes and the panic during epidemics with the desire to get rid of the bodies as quickly as possible, Mr. Marindin suggests action on the following lines:—

"(1) That riparian municipalities should be required to pass strict bye-laws to prevent the throwing of dead bodies into the river, to keep the necessary establishment for enforcing the bye-laws, and to provide funds for burning pauper bodies and assisting the poorer classes to procure fuel.

"(2) That when there is some definite area capable of protection or control such as canals or large jhils, like the Bhojpur jhil, or the confines of municipalities and large villages, the Magistrate should issue notice under section 290, Indian Penal Code. It would then rest with the police to enforce the section. In such localities there would be some chance of their being able to do so, as there would be some recognised authority, such as the canal patrol, the municipal overseer and the village panchayat who could be required to assist them

"(3) That District and Local Boards should be required in times of epidemic to assist with funds in the cremation of bodies in stricken localities and in the disposal of bodies thrown out unburnt.

"(4) That the Magistrate and Subdivisional Officers should endeavour to create a public opinion against the practice and induce zamindars and well-to-do persons to assist their poorer neighbours in providing fuel for the cremation of their dead."

Saran.—The Saran District Board and the Municipal Commissioners of Revelganj are the only local bodies who have replied to the questions asked. They are both of opinion that the proposed notification should be issued only provided that means be first taken to furnish poor persons with the funds requisite to cremate their dead. Mr. Slack, the District Magistrate, is of opinion that a notification similar to the one referred to in paragraph 5 of the Government letter may be published, and he thinks that in this case the wealthier Hindus, actuated by the prevailing spirit of religious charity, will no doubt supply the means to their poorer neighbours.

Champaran.—The following extract from the proceedings of the District Board in meeting is submitted by the Magistrate:—

"It was the general opinion of the meeting that the practice which prevails among the poorer classes of Hindus of casting dead bodies into rivers and of staking their dead in the beds of rivers has been most correctly described by the Government of Bengal as obnoxious and insanitary. The Hindu members of the meeting gave it as their unanimous opinion that the practice is not strictly in keeping with the teachings of the Hindu shastras, which require complete cremation, but that it has become very general, owing partly, perhaps, to apathy, but certainly much more to the expense which is involved in complete cremation. It was said that the cost of complete cremation might be estimated, taking a low figure, at Rs. 3 in each case, even for the poorest families * * * But the expense might no doubt be reduced if landlords would give fuel gratis. This would no doubt be done by the majority of landlords without demur. It is indeed incumbent on Hindu landlords to give fuel gratis for this purpose. All that the Board, however, could do in this matter would be to encourage landlords, by advice and example, to grant this assistance generally. It was further the general opinion of the meeting that no effective control could be exercised by the Board, unless places were first set apart in each village or tola for use as burning ghats. At present the people are in the habit of taking their dead to the banks of streams at any spot, and the obnoxious custom alluded to could not be checked without a system of patrol, which neither the Board nor the Executive had the means of carrying out. The meeting therefore considered that a place in each village or tola should be set apart for the purpose, and that when this was done a bye-law might be issued by the Board prohibiting under a suitable penalty the cremation of the dead bodies at other places. The Magistrate would be asked to allow the village chaukidars to report offences against the bye-law through the Magistrate to the Board.

"It was also pointed out that as the greater part of the district had now been cadastrally surveyed, there should be no difficulty in determining and identifying the sites selected for burning ghats.

"The village panchayats would be moved by the Board, acting through the Collector, to suggest a proper site in each village."

Mr. Colvin adds that his views coincide with those of the Board.

Muzaffarpur.—Mr. Hare reports that as the shastras forbid the burning of the bodies of young children and of a certain sect of Sanyasis, it is the usual custom to throw them into the river. It is a common practice also in times of pestilence for the villagers to cast their dead not only into living water but also into stagnant pools and jhils (or even into the open fields)—a practice which is, however, universally condemned by the people themselves.

Mr. Hare continues as follows :—

"One or two of the Hindus consulted approve of legislative intervention, as do the European residents of the district, who think that no popular excitement would be caused thereby. The majority of the Hindus consulted are, however, averse to such action. Some would except big rivers; others would restrict interference to the Municipality, while one Local Board would prefer consequent disease to the suppression of the practice. Generally, however, it is thought that the cases due to poverty should be met by the organisation of voluntary subscriptions, so that in the municipalities those who are unable in any other way to meet the expense of a pyre should be assisted from the municipal funds, while in the villages the punches should collect for a like object.

"Hindu opinion on the whole seems in favour of private effort and against public intervention; and interference of any kind is deprecated in the case of religious devotees and children. There would appear to prevail an opinion that the shastras support the custom in sanctioning the practice."

Mr. Hare's own view is that the practice should be prohibited. The chaukidars should be made to report occurrences, and each case should be dealt with on its merits. In times of epidemic help should be given in burning bodies to poor persons from municipal and district funds as a sanitary measure just as help is now given in medical attendance and cholera medicines.

I note that in a report from the District Superintendent of Police, forwarded by the Magistrate, it is stated that in one outpost it is sometimes the practice for dead bodies of females to be thrown into the river tied to earthen jars filled with sand. I am inclined myself to think that this is a more usual practice in the case of females than is commonly supposed and than the relatives care to admit. I have often been struck, while rowing on the Ganges, with the disproportionately large number of male as compared with female cremations to be seen on its banks.

Darbhanga.—Mr. Tute reports that on receipt of the Government letter the matter was laid before the Municipal Commissioners and the District Board. The former body passed a resolution to the effect that the Commissioners could not afford to provide funds for the cremation of the bodies of paupers, and that the introduction of a bye-law compelling total cremation "would work very hardly" on the poorer classes, and that they would not therefore be justified in passing such a bye-law. This is the kind of resolution that I should have expected from this backward and unprogressive body. The District Board passed the following resolution :—

"That the throwing of dead bodies into rivers without thorough cremation be made a punishable offence; the penalty not to exceed Rs. 5 for a first offence. This rule not to apply to Sanyasis and others who, according to their religion, throw their dead bodies into large rivers, such as the Padma, Brahmaputra * * and Ganges."

Mr. Tute as Municipal Chairman reports that three sites have been selected as municipal burning ghats in order to put a stop to the disposal of dead bodies elsewhere. He adds as follows:—

"I do not think anything more can be done in this direction in the present state of backwardness in matters of sanitation. We can see that the sites we have fixed and no others are used for cremation, but the sense of the meeting was entirely against coercive measures being used to compel complete cremation. It was urged that in the case of two or three deaths occurring in one house the expense of completely burning the bodies of the deceased would be more than an ordinary cooly or poor person could bear. It was also urged—and with some reason, I think—that every Hindu will, from a sense of pride, do his best, as far as his means go, to make cremation as complete as possible. It is only the very poor who resort to partial cremation. Much as I admit the force of what Dr. Gregg has said, I do not think the time has yet come for interference with the customs of the people in such a sacred matter as that of the disposal of their dead. We can say that in certain fixed places and in none other shall cremation take place, and prevent by force, if necessary, any violation of this rule, but further I do not think it wise to go."

3. I also forward copies of a report from the Secretary to the Bihar Landholders' Association and of two carefully prepared reports from the Maharaja Bahadurs of Hutwa and Darbhanga (with enclosure). The reports of these two noblemen have been written after consulting the leading pandits of Benares and Bihar, and form a very valuable contribution to the present discussion. They prove clearly that the Hindu shastras enjoin either burial (in particular cases) or complete cremation, except only in the case of the "Hansa" sect of Sanyasis, whose bodies are sunk in midstream, in stone coffins, or by means of heavy weights, at certain sacred places; and that the practice of casting unburnt of partially burnt corpses into the water is an innovation entirely opposed to religious teachings, and utterly repugnant to the feelings of all good Hindus. The custom is condemned by both Maharajas on religious as well as on sanitary grounds, and the interference of the authorities with a view to its suppression is advocated. Similar views are, in effect, expressed by the Bihar Landholders' Association, although the Hon'ble Secretary's letter does not appear to advocate active measures being taken outside of municipalities.

4. My own opinion is that Government would be perfectly justified in taking immediate measures to put a stop to the evil. I believe that the feeling of the mass of the people—certainly of all the enlightened and well disposed classes—would be with it in this matter. The religious question would not probably present itself at all, or, if it did, it would soon be put at rest by a promulgation of the opinions of the pandits. The only serious question would be that of expense in the case of persons belonging to the labouring classes, especially during times of scarcity and epidemics. But I think with Mr. Slack that if it were once thoroughly understood that the throwing of corpses into our rivers and canals wil not be permitted, help from neighbours and other charitable sources would, in the great majority of cases, be forthcoming. And after all the cost would be a trifle compared with the sums spent on even the very humblest marriages.

I notice that some of the local bodies consulted demur to any action being taken (1) until proper burning ghats have been provided at the places where protection is thought necessary; and (2) unless means be first provided for the poorer classes to meet the costs of cremation. I do not agree in these propositions. The first seems to me to be based on a misconception. I have never heard that dead bodies are anywhere left unburnt merely because there is no place for burning them. If this were so, bodies of well-to-do persons would often have to go unburnt as well as those of paupers. But we do not hear of any complaints of the kind. There is everywhere some place where the rites can be conducted. The omission to perform them is due only to poverty or insouciance.

The second proposition means practically the shelving of the whole question. But the matter is essentially one which solvetur ambulando. At present no attempt whatever is made in many cases to find the means of meeting the expense. What we have to do is to encourage the principle of self-help; and the only way to do this is to oblige people to set to work and practice it. In time possibly some properly organised system of help may be set on foot. But it is unreasonable to think that such a system can be worked out in detail beforehand and without any experience of actual necessities. Meanwhile I think that we may confidently trust to local bodies and to Hindu charity to afford the requisite aid in cases of pressing necessity, and if care is at the same time taken, as of course it will be, by Magistrates to decide cases coming before them on their merits, I do not think that any real hardship need be apprehended.

6. I think therefore that Government may at once safely take action, and that this should be done very much on the lines suggested by Mr. Marindin. All riverain municipalities should be required to apply for the extension of sections 254 to 260A of the Municipal Act, where this has not already been done, be instructed to provide proper burning ghats where necessary under section 259, and for the burning and burial of paupers under section 260, and to enforce the provisions of section 257. District Boards should also be required to take up the matter on similar lines, under the powers conferred by section 87 of the Local Self-Government Act, with a view to preventing the pollution of certain specified rivers, canals, or other pieces of water. At the same time notices should be widely published in each district explaining fully the reason of the action taken and specifying the rivers, canals or other waters it may be decided to protect, and warning the public against throwing into them any animal or human remains liable to decomposition, under pain of prosecution under section 290, Indian Penal Code, with an exception in favour only of the particular sect of Sanyasis mentioned in paragraph 3 above.

7. If Government approve of this view, I will, after again consulting District Officers, submit a draft proclamation and prepare draft instructions for the guidance of the different Municipalities, District Boards and local officers in this Division.

Dated Bankipore, the 28th July 1895.

From—The Secretary to the Bihar Landholders' Association,
To—The Commissioner of the Patna Division.

WITH reference to your office memorandum No. 185G.,—Cir., enclosing Resolution No. 2151T.—Judicial, dated the 16th April 1895, regarding the throwing of the dead bodies into the Ganges, I have been directed by the Committee of the Bihar Landholders' Association to submit the following remarks.

According to Yajnavalkya the dead bodies are to be cremated excepting the dead bodies of infants up to eighteen months of their age; and there is nothing in the other Sanhitas to the contrary. According to the Vishnu Sanhita after the cremation a small piece of bone collected from the ashes is to be thrown into the Ganges.

The Sanyasis of certain sects follow the practice of immersing their dead bodies into the Ganges. In cases of the renowned people of the orders the body is placed in a stone box and then immersed. In other cases the immersion of the dead which is always in midstream is done with heavy substances tied around the dead body. The bodies thus immersed would be very few, and they scarcely need be taken into account in Bengal Proper, as the deaths in such cases almost always take place in holy places outside its limits. In most cases, however, the practice of samadhi (burial) is followed. In cases of unnatural deaths the usual practice here is to burn the dead bodies.

There are certain classes here amongst the Hindus who in some localities, or in cases where they are the followers of Kabir or are Shew Narayens, bury their dead. Such are the classes of Doshads, Mushahars, Domes and Chamars. In villages these burials take place in a place allotted side by the place where the other Hindus burn their dead, and good regulation exists under village custom as to the depths of the digging for burial that has to be made. In all cases where cremation prevails the body is fully burnt except in cases of poverty; in villages the fuel wood is usually supplied from the fruit gardens held at bhowli tenures, the zamindars charging no price for their share.

The subject, so far as the Committee of the Bihar landholders can see, is one of municipal regulations, where in or about large towns pauper bodies are mostly thrown into neighbouring streams, and if certain regulations are made for the burning of the dead bodies of paupers by the municipal corporations and some expenditure under this head incurred, a good deal in this direction would be done.

No. 2497, dated Hutwa, the 25th August 1895.

From—MAHARAJA SIR KRISHNA PRATAP SAHEB BAHADUR, K.C.I.E., of Hutwa,
To—The Commissioner of the Patna Division.

WITH reference to your memorandum No. 185G.—Cir., dated the 22nd April last, forwarding Government Resolution No. 2152J., dated the 16th idem, regarding the highly obnoxious and insanitary practice which prevails among the poorer class of Hindus of casting dead bodies in the river as well as of staking their dead in beds of rivers in order to avoid the expense of cremation of burial in prescribed places, I have the honour to state that I have already in my interview with you told you what my personal views on the above subject as well as on the subject of extravagant expenditure on marriages are, but I have purposely delayed in replying to your letter in order to obtain an authoritative opinion of the Benares school of pandits strictly in consonance with the injunctions of the Hindu shastras, since their opinions (व्यवस्था) in all matters of religious and social rites are observed and followed by the Hindus of Bihar. I have consulted them in my last trip to Benares, and beg now to state as follows.

2. The religious aspect of the question is that all Hindus belonging to the first four castes, excepting the Sanyasis and children below three years of age, should be cremated. The children under two years of age should be buried, but those between two and three years may either be buried or burnt. For them only it is optional. The Sanyasis are of course buried and not cremated.

3. In all cases of cremation it should be completed and thorough. To leave a corpse unburnt or half-burnt is a sin for which expiation (प्रायश्चित्त) with strict observance of penance has been prescribed in the shastras. In no case the bodies, unburnt or half-burnt, are to be thrown or allowed to drift into the rivers, but after complete cremation the remains in the shape of ashes and a few bones are collected, washed and thrown into the Ganges. The practice of throwing bones into the sacred rivers is sanctioned by the shastras, and people from countries thousands of miles away bring bones of their deceased relations to throw them into the Ganges.

4. The Sanyasis as enjoined in the shastras are not cremated, but buried under the ground. But where there are sacred rivers and in holy places like Benares, their bodies are as a matter of fact given a watery burial. It is done in this wise. In the case of a Sanyasi, who is well known for his piety and learning and has got numerous chelas or followers, the dead body is encased in a box made of stones with a few small holes in it, but for an ordinary or common Sanyasi the body is strongly bound between two large and heavy stones, and in every case it is carried in a boat in the midstream and from there thrown into the river receiving as it were a watery instead of an earthy burial. In no case, however, the body is exposed or indiscriminately thrown into the river and allowed to be drifted away. If this is done it is against the injunctions of the Hindu shastras.

5. The custom of casting unburnt or half-burnt dead bodies seems to me to be of recent origin, and is chiefly confined to the lower and poorer classes of Hindus, who, on account of their poverty, are prevented from obtaining sufficient fuel for the purpose of cremation. The custom has no doubt originated with, and is chiefly due to, the scarcity of fuel. Fuel, as a matter of fact, was in olden days, when there were no railways and forest laws, obtained by the poorer people for nothing. But with the changes of times the forests and jungles have disappeared, and fuel, which is one of the daily necessaries of life, cannot be obtained without paying for it. Moreover, the supply available from the villages in many cases is not sufficient for the demand, so that its scarcity is now felt even in distant and out-of-the-way places from the cities. The price of the fuel has also been gradually but steadily increasing, notwithstanding that in many cities it has been substituted by coke for the purpose of cooking. The poorer class of Hindus in the struggle for their existence had therefore recourse to this obnoxious and insanitary practice, which in time has grown into a custom, but which has no shastric origin.

6. I am, therefore, of opinion that the indiscriminate practice of throwing dead bodies into the rivers is not sanctioned by our religion. It is besides a custom which is condemned on sanitary grounds, and as such ought to be stopped by legislative enactment. At the same time I should say that the custom of throwing the dead bodies of Sanyasis into the sacred rivers, as well as the practice of throwing bones, is not only sanctioned by the Hindu shastras, but is considered very meritorious, and consequently they should not be interfered with.

Dated Darbhanga, the 23rd October 1895.

Demi-official from—MAHARAJA LAKSHMESWAR SINGH, of Darbhanga,
To—The Commissioner of the Patna Division.

WITH reference to your letter on the question of throwing dead bodies into running rivers and your subsequent reminders, I have to state as follows:—

From a sanitary point of view there cannot possibly be two opinions on the subject The practice is universally condemned by all those who have taken the trouble to study the sanitary aspect of the question. In this letter therefore I would confine myself to the discussion of only religious points, and to the attitude that the Hindu community is likely to take up towards any legislative or administrative interference with this custom.

I enclose herewith a "Vyavastha" from the head pandits of the Darbhanga Raj Sanskrit Pathshala with its literal English translation. I might mention that I personally agree with every single word of this "Vyavastha," and that all the pandits whom I have consulted on the subject corroborate the views of the head pandits.

Cremation is the method which is enjoined in all the old Hindu books for disposing of the dead bodies of Hindus generally. And there are only a few exceptions to this general rule. Only amongst the order of ascetics, called "Hansa," the Mitak-shara and Nirnaya-sindhu lay down that the dead bodies should be thrown into water with a piece of stone attached to it. This subject, however, I will discuss later on. It is nowhere stated that a dead body should be thrown into a river after a lighted torch has been applied to it. All the old religious authorities are unanimously of opinion that the whole and not a portion of the body only should be burnt.

Moreover, in North Bihar, this practice is confined only to those villages that are situated near the two big rivers, viz., the Ganges and the Ganduk. Any interference with this custom in this part of the country will be welcomed by a large portion of the community. Nothing shocks the ideas of the respectable female pilgrims during the various religious melas than the sight of human corpses floating in the river, or being devoured by vultures, crows and dogs by the side of the Ganges.

By these remarks, however, I do not wish it to be understood that there will be no opposition. In many parts of the country this custom of throwing dead bodies into rivers has arisen on account of the scarcity of firewood in that particular tract. And in some cases the poverty of the relations also prevents their performing cremation ceremonies properly. So the Government must be prepared for a certain amount of opposition. But this opposition in my opinion cannot possibly be anything like the opposition to the abolition of sutti, or even "The Age of Consent Act."

I would, however, suggest that no interference should be put to the funeral custom of the Sanyasis or other Hindu ascetics. There is not the slightest doubt that the practice of throwing dead bodies of these ascetics into rivers is sanctioned by the shastra. In fact it is the only method prescribed for disposing of the dead bodies of certain religious orders. The only interference, if any, that I would suggest with these classes would be to make it compulsory for the bodies to be thrown into rivers in stone coffins or pieces of heavy stones attached to them. This is the general custom of the country. And its object is apparently to conceal the sight of decaying corpses from the sight of the people. The Government, by carrying out my suggestion, will only penalise any breach of this most salutary existing custom. Any interference with the custom itself will, however, be strongly resented by the Hindus as a body, and is sure to create a bitter opposition and silent but dangerous discontent.

It must be remembered that these ascetics, with the exception of some of the old Brahmin families, are the real religious leaders of the Hindus. The Hindu public consider these classes to be their religious preceptors. And nothing is likely to rouse all latent feelings of fanaticism and create ill-feelings against the Government as any unnecessary interference with these people. From the sanitary point of view there is but little to be said against it. These ascetics mostly inhabit Benares and other holy places situated near large sacred rivers. Their number is very small; and the immersion of only a few dead bodies in big rivers like the Ganges and the Nerbudda cannot possibly contaminate the water to any appreciable extent.

VYAVASTHA.

The question is (1) whether the dead bodies of Hindus who follow the dictates of the Vedas in everything from birth to death should be interred in the earth or thrown into water, or cremated; and (2) if cremated, whether the whole of the dead body should be burnt or a part thereof be allowed to remain unburnt; and (3) whether is it permitted in the shastras to apply a burning torch to the mouth of the dead body and then throw it into water. On these questions my opinion in general is as follows:—

Yajnavalkya says:—"Inter the dead body of one below two years of age in the earth, and no oblations of water should be offered to its names (sic). The dead bodies of those that die after being two years old should be followed to the cremation ground by their relations who should go along repeating Yamagatha and Yama Sukta. And then it should be cremated by common fire. But if the dead used to keep a fire of his own (i.e., if he was an Agnihatri), then he should be cremated by the same sacrificial fire."

From the above it will be seen that interment up to two years of age and cremation after that is clearly laid down as a necessity. Thus question (1) is answered.

With regard to question (2), here is the translation of a Vedic mantra which is repeated at the time of cremation—"I cremate the whole body of the one who both did virtuous deeds and committed bad actions, and who was influenced by desire (avarice) and delusion, so that he or she may go to heaven." From the authority of this Vedic mantra it is understood that the whole of the dead body should be cremated. But the writers on Smriti explain that the whole of the dead body should be cremated except a portion of the size of a pigeon, which should be left uncremated for the sake of kravijadas. So this is the conclusion arrived at with regard to the question.

With regard to question (3) it is nowhere allowed in the shastras to apply a burning torch to the dead body and then throw it into water. No Rishes have held this, and no proper men ever do it, but the few that do it are simply obliged to act thus for want of fuel, &c., and because they are ignorant of the dictates of the shastras. Merely then doing so does not constitute it a proper action (dharma).

But with regard to special orders of Sanyasis, it is allowed in the shastras to inter the dead bodies of some orders in the earth and to throw into water the dead bodies of the others. Among others it is thus mentioned in Mitakshara and Nirnayasindhu:—

"The dead body of those that renounce the world and devote their time in religious meditations and contemplation of the Supreme should not be cremated; neither should any period of unholiness be observed after their death; nor should any oblations of water be offered to their manes (sic), and nor should their shradh ceremonies be performed. But the body of the Sanyasi of the order Kutuchaka should be cremated, and that of the order Bahoodaka should be interred in the earth with salt and some perfumes, and that of the order Hansa should be thrown into water after binding a piece of stone to it; while the body of the order Paramhansa should be interred in the earth with salt and some perfumes."

No. 2069G., dated Dacca, the 13th November 1895.

From—H. LUTTMAN-JOHNSON, Esq., Commissioner of the Dacca Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 2152J. of the 16th April last, forwarding for report copy of Government Resolution No. 2151J. of the same date, on the subject of the disposal of dead bodies. In reply I beg to state that the Resolution was forwarded to the Magistrates of the several districts of this division, who were directed to ascertain and report to what extent dead bodies are disposed of as described in their districts, and to elicit public opinion on the proposals put forward by the Sanitary authorities.

2. The replies received from the leading Hindu gentlemen consulted are in most cases not very full, and show that they are not aware of the extent to which the corpses are disposed of as described, specially in the rains, when very large areas in this division go under water. Except in the rains, human corpses are not generally, or indeed often, consigned to water. But the carcasses of animals are cast into rivers and khals throughout the year, and specially during the rains. So far as the division is concerned, this is far the greater evil of the two.

3. Rai Krishna Chandra Rai Bahadur, late of the Subordinate Executive Service, states that the practice of throwing human corpses into rivers is in vogue to a very limited extent in the Manikganj subdivision within which he resides. Babu Gagan Chandra Das, Subdivisional Officer of Munshiganj, says that the whole country is under water during the months of July, August, and September, and in many villages there remains not an inch of ground available for burning the dead. It often happens, then, that the bodies are thrown into the water, as no other means of disposal is possible. Babu Okhoy Coomar Sen, Deputy Magistrate, stationed at the head-quarters of the Dacca district, says that in the Narainganj subdivision cremation is almost unknown among the lower classes of Hindus. Dead bodies are generally thrown into the bed of the Brahmaputra, and are sometimes staked therein. As a result the water becomes undrinkable and also unfit for culinary purposes.

Mr. Earle, Magistrate of Mymensingh, reports that the practice of throwing human corpses into rivers, khals, and water-courses is not a very widespread one in his district. In the opinion of Mr. Herald, Magistrate of Faridpur, it is very probable that in the rainy season, when the whole country goes entirely under water, the practice is resorted to by the inhabitants of his district. He says that even in the Faridpur Municipality, the Civil Surgeon and the Chairman, when the burial ground is submerged, have allowed the hospital corpses to be thrown into the midstream of the Pudma below the municipal limits.

Mr. LeMesurier, Magistrate of Backergunge, says:—

"The practice of staking dead bodies in the beds of rivers is practically unknown in this district. Even the throwing into the water of partly singed bodies is uncommon except in the case of deaths from snake-bite, and among certain sections of Byragis. The lower classes of Hindus being, as a rule, prosperous, the expense of thoroughly burning a corpse is not, as elsewhere, prohibitive, and the instructions of the shastras are as a rule fully carried out."

4. That the practice of throwing dead bodies into water is injurious to health and disgusting is admitted by all. Even where the practice prevails it is considered loathsome. It is said that in some places people not only avoid using water in which dead bodies are cast, but they even decline to take the fish living in it. But there are degrees to the evil. Mr. Herald, Magistrate of Faridpur, writes:—

"The throwing of bodies into the enormous volume of the Pudma or Meghna represents the evil in its smallest form. The body may be rolled into a creek, and become a source of danger, but generally it will be carried into the open river where fish, tortoises, and crocodiles will dispose of it. In the inland rivers and bhils of this district, however, the danger exists. I have no doubt that it is as common as is described in the report about Nadia, not probably in the cold weather, but in the rains, when no other method of disposal of the Hindu corpses is generally available. All water forming more or less one continuous sheet would explain why the oily scum and other symptoms are not noticeable differing from the comparatively confined waters of Nadia."

Mr. LeMesurier, Magistrate of Backergunge, observes that the harm done is comparatively little in his district, because—

(1) the volume of water is so immense, and the speed with which it flows so great, that the entire dirt of a single district can affect it but little;

(2) the ebb and flow of the tides set up an admirable drainage, and the carcasses, &c., are taken out to sea before long; and

(3) the river south of Barisal is usually so brackish that nobody will drink it.

I am inclined to agree with Messrs. Herald and LeMesurier. I have said that the sewage of the town of Barisal would not contaminate the huge river which flows past it more than the sewage from shipping contaminates the Hooghly. And now the Sanitary Board recommend that the sewage of the large town of Dacca shall be allowed to flow into the little Buriganga in the rains.

5. It is generally reported that preservation of the purity of drinking water is entirely consonant with Hindu notions, and any prohibitory measures that may be thought expedient to adopt towards that end will not be objected to, at least by the higher classes, on the score of religion. The religious aspect of the question has been dealt with, at more or less considerable length, by the Hindu gentlemen consulted in the matter. They are practically unanimous. I cannot express their views better than by quoting what the Maharaja of Shusbung, an enlightened young nobleman and a high-caste Brahman, says.

It appears that this gentleman has taken much interest and trouble in obtaining opinion from the learned pandits. He writes:—

"In the course of the discussion which was held at my house among the pandits and myself, I have come to learn that the Hindu shastras strictly prohibit the practice of throwing corpses into water. Of course this rule, according to the said shastras, does not hold good with regard to Jugis, Byragis and infants of less than two years of age; with respect to them, the shastras require that the corpses should be interred. And the Hindu shastras also enjoin that the dead bodies of those who die unnatural deaths or who commit suicide should not be cremated, but buried. Water, according to the Hindus, is a very sacred thing, and is said to be Narayan. The idea of defiling so holy a thing in any way is foreign to the Hindus. They do not condescend to spit in water or to do anything which might pollute it, and as the dead bodies are held to be impure by the Hindus, so it is clear that these cannot be allowed to be thrown into water. In the Sradha Tattwa of Pandit Raghunandan, which is considered as an unquestionable authority in Bengal, there is a rule that the whole of the corpse should not be reduced to ashes; a small portion of semi-burnt bone called asthi together with a piece of flesh should be thrown into the Ganges. This portion of bone together with the small amount of flesh is never thrown in any stagnant water, and it may be safely said that such a small amount of half-burnt flesh, equal in volume to a plum, and the small portion of bone cannot, if thrown into a running stream like that of Ganges, in any way defile the water."

It will have occurred to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor that where, as here, the Musalmans are in a large majority, the religious difficulty has not the same importance as it has, say, in Bihar.

6. Except a few zamindars of the Mymensingh district, most of the gentlemen consulted advocate that measures should be adopted in some shape or other for the prevention of the practice. Babu Purna Chandra Mitter, the Munsif of Manikganj in the district of Dacca, is of opinion that punitive measures will hardly have much effect. Remedial measures are necessary, and municipalities and local bodies should take the responsibility of properly disposing of the dead bodies of unknown and poor men in their respective jurisdictions at their own cost. To prevent people from taking improper advantage of this indulgent provision, cremation by public bodies must be by the cheapest means, and generally by Domes, whom well-to-do people will seldom allow to touch the dead bodies of their relatives; chaukidars may be instructed to report not only, as at present, the names, ages, and the sex of persons who died in their jurisdiction, but also whether the dead bodies were cremated, interred or thrown away; and if thrown away, whether the heirs and successors of the deceased had the means of burning or interring them. If the dead bodies are improperly thrown away, the fact may be brought to light by this means, and the offenders subsequently prosecuted. The Subdivisional Officer of Manikganj would utilize the services of the proposed Union Committees, they being called upon to make arrangements for the burning and the burial of indigent persons.

Rai Krishna Chandra Rai Bahadur and other gentlemen consulted of the Manikganj subdivision see no objection to the issue of a notification under the provisions of sections 289, 290 and 291 of the Indian Penal Code, similar to that issued in the Burdwan Division. They suggest that Government may enjoin respectable and influential Hindu gentlemen to form Committees or Associations for the purpose of seeing that the provisions of the notification are duly attended to. The Subdivisional Officer of Munshiganj says—and the Magistrate agrees with him—that it is no use prosecuting and punishing men who throw the corpses into the water during the rains, unless we can tell them what they should do, and can point out how they can dispose of the dead bodies in a manner not open to objection. He further says that the Hindus would not throw them into the water if they could find dry ground enough anywhere for burning them. He thinks public cremation and burial-grounds should be provided for the villages by the District Board. If that body would take the initiative by paying a portion of the cost, the village public will largely subscribe and furnish funds. If this is done, no hardship will be caused by the issue of a prohibitory order and by the punishment of those who disobey it for nuisance.

The gentlemen consulted in the Narainganj subdivision are strongly in favour of the publication of a notice by Government and the adoption of punitive measures to put a stop to the obnoxious practice.

Mr. Earle says that as the practice of throwing corpses into the water is not a very widespread one in his district, there would be comparatively little difficulty in dealing with such cases as do occur. The habit of throwing carcasses of animals into water-courses is, however, very common, and it is absolutely necessary that it should be put a stop to. The agency of the rural police and village panchayats should, in his opinion, be fully utilised in giving effect to the measures proposed. Pleaders of the Mymensingh Bar are of opinion that a more careful though discretionary use of the provisions of section 29, Indian Penal Code, will be sufficient to stop the practice, and that necessary steps should be taken with that view. But the leading zamindars of the district generally fear that such measures would be hard upon the poorer population and upon those who have no friends and relatives.

Mr. Herald says :—

"Opinion in this district is in favour of legislation. I would not, however, make this legislation compulsorily applicable to all parts of this district. I do not see how Muksudpur thana could dispose of its dead between June and October except by resorting to the equally objectionable practice of burying or burning corpses in the house compound. In the bhil country there is no other dry land available than bari compound. Cattle have to stand in water, people have to wade or boat from hut to hut. In some other thanas there would be no difficulty in enforcing the law. The question of expense arises. Wood is very scarce in this district. It costs a good deal to thoroughly burn a corpse (not merely half-burn it, as is generally done). If we are to make burning or burying corpses compulsory, we must have—

(1) power to rent a piece of land near any village for the purpose where no provision exists, and

(2) power to levy an amount sufficient to cover the rent of this land, probably five per cent. on the chaukidari tax would suffice, and

(3) power to levy a contribution not exceeding one pice per house from the villagers where the panchayat certifies that the relations of the deceased are unable to pay cost of burning, and the custom of the caste requires the corpse to be burnt and not buried.

These rates would be hardly at all felt by the people. Where Unions exist, the Union Fund should include the above amount as a compulsory item."

Mr. LeMesurier says that bye-laws of all municipalities contain clauses against the practice, and the District Board might do the same for the khals under its management.

7. I do not see why the disposal of dead bodies by throwing them into rivers, etc., should not be prohibited. I would begin with the bodies of animals. The difficulty is to enforce such a prohibition. It seems to me that the disposal of dead bodies is distinctly a matter which should be dealt with by the local authority. In my districts we have lately constituted a local authority, viz., the rural police and panchayat, under Act VI (B.C.) of 1870 as amended. In my letter No. 3672J., dated the 10th December 1893, I have proposed to extend the powers of a panchayat. They might be made Unions under the Local Self-Government Act, but sections 115, 118 and 119 of that Act hardly go far enough. I am quite prepared to allow them to levy such rates as may be necessary to enable them to dispose of dead bodies both of persons and of animals. If provision were thus made for the proper disposal of dead bodies, I should not object to persons who dispose of them by throwing them into water being subject to punishment. This question of a local authority pervades us here. In paragraph 6 of my Annual General Administration Report for 1894-95, with reference to a kindred subject—the provision of pure water—I was obliged to write that, in the absence of any local authority, we were unable to spend the money we had got on the objects we desired. I believe that some improvement may be effected by simply informing our panchayats that the defilement of water by casting dead bodies into it has been brought to our attention, and that they must report all such cases through the rural police. And the rural police should, when reporting a death, state if the body has been properly disposed of. But we can do nothing really effective and complete until we have established such a local authority as I have proposed, such as is already in fair working in many other provinces.

SANITARY CONDITION OF THE TOWN OF KHULNA.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MUNICIPAL.

Calcutta, the 4th February 1896.

RESOLUTION No. 444M.

THE Lieutenant-Governor directs the publication of the Inspection Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, on the town of Khulna for general information.

2. His Honour has read with satisfaction and pleasure the appreciative mention made by the Sanitary Commissioner of the excellent work done by the late Dr. K. D. Ghosh, formerly Civil Medical Officer of Khulna, who first laid out the town on modern sanitary principles, and the praise bestowed by him on Dr. Hay Jagannadham, the present Medical Officer and Chairman of the Municipality, for efficient municipal administration.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor commends the action of the Khulna Municipality to the Commissioners of other municipalities in Bengal as an example which deserves to be generally followed.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

INSPECTION REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER FOR BENGAL ON THE KHULNA MUNICIPALITY.

IT is more than ten years since Khulna was inspected by a Sanitary Commissioner. The town has, however, since been subjected to periodical visits by Deputy Sanitary Commissioners, of whom Dr. Oldham, on the 1st August 1894, seems to have made the most careful inspection. I visited Khulna on the 30th December 1895, having given 24 hours' notice of my proposed inspection to the Chairman of the Municipality, who is the Civil Surgeon of the district, Dr. Hay Jagannadham, and with him I spent the whole day looking into all branches of municipal administration in every part of the town, which contains a population of 8,667 and covers an area of about three square miles. Since taking charge of the Sanitary Commissionership of Bengal in August last, it has unfortunately been my unpleasant duty to bring to notice grave mismanagement and consequent insanitary conditions in most of the towns I have inspected. It was therefore a pleasant change to visit Khulna, which I found to be a clean, tidy, and well-managed Municipality. There is evidence of activity in every branch of the municipal administration, and what is more encouraging to the Sanitary Department, is the fact that the recommendations of its officers have been well and speedily carried out, which shows an earnest desire on the part of the Chairman and Municipal Commissioners to act up to the advice of the Authorities.

2. The town of Khulna rose into importance in the year 1882, when it was created the head-quarters station of the district of the same name. It has since become more important by being made the terminus of the Bengal Central Railway, as well as the starting point of the head-quarters station of the Bengal Central Flotilla Company's steamer service to Barisal and Noakhali. The elective system is not in force. The Commissioners, of whom there are 15, are nominated by Government. The Chairman and the Vice-Chairman, however, are elected by the Commissioners from amongst themselves. The town is poor. There are no wealthy resident zamindars, and no special industry to attract people to the place. The incidence of taxation is Re. 1-2-5 per head, which compares favourably with surrounding municipalities. There is apparently no discontent on this account, while on the other hand, the high rate of taxation enables the Municipal Commissioners to maintain an efficient staff to keep the town clean and in a sanitary condition. Khulna was laid out on modern sanitary principles by the late Dr. K. D. Ghose, who was Civil Surgeon. To him, therefore, belongs the credit for the excellent arrangement of the place.

To the present Civil Surgeon, however, Dr. Hay Jagannadham, who, as already stated, is also Chairman of the Municipality, is due the efficient manner in which the Municipality is worked. In a town where everything is well managed and all the authorities seem to be doing their best to maintain efficiency, there is scarcely anything for the Sanitary Commissioner to find reasonable fault with and very little to suggest. Since, however, I looked into all branches of the municipal administration, I will record my observation on each point.

3. Drainage is efficient. The natural slope of the land is to the south, and the system of drainage is as follows. Surface water is carried away by kutcha roadside drains to five outfalls, which discharge into the bheels which are on the south of the town. These bheels discharge their contents by means of natural khals into the rivers around the town: thus a natural and rapid outfall is ensured. I think, however, that two more outfalls are needed in order to complete the drainage system. One of these might advantageously be constructed in Shonadanga and the other in Chota Boyra, both running to the southern bheel. In the town itself some splendid pucka drains have been, and more are being constructed. These are well looked after and clean. Dr. Oldham in August 1894 noticed that the drains along the Jessore road wanted cleaning and repairing in places. This has since been attended to. He also brought to notice that on the south side of the road the people had in many places blocked the drain by laying logs of wood across it to make passages to their houses. These have since been removed, and good culverts have now been provided. In this connection I noticed that Raniganj pipes are used, and make very good drainage channels. I thoroughly approve of the idea. The outfall drains, which Dr. Oldham said were in places choked with vegetation, have since been cleared, and are now unobstructed.

4. Water-supply.—The principal sources are the rivers Bhairub and Rupsa and two reserved tanks, from which the water is pumped into closed reservoirs, through which it is drawn by the people by means of brass taps—an excellent arrangement. The reserved tanks are fenced with barbed wire, and every precaution is taken to guard the water against pollution. The river water is said to be good and sufficient for the people living on its banks, but, as a matter of fact, it is not good near the water's edge, where it is usually drawn from, as will be seen presently. The people who resort to the reservoirs are the best off, while those who live in the interior of the town are in need of a better and more abundant supply of water than they get at present. The Municipality, recognising this want, are excavating a large tank, 200 feet by 150 feet by 14 feet, on the south-west side of the Ferry Ghat Road, at the junction of the Ferry Ghat Road, the South Central, and Banikhana Roads, which seems to be a suitable locality. There are, however, two or three huts on the east side of the proposed tank, which will be only a few feet from the water's edge, and are therefore sure to be a cause of pollution. They should be removed at once, or compensation hereafter will be heavy. Dr. Oldham suggested that the ground around the Toobpara road reservoir should be drained. This has since been done. He also suggested that the use of the water of Clay Gardens tank, which was suspicious, should be discouraged. This has not yet been done, because the Municipality has at present no better water to give the people of that locality. In this connection it has occurred to me that the sinking here of a few tube wells, which I have seen working very satisfactorily in other towns, would be a boon to the people. I would suggest that the experiment be tried. Very good tube wells can be obtained from Messrs. Leslie & Co., of Calcutta, for Rs. 45 for a 20 feet depth (everything complete), Rs. 47-8 for 25 feet depth, Rs. 50 for 30 feet, and Rs. 55 for 40 feet. The driving apparatus costs Rs. 45, but Messrs. Leslie & Co. have promised to lend this to any municipality purchasing tube wells from them. Before, however, sending for one of these wells, it would be advisable to ascertain first at what depth in Khulna water is reached, and then to purchase accordingly. These wells should be sunk a little distance away from a tank or river. The water of Khulna having recently been chemically examined and pronounced by the Chemical Examiner to Government to be potable, though not good, I did not consider it necessary to go through the same process so soon again, but

I subjected samples of the water from the Court's reservoir, Clay's tank, and the river to bacteriological examination on the spot in the presence of the Chairman. The result is as follows:—

The reservoir water contained at the time of drawing, 88 germs per centimetre, Clay's tank 282 germs, and the river as many as 1,176 germs per centimetre. Water in which more than 100 germs are found in a centimetre is, comparatively speaking, bad. It will thus be seen that only the reservoir water of Khulna is of good quality, and that the river-supply is very impure. This is contrary to the result of the recent chemical analysis, which showed the river water to be better than the other supplies. The difference, however, is easily accounted for, thus:—The sample for chemical analysis was taken from the middle of the stream, where of course the water is purest. The sample I took for bacteriological examination was from the water's edge at a point below the bazar and the boat moorings, where the people usually draw their supplies from. The water here would necessarily be more impure than in the middle of the stream.

5. Conservancy.—The establishment consists of 1 jemadar, 19 mehters, 4 road-sweepers, 4 cartmen, and 1 peon, who perform their duties very satisfactorily. By 9 A.M. the roads are swept and house-refuse removed, these being utilized in filling up excavations and hollows. By 10 A.M the night-soil is removed and trenched. There are three public municipal latrines, viz., one near the courts, another in the bazar, and the third is by the Banakhaman road, a short distance from the railway station. The Court latrine, which is now largely used, is built of galvanized iron on a cement floor, and is surrounded by a brick wall, which interferes with ventilation, and is therefore a bad arrangement: it should be done away with, a screen with under ventilation being provided in its stead. In other respects the latrine is very satisfactory. The bazar latrine has been thoroughly repaired and put into proper order since Dr. Oldham's inspection. It is largely used and apparently much appreciated. The Banakhaman road latrine has also been put into good order since Dr. Oldham found fault with it. The Chairman informed me that the Municipality contemplates erecting some more public latrines, and would like to have them of iron, but that the cost was prohibitive, Messrs. Burn & Co. charging as much as Rs. 250 for a six-seated Horbury's pattern iron latrine. There is no necessity, however, to go to Burn & Co., as Mr. Donaldson, Superintendent of the Presidency Jail, has taken out a patent for a much cheaper and equally good public iron latrine, which, with certain alterations I have suggested to him, is admirably adapted for mufassal municipalities with limited means. It is a departure from the present combination system by which both liquids and solids descend into one receptacle placed under the user. The great fault of this system lies in the very natural objection, which natives have, to squat over a pail from which splashing may result. Mr. Donaldson's patent separates the liquids from the solids, and there can be little doubt that a system on these lines is best for general use. It is accomplished by employing a platform designed so that the solids descend into one receptacle and the liquids flow away into another. This specially-designed platform admits of the user performing the necessary ablution on the spot. All that is necessary are a couple of tarred gumlas placed underneath the platform—one in front, for the urine, and the other behind, for the fæces,—or better still, the platform can be provided with a gumla for the solids and a long trough running under the seats for the conveyance of urine and washings into a suitable receptacle at the end of the structure. As only solids are admitted into the gumla provided for that purpose, it is obvious that in a separating platform of this kind splashing is avoided; hence users cannot soil it above or below. In other respects, i.e., in the outward appearance, Donaldson's patent, as modified by me, is not unlike Horbury's latrines, except that it has no corrugated-iron front screen. For this a mat screen is substituted, in order to reduce the cost, which, for a six-seated latrine, is now Rs. 160, exclusive of the gumlas, mats, and cost of carriage. I enclose a plan which will give the Municipality a better idea than any worded description. The front mat screen should be 18 inches off the ground, so as to allow of ventilation, the more of which there is in a latrine, the better. Further information on the subject may be obtained from Mr. Donaldson's agent, Mr. A. W. MacLeod, C.E., 31, Dalhousie Square, Calcutta. Mr. Donaldson has also patented a capital urinal, which I should also like to see introduced into mufassal municipalities. The private privies are for the most part made of bamboo with a screen and platform, under which are placed the gumlas. There are also a few brick-built structures. Part IX of the Municipal Act, relating to the cleansing of private latrines, being in force, a tax, amounting to Rs. 5,500 per annum, or more than half the entire municipal income, is levied from the people on this account. This enables the Municipality to make efficient arrangements for the regular cleansing of all latrines. The night-soil is trenched in accordance with the instructions laid down by my predecessor, viz., in trenches four feet wide, one and-a-half feet deep, and 24 feet long; nine inches of night-soil are put into each trench, and the rest of the space is covered in with earth. A much better and far more profitable method of trenching is to make the trenches four feet wide, six feet long, and three inches deep, the soil inside the trench being loosened with a pickaxe to a depth of about one. foot, in order to allow of percolation of the liquid night-soil downwards. By this method nitrification takes place quicker, and the land is more enriched than by any other method. This procedure should therefore be followed in future, and an attempt should be made to grow remunerative crops. I have explained to the Chairman that there is no reason why the trenching ground should not be made to pay for the entire cost of the conservancy establishment. Dr. Jagannadham has promised to see what he can do in future in this direction. The quarters built for the mehters near the trenching ground took my fancy. Before they were built, the mehters lived in miserable damp huts, and were, I am told, constantly ill, to the detriment of conservancy work. Since the men have been properly housed, illness amongst them is of rare occurrence, and the Municipality gain by having a staff that is always physically fit for its work.

6. Disposal of the dead.—The arrangements under this head are now satisfactory, except with regard to cremation. There is no proper burning ghat, but it is proposed to provide a good one on the old site by an early date. The new ghat will be open to the river on the east, with a high wall on the west, two entrance gates, a low parapet wall on the north and south, and a corrugated shed within this enclosure. The plan is good. I would, however, suggest a grate arrangement in the middle for cremation. This will be neater and more sanitary than the present earthwork.

7. Market.—Municipal, there is none, but a bazar, situated on the banks of the river, belonging to the Narail zamindars, is maintained by the Municipality. This is not a good bazar by any means: it is irregularly laid out, without drainage or stalls, and must get into a very insanitary condition during the rains. The Municipality proposed to improve it, collected the necessary material, and made arrangements for the construction of drains and the erection of raised platforms for the sale of fish and vegetables, which are at present sold on the bare ground; but just as the work was about to be put in hand, the Narail zamindars raised the question of future proprietorship and stopped further proceedings. The Municipality have no wish, I understand, to do the Narail zamindars out of their property, and have accordingly now requested them to undertake the work of improvement, but no action has yet been taken. The owners should be addressed again, and requested either to make the necessary improvements without further delay, or else make the market over to the Municipality, so that they may do what is necessary. The present condition of the bazar is insanitary, and cannot be allowed to continue.

8. Dispensary.—At the invitation of the Civil Surgeon, I inspected the Dispensary, which I found to be remarkably neat and clean and well managed, for which both Dr. Jagannadham and the Civil Hospital Assistant deserve credit. It will soon be necessary to enlarge the building, which is an old one of subdivisional times, and is now altogether too small for present-day requirements, the number of patients, both in and outdoor, having doubled in the last three years. In 1893 96 indoor and 4,906 outdoor patients were treated. In 1894 the numbers increased to 125 and 6,773 respectively. Up to the 29th December 1895 there had been 70 indoor and 8,466 outdoor patients. The Khulna Dispensary seems to be a popular institution, which is appreciated by the poor people, who cannot afford medical attendance at their houses. The Hospital latrine, which, Dr. Oldham pointed out, was out of repair and roofless, has since been attended to, and is now in good order. A cholera shed is being erected near the Hospital. This, when finished, will supply a much-felt want.

9. Public Works Inspection Bungalow.—In striking contrast to the neat buildings in the vicinity of the Dispensary is the Public Works inspection bungalow on the banks of the river, which is in an unsightly, dilapidated, and dirty condition. It should either be demolished or put into proper repair.

10. Landing-stages.—It is curious that in a town so well managed, and which is the starting point of a Flotilla Company, there is no landing-stage. The temporary structure, which was put up when the late Lieutenant-Governor visited Khulna, might easily, with a little alteration, be made into a very good landing ghat, which is very much wanted.

11. Vital Statistics.—Births do not appear to be correctly registered. The reported rate for the year 1894 was 32·23 per mille, while that for 1895 up to November, 29·35, the proportion of male to female births being returned as 130 to 100, which alone shows that the registration of female births is defective, 109 males to 100 females being about the true proportion as proved in places in which registration is correctly carried on. In a population of 4,896 males and 3,771 females, the birth-rate ought to be between 35 and 40 per mille, and anything less than that may be taken as indicative of defective registration, unless there are special reasons, of which I am not aware, why the Khulna birth-rate should be below the average of other towns in which the registration of vital statistics is known to be correctly carried out. The death-rate of the town for 1894 was 19·73, and for 1895 22 54.

12. Vaccination is satisfactorily performed. Calf lymph has made a good start in the town, and there is every hope that it will soon be very popular. I examined 16 cases of successful vaccination, viz., 5 which had been performed direct from the calf and 11 which had been done with lanoline paste, or the arm-to-arm method. I showed the Civil Surgeon, the Civil Hospital Assistant, and the people who had gathered around me the superiority of the vesicles of calf vaccination over those of the other two methods, and also pointed out that two points, which three out of the 16 cases examined showed, could not be regarded as adequate protection from small-pox. Nothing under four points should be accepted as satisfactory.

13. Conclusion.—It only remains for me to congratulate the Chairman and Municipal Commissioners of Khulna on the sanitary condition of their town, which is the cleanest and best managed I have yet seen in Bengal—a result which reflects the greatest credit on all concerned. I hope when next I visit Khulna to have the pleasure of seeing the many further improvements which are in hand, in contemplation, completed.

General Summary.—There was rain over the greater part of the province during the week, but, except in parts of the Rajshahi and Bhagalpur Divisions, it was too little to be of much good. The rabi crops are still suffering from lack of moisture in the Patna Division and in Hazaribagh; elsewhere they are doing fairly well. Reports of the poppy crop, and of indigo in Midnapore, Murshidabad and Bhagalpur, continue satisfactory. Poppy is said to require rain in Champaran. Spring rice is being planted, and the ploughing of lands for the bhadoi crops has begun in Northern Bengal. The pressing of sugarcane is in progress, and potatoes and mustard are being gathered. Cattle are suffering from foot-and-mouth disease in Cuttack; elsewhere they are reported well. The price of common rice continues almost stationary.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 4th February 1896.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 1st OF FEBRUARY 1896.

At the close of the previous week weather was of ordinary north-east monsoon character, and was fine and settled, though a decided fall of pressure was in progress, and temperature was also falling. On the 26th instant, or the first day of the week under review, a further rapid fall of pressure had occurred, the fall at several stations exceeding a tenth of an inch, and pressure had become in slight defect. A fall of temperature of about 1° to 2° had also occurred, and the night, or minimum, temperatures had become in defect by from about 3° to 8°, though the day temperatures were about 1° to 3° above the normal. Weather, however, remained fine and settled, skies were cloudless, and rainfall was absent. On the 27th instant pressure continued to fall slowly, while temperature was generally rising, but there was no practical change in the weather conditions over Bengal. Over the Indus Valley, however, a deep barometric depression had appeared with a centre near Jacobabad. On the 28th this depression had moved over the Punjab with its centre near Montgomery, and it was giving very disturbed weather with strong winds, and with rain in the plains and snow on the hills over a considerable part of North-Western India. The depression, indeed, influenced the weather over the whole of Northern India rather largely. Moderate southerly winds set in over Bengal, while a rapid increase of temperature, and at many stations of humidity also occurred. Pressure was also falling at the western stations, while elsewhere it was rising slowly, but the skies remained almost cloudless, and no rain had fallen. On the 29th the depression over North-Western India had to a considerable extent filled up and disappeared, while a second slight depression appeared over Bihar, where pressure had fallen rapidly, while a slow fall had occurred over the remainder of the province. At stations like Bankipore and Gaya the defect equalled about an eighth of an inch, and round the depression winds were more or less cyclonic in direction. With the approach of this depression temperature again rose rapidly, while a good many light local showers were reported, particularly in the west of the province, though rain also fell in Assam. On the 30th the feeble depression from Bihar had reached Central Bengal, and hence pressure had fallen except at the Bihar stations, where a rise had occurred, and pressure was usually in defect over Central and Eastern Bengal by about an eighth of an inch. Rain had also fallen fairly generally except at the extreme western stations, but as a rule the falls were not heavy. The temperature and humidity changes on this day over Bengal were variable, and rather large, but cloud proportion was decidedly high in practically all districts. On the 31st the depression over Bengal had filled up or disappeared, and therefore a brisk to rapid increase of pressure had occurred; temperature and humidity on the other hand were falling moderately, and the sky was generally clearing and weather becoming settled, though a few rain showers had occurred in Assam and at some of the eastern and southern stations. A new barometric depression, however, entered North-Western India on this day. On the 1st, or the last day of the week, pressure had again generally risen in Bengal, and temperature fallen, while the skies had to a great extent cleared and rain had ceased, and weather over Bengal was on the whole fine and settled, though a barometric depression still remained over North-Western India, and a second shallow depression was appearing over the east of the Gangetic plain.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been in defect of the normal at all stations. The defect has been largest at the western stations, where it has been about 0·04″ to 0·06,″ and it has been smallest in the east and north of the province, where the amount recorded has been about 0·02″ to 0·03.″

Temperature.—Was low at the commencement of the week and high at its close. The average mean temperature for the period for the whole province has been 1·7° above the normal, and the largest excess amounts have been registered in Chota Nagpur and Bihar.

The actual average temperatures registered in the province for the week and their variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given:—

Rainfall.—Light to moderate rain has fallen in all districts except Chota Nagpur and Orissa. The fact is noticeable, for it is now about three months since any appreciable amount of rain fell over the province except in parts of East Bengal, which received rain during a cyclonic storm in December. The falls have been heaviest in North Bengal, which has averaged 0·44 inch; East Bengal has received 0·19 inch, South-West Bengal 0·13 inch, and Bihar 0·09 inch. In the case of the smaller districts, the following have received falls between half and one inch:—Kuch Bihar, Rangpur, and Noakhali; the following, amounts between a quarter and half-an-inch:—Hooghly, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Bogra, Backergunge, South Lushai Hills, and Purnea; and the following, falls of less than a quarter and more than a tenth of an inch:—Burdwan, Bankura, 24-Parganas, Nadia, Jessore, Khulna, Rajshahi, Darbhanga, Bhagalpur, Malda, and Manbhum.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 1st of February 1896:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTIFICATION—No. 600.

The 11th February 1896.—In supersession of the rules published under the Notifications of this Government, No. 1886, dated the 1st August 1893, and No. 313T.G., dated the 1st October 1895, the following Rules for the admission of students to the Lower Primary Scholarship Examination and for the award of Lower Primary Scholarships have been approved and are published for general information :—

Rules for the admission of students to the Lower Primary Scholarship Examination, and for the award of Lower Primary Scholarships.

1. A student who does not appear from any school, or who has been transferred within six months of the date of the examination, without the consent of the Deputy Inspector of Schools, to the school from which he appears, will be treated as a private student.

2. A private student should be identified to the satisfaction of the Deputy Inspector, and should also furnish a certificate of character from some known and responsible person.

3. All private candidates from the same district should appear at the head-quarters centre.

4. Bonâ fide teachers will be admitted to the examination without fee and without certificate, but the Deputy Inspector may exclude from the examination a teacher whose conduct is unsatisfactory.

5. Schoolboys declared unfit by their masters will not be allowed to appear at the examination.

6. Six months' continuous study before the date of the examination at the same school (or at different schools, if transferred with the Deputy Inspector's sanction) will entitle a boy to appear as a school-student.

Candidates from the third classes of upper primary schools are required to pass the Lower Primary Scholarship Examination as a condition of promotion to the second class, and of subsequent admission to the Upper Primary Scholarship Examination. Candidates from the fifth classes of middle schools may also, at the discretion of the District Board or of the District Committee of Public Instruction, be admitted to the lower primary examination. All these candidates, however, shall be ineligible for scholarships.

7. No student, after passing the examination, will be again admitted to it.

8. A school infringing any of these rules will forfeit the right to send up candidates for scholarships, independently of any other punishment that may be adjudged to the offending teacher.

9. Students obtaining admission to the examination under false statements will be ineligible for pass certificates, and will not be allowed to appear at any future departmental examination. Students detected in using unfair means are also ineligible for pass certificates.

10. All proceedings of the Deputy Inspector under the foregoing rules are subject to revision by the Inspector.

Lower Primary Scholarships for boys.

11. These scholarships are open to candidates from all primary schools, whether aided or unaided; but no primary school for boys will be permitted to send up candidates in the same year for both lower and upper primary scholarships.

13. The examination for lower primary scholarships will be conducted in the books and subjects prescribed from time to time by the Department, and, unless otherwise ordered by the Department, in the same question-papers for all the districts of one division. The papers will be set by persons selected by the Inspector. The arrangements for supervising the examination and conducting the vivâ voce portion will be made, and the answers of candidates will be examined, by persons appointed for those purposes respectively by the District Board or, in non-scheduled districts, by the Deputy Commissioner in consultation with the Inspector. Upon the results of the examination the scholarships will be awarded by the District Board in consultation with the Deputy Inspector, or, as the case may be, by the Deputy Commissioner in consultation with the District Committee of Public Instruction. A small fee may be charged to candidates for admission to the examination.

It shall be competent to the District Board or the District Committee of Public Instruction to set apart some scholarships for particular tracts or classes of schools, which may be deemed deserving of special encouragement on account of their less advanced state or for other reasons.

14. Each scholarship will be of the value of Rs. 2 a month, and will be tenable for two years, conditionally on the good conduct, regular attendance, and satisfactory progress of the holder, at any upper primary, middle vernacular, or middle English school. If there is no middle or upper primary school in the neighbourhood, it may, with the special sanction of the Director, be held in a high school. No scholarship may be withdrawn from its holder for misconduct, or for any other cause, without the sanction of the District Board or District Committee of Public Instruction.

15. No candidate will be permitted to compete for a scholarship who has not studied for at least one session in the school in which he is at the time of the examination, unless his transfer within that period has been made with the approval of the Deputy Inspector of the district in which the school from which he has been transferred is situated.

The 30th day of December 1878.

PRESENT :

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it is enacted that "whenever it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act have been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and are in force in that country, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct that the ships of such foreign country shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers; and thereupon it shall no longer be necessary for such ships to be re-measured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships is to be deemed the tonnage of such ships"

And whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1876," it is enacted that when "Her Majesty has power under 'The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854,' or any Act passed or hereafter to be passed amending the same, to make an Order in Council, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time to revoke, alter, or add to any Order so made."

And whereas by an Order in Council dated 29th day of February 1868, Her Majesty, to whom it was made to appear that the said rules for the measurement of the tonnage of merchant ships had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, was pleased to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which were dated on and after the 1st October 1867 should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry.

And whereas certain modifications have been recently made in the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships in force in Denmark, whereby, from and after the 1st day of October 1878, the allowance for engine-room in certain steam-ships will be estimated in a mode differing from that in force in this country.

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is desirable to alter the said Order in Council so far as the same applies or relates to the mode of estimating the allowance for engine-room in Danish steam-ships, Her Majesty is hereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct as regards Danish steam-ships that if the owner or master of any merchant ship belonging to the said Kingdom of Denmark, and measured after the said 1st day of October 1878, which is propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room, desires the allowance for engine-room in his ship to be estimated under the rules for engine-room measurement and allowance applicable to British ships, instead of under the Danish rule, the engine-room shall be measured and the allowance calculated according to the British rules.

AT THE COURT AT OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

The 20th day of April 1883.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," it is enacted that "whenever it is made to appear to Her Majesty that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships for the time being in force under the principal Act have been adopted by the Government of any foreign country, and are in force in that country, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct that the ships of such foreign country shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other national papers; and thereupon it shall no longer be necessary for such ships to be remeasured in any port or place in Her Majesty's dominions, but such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes in, to, and for which the tonnage denoted in the certificates of registry of British ships is to be deemed the tonnage of such ships."

And whereas by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, it is enacted that "where Her Majesty has power under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or any Act passed or hereafter to be passed amending the same, to make an Order in Council, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time to make such Order in Council, and by Order in Council to revoke, alter, or add to any Order so made."

And whereas by Order in Council dated the 29th day of February 1868, Her Majesty, to whom it was made to appear that the rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships now in force under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, had been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, and were in force in that country, was pleased to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which were dated on or after the 1st day of October 1867 should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry.

And whereas certain modifications were subsequently made in the said rules concerning the measurement of tonnage of merchant ships in Denmark, whereby from and after the 1st day of October 1878 the allowance for engine-room in certain steam-ships would be estimated in a mode differing from that in force in this country; and it was made to appear to Her Majesty that it was desirable to alter the said first-recited Order in Council so far as the same applied or related to the mode of estimating the allowance for engine-room in Danish steam-ships.

And whereas Her Majesty by Order in Council, dated the 30th day of December 1878, was pleased to direct as regards Danish steam-ships that if the owner or master of any Danish steam-ship measured after the said 1st day of October 1878, desires the allowance for engine-room in his ship to be estimated under the British instead of under the Danish rules, such engine-room shall be measured and the allowance calculated according to the British rules.

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is expedient that certain additions should be made to the provisions of the said last-recited Order in Council in regard to the mode of estimating the net registered tonnage of certain Danish steam-ships.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, in virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Acts, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is further pleased to direct as follows, viz., that in the event of the net registered tonnage of merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Denmark, which are propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room estimated under the British rules, being denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry issued on or after the 1st day of September 1882, such ships shall be deemed to be of the tonnage so denoted in the said certificates.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 21st day of November 1895.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Order in Council dated the 29th day of February 1868, made by Her Majesty in exercise of the powers conferred upon Her by the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the ships of Denmark, the certificates of Danish nationality and registry of which were dated on and after the 1st October 1867 should be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry.

And whereas by another Order in Council dated the 30th day of December 1878, Her Majesty was pleased to direct as regards Danish steam-ships that if the owner or master of any merchant ship belonging to the Kingdom of Denmark and measured after the 1st day of October 1878, which is propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room, should desire the allowance for engine-room in his ship to be estimated under the rules for engine-room measurement and allowance applicable to British ships instead of under the Danish rule, the engine-room should be measured and the allowance calculated according to the British rules:

And whereas by another Order in Council dated the 20th day of April 1883, Her Majesty was further pleased to direct that in the event of the net registered tonnage of merchant ships belonging to the said Kingdom of Denmark, which are propelled by steam or any other power requiring engine-room estimated under the British rules, being denoted in the said certificates of Danish nationality and registry issued on or after the 1st day of September 1882, such ships should be deemed to be of the tonnage so denoted in the said certificates:

And whereas by section 84 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, it is enacted that whenever it appears to Her Majesty the Queen in Council that the tonnage regulations of that Act have been adopted by any foreign country and are in force there, Her Majesty in Council may order that the ships of that country shall, without being remeasured in Her Majesty's dominions, be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other national papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship:

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that the tonnage regulations of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, have been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Denmark, and that such regulations are now in force in that country, having come into operation on the 1st day of April 1895:

And whereas there still are or may be ships belonging to the Kingdom of Denmark to which the hereinbefore recited Orders of the 29th February 1868, the 30th December 1878, and the 20th April 1883, may respectively apply, and it is expedient not to revoke the same, but to let the said recited Orders remain in force so long as there are any ships to which the same may so respectively apply:

And whereas the provisions of section 1 of the Rules Publication Act, 1893, have been complied with:

Now, therefore, Her Majesty (in pursuance and exercise of the powers hereinbefore mentioned) is hereby pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to decree that the merchant ships of the Kingdom of Denmark, the measurement whereof shall on or after the 1st day of April 1895 have been ascertained and denoted in the certificates of registry or other national papers of such ships, shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry, or other national papers, in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship.

EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 1st February 1896.

No. 170—7-8.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 81 of the Indian Emigration Act, XXI of 1883, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following additions to the Rules relating to Colonial Emigration, published with Revenue and Agricultural Department Notification No. 94 E., dated the 18th March 1886:—

After Rule 178, Chapter V, section III, page 72, add the following:—

"178(a) The drinking-water, lime-juice, ghee, flour, rice, meal, etc., shall be frequently tested by the Surgeon-Superintendent for the purpose of detecting the presence of lead or copper therein."

Note.—"To test the water, a cup or any small white vessel should be about half-filled with it, and a drop of sulphide of ammonium stirred in with the glass rod. Any iron-lead or copper contained in the water, even to a smaller extent than $\frac{1}{10}$th of a grain per gallon, would be shown by an inky colouration appearing more or less deep according to the quantity. Should such a change occur, then a drop of hydrochloric acid should be stirred in, when the colour will disappear instantly if due to iron, but persist if due to lead or copper. It is unnecessary to distinguish between lead and copper, as both are highly dangerous.

"To test lime-juice for lead or copper, pour two ounces of the juice into a white cup or basin, add ten drops of hydrochloric acid (B. P.—Sp. gr. 1·16), stir with a glass rod, and add five drops of solution of ammonium sulphide. A darkening indicates lead or copper. If the amount of these metals is small, the darkening will require about ten minutes to attain its maximum intensity.

"To test ghee, flour, rice, meal or any light-coloured food, about 30 minims of sulphide and an equal measure of the acid should be added separately to 2 ounces of water and a portion of the food well stirred with the mixture, lead or copper being indicated by the darkening that occurs."

In scale 3, Schedule G, page 102, make the following changes:—

Against "Acid, hydrochloric, fort," in columns "Measure," substitute "6 oz. 4dr." for "1 oz. 4 dr.;" and "6 oz. 6 dr." for "6 dr."

Between "Ammonia, spirit aromatic" and "Antim, tart," add "Ammonia, sulphide," and against it in both columns of "Measure" insert "1 oz."

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY 1896.

THE following have been the principal features in the meteorology of January 1896 :—

1. The mean pressure for the month has been almost normal, and the variations have not averaged more than about a hundredth of an inch. Over the greater part of the province the average pressures have been in slight excess, but in Orissa and the south of the province generally, and also at one or two stations in the north of the province, very slightly defective pressures have been registered. In Assam the distribution of pressure was almost absolutely normal.

2. The variation of the mean temperature from the normal has also been particularly small. At the eastern and southern stations very slight defects of a few tenths of a degree have been reported, but at the central and western stations very small excess amounts have been registered. In Assam the defects have been largest, and have averaged 1°. The variations of the day temperature from the normal have, however, generally shown an excess amount of 1° to 2,° while in the case of the night, or minimum, temperatures corresponding defects have been registered.

3. The variations of humidity from the normal have also been small, and eight stations show slight defects, and seven stations have shown slight excess amounts, while at numerous stations the average humidity has been absolutely normal. In the case of cloud proportion, on the other hand, at every station the amount of cloud registered has been smaller than usual.

4. The weather in Bengal in January was affected by three feeble barometric depressions, which advanced from North-Western India, and which are described in detail later on. They all gave a rise of high temperature and humidity in front of them, but the first two gave practically no rain, though the third gave small amounts of rainfall. On the whole, therefore the weather in Bengal was not so disturbed as usual.

5. The amount of rainfall in January was decidedly smaller than usual in all divisions except North Bengal. Orissa and Chota Nagpur have received practically no rain, and Bihar and South-West Bengal very small amounts. The largest falls of between half and a quarter of an inch only have occurred in North and East Bengal. In Assam Duhbri has received 1·88 inches of rain, Silchar 0·81 inch, and Sibsagar 0·11 inch.

The following is a brief summary of the principal meteorological changes which have occurred during January :—

For the first ten or twelve days of January the changes which took place from day to day were of no practical importance, and they were only of the small oscillatory character which are usual during the fine settled weather of the north-east monsoon season. On the 12th of January, pressure in Bengal was rising slowly, while temperature was generally falling, and temperature was becoming rather largely below the normal, particularly in the night, or minimum, temperatures ; a steady north-east monsoon wind current, varying from westerly to north-easterly, was blowing over the whole province; skies were also practically cloudless, and absolutely no rain was falling. In North-Western India, on the other hand, a barometric depression had entered from the westward, where it was giving disturbed weather. On the 13th the depression had moved in an easterly direction, and the centre was close to Meernt, but it was still too far distant from Bengal to affect the weather, though pressure was commencing to fall very slowly, while a decided increase of temperature was recorded ; skies, however, still remained clear, and the whole province was rainless. On the 14th a further slow decrease of pressure had occurred in Bengal ; temperature also had risen moderately, and weather remained fine. The depression had again moved in a south-easterly direction, and was shown over Oudh, but it was quickly filling up, and had become of little importance. On the 15th the slight depression had passed over Bihar, but beyond again causing an increase in the temperature and a slight fall in the pressure, it scarcely affected the weather in Bengal. On the 16th the depression was still over Bihar, but it was less strongly marked than on the 15th, and pressure was usually rising over the whole of Bengal, while a rapid increase of temperature, equalling in some cases 4° and 5°, had occurred, but still skies remained either cloudless or only lightly clouded, and the whole province was rainless. On the 17th the feeble depression still existed in Bihar, and a moderate fall of pressure occurred over Bengal, while temperature began to fall a little, and on the 18th again pressure rose slowly, and the depression practically disappeared, while temperature was generally distinctly above the normal. The depression, however, as it reached Bengal was of too feeble a nature to give any rain. Up to the 21st conditions in Bengal were again of ordinary north-east monsoon character. On the other hand, a shallow barometric depression had appeared over part of North-Western India. On the 22nd this feeble low-pressure area had apparently travelled eastwards, and was over part of the North-West Provinces. Hence pressure was falling briskly in Bengal, and a rather rapid increase of temperature was taking place at the western stations, but the depression was too feeble to affect the weather to any material extent, and the sky remained clear, and there was no rain. On the 23rd pressure rose slowly in Bengal, and the depression apparently passed away, but its effect was shown in the decided increase of temperature, which was reported over the province, while humidity also was decidedly high. Gnatong on this day reported a snow-storm, and a few drops of rain were reported in Assam, but elsewhere weather remained fine. On the 24th a further rapid increase of pressure occurred, and pressure was rather largely in excess of the normal, while the changes of temperature were variable, as it was rising over the eastern half of the province and falling at the western stations. Gnatong again reported a snow-storm on this day, but elsewhere weather was fine, and the sky almost cloudless.

Weather again remained fine and settled in Bengal generally from about the 23rd or 24th up to the 27th instant, when a change began to set in. On the 27th instant pressure continued to fall slowly, while temperature was generally rising, but there was no practical change in the weather conditions over Bengal. Over the Indus Valley, however, a deep barometric depression had appeared with a centre near Jacobabad. On the 28th this depression had moved over the Punjab with its centre near Montgomery, and it was giving very disturbed weather with strong winds and with rain in the plains and snow on the hills over a considerable part of North-Western India. The depression, indeed, influenced the weather over the whole of Northern India rather largely. Moderate southerly winds set in over Bengal, while a rapid increase of temperature, and at many stations of humidity also occurred. Pressure was also falling at the western stations, while elsewhere it was rising slowly, but the skies remained almost cloudless, and no rain had fallen. On the 29th the depression over North-Western India had to a considerable extent filled up and disappeared, while a second slight depression appeared over Bihar, where pressure had fallen rapidly, and a slow fall had occurred over the remainder of the province. At stations like Bankipore and Gaya, the defect equalled about an eighth of an inch, and round the depression winds were more or less cyclonic in direction. With the appearance of this depression temperature again rose rapidly, while a good many light local showers were reported, particularly in the west of the province, though rain also fell in Assam. On the 30th the feeble depression from Bihar had reached Central Bengal, and hence pressure had fallen except at the Bihar stations where a rise had occurred, and pressure was usually in defect over Central and Eastern Bengal by about an eighth of an inch. Rain had also fallen fairly generally except at the extreme western stations, but as a rule the falls were not heavy. The temperature and humidity changes on this day over Bengal were variable, and rather large, but cloud proportion was decidedly high practically in all districts. On the 31st the depression over Bengal had filled up or disappeared, and therefore a brisk to rapid increase of pressure had occurred; temperature and humidity, on the other hand, were falling moderately, and the sky was generally clearing and weather becoming settled, though a few rain showers had occurred in Assam and at some of the eastern and southern stations.

Pressure—At the beginning of the month was almost normal in amount; for the week ending the 11th an excess of from 0·02″ to 0·04″ had become established, but in the following week an almost normal pressure was again registered. A slight excess of 0·03″ to 0·05″ was again reported in the week ending the 25th instant, but in the last week the large defect of 0·04″ to 0·06″ was registered. Hence the average pressure for the whole month was almost normal, and very slight excess pressure, usually of about 0·01″, was registered over the north of the province and small defects in South Bengal and Orissa, though one or two stations in Bihar and Assam also report slightly defective pressure.

Temperature.—As stated above, the general maximum, or day, temperatures have been about 1° to 2° and 3° in excess of the normal, and the night, or minimum, temperatures almost equally in defect. The mean temperature of the whole province has been in defect by two or three tenths of a degree. In Assam the defect has equalled 1°.

The actual variations of the maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures, week by week, throughout the month, from the normal values at nine typical stations in different divisions of the province, are given in the following table:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about ⊖ 2·5 lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the station in the district sending in return divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean at the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question for the week ending Saturday, the 8th of February 1896.

Explanation.—. indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least ·10 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 11th February 1896.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 8TH OF FEBRUARY 1896.

During the last day or two of the previous week a barometric depression had appeared over North-Western India, and had advanced eastwards, and on Saturday, the 1st of February, a distinct, though feeble, barometric depression covered the eastern part of the Gangetic plain, and was therefore advancing towards Bengal. On the 2nd instant pressure had fallen briskly to rapidly over Bengal, and a distinct barometric depression existed over this area. Temperature also rose rapidly, and the night temperatures became in excess by amounts ranging up to nearly 10° at several stations; cloud proportion and humidity also increased rapidly, winds became variable in direction, and light showers were reported at Darjeeling and Sibsagar. On the 3rd the pressure variations over Bengal were small, and pressure was still in considerable defect, and light variable winds with rather high temperature and humidity still obtained. Light showers on this day were also reported in South-East Bengal and at Darjeeling and Silchar. On the 4th conditions remained practically unaltered, for pressure had scarcely changed, while temperature, humidity, and cloud proportion remained high, and Sibsagar on this day reported light rain. On the 5th pressure had increased rapidly over Bengal, and the depression had disappeared, and pressure had become in excess. Skies at once began to clear, though some light local showers were still reported, and a considerable decrease in humidity occurred. Temperature also began to fall rapidly at the western stations. Though the depression had thus passed away from Bengal on this day, yet another depression had appeared over North-West India. On the 6th pressure was falling slowly to briskly in Bengal, while a rather rapid fall of temperature had occurred. The depression in North-Western India had advanced eastwards, and had become deeper, but it was not on this day affecting Bengal. On the 7th instant, however, the area of largest defective pressure was rapidly transferred to Bengal, where at Burdwan a defect of 0·14″ was recorded. This depression again caused a very rapid increase of temperature and humidity over Bengal, while cloud proportion also increased quickly, though very little rain fell. On the 8th the depression began to pass away in an easterly direction, as pressure was falling in South-East Bengal and rising elsewhere, the increase in the west of the province being brisk. North-westerly winds also began to set in at all except the eastern stations. Humidity and temperature however still remained high, and the mean temperature recorded at 8 A.M. on the 8th instant was usually about 5° to 8° in excess of the normal. It will be thus seen that throughout the greater part of the week, Bengal has been under the influence of two barometric depressions, which have given rather abnormal conditions of high temperature and humidity for the greater part of the week.

Pressure.—Owing to the influence of these depressions, the average pressure for the week has been in defect at all stations, the defect usually varying from 00·3″ to 0·06″.

Temperature—As explained above, has been exceptionally high, for the average mean temperature has been no less than 3·8° in excess of the normal.

The actual average temperatures registered in the province for the week and the variation from their normal values are, however, best seen in the table below, where the average temperature data for nine selected stations in different districts of the province are given :—

Rainfall.—The only division which has received any appreciable amount of rain is East Bengal, which registers 0·10 inch. All other divisions have been practically rainless.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newmann's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The rules will, when confirmed, take effect from the 1st April 1896, and will supersede those of the 11th July 1895, published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 17th idem, Part I, pages 678 and 679 :—

OPERATIONS ON GOODS IN A WAREHOUSE.

1. Before any operation is performed in a warehouse, an application, stating the exact nature of the proposed operation, must be made to the Collector of Customs.

2. The officer of Customs deputed will compare the marks in the application with those on the goods, and ascertain the actual quantity of the goods prior to the operation, and record the same.

3. When the operation is completed, the officer will ascertain the quantities, and record and sign the new account of the goods.

Racking and vatting.

4. Racking from cask to cask may be performed in a warehouse, and casks in bad condition may have their contents racked out into sound casks.

5. Empty casks must be properly drained before removal from a warehouse.

6. The operation of putting wines or spirits together in a vat may only be performed in a compartment of a warehouse fitted and used for that purpose only, unless the vat is a close covered vessel which has been accurately gauged, and of which the hatch and discharge cock can be secured by locks, the keys of which will remain with the bonding department.

7. Vats must be distinctly marked with their numbers and capacity in gallons. The strength of spirits taken from a vat is to be ascertained by a sample from each cask.

8. After any spirits have been racked from a vat, the remainder must be drawn off before any more spirits are put into the vat.

Rules for the blending of spirits or wines in bond or the reduction of strength of spirits by water.

9. Applications for permission to blend spirits or wines in bond or reduce for exportation the strength of such spirits by water in the same warehouse are to be presented to the Collector of Customs.

10. Each application must contain a full description of the spirits or wine to be mixed or reduced, and must be accompanied by a fee at the rate of Rs. 7 per diem, to cover the pay of an officer of Customs, to be deputed by the Collector, in whose presence the blending or reduction of strength must be effected. The Collector may at his discretion accept the fee for half a day at the above rate.

11. Spirits in casks may be reduced with water for exportation only. Spirits so reduced are inadmissible for home consumption. When water is to be added, so much spirit may be drawn off from each cask as is required to make room for the purpose. The overdrawings, if more than 9 gallons, may be rewarehoused, and if less than the quantity specified, they must either be used in another operation or cleared on payment of duty.

12. The amount of liquor drawn from each cask for the purpose of blending or reducing the strength will be shown as cleared or exported on the original bond. If any deficiency be found on emptying a cask, duty thereon will at once be levied under section 116, but allowance under section 117 for such deficiency or any portion of it may be subsequently made by the Chief Customs Authority, if sufficient grounds exist.

13. The blend when effected will be retested and regauged, and a fresh bond will be made out for the duty found leviable thereon.

14. For the purpose of calculating the period of three years under section 103, and the allowances for ullage and wastage under section 116, the date of the new bond will be taken to be the date on which the earliest of the bonds relating to any of the spirits in the operation was executed.

15. The spirits or wines blended must be the produce and manufacture of the same country.

16. The words "blend," or "reduced by water," must be cut into or indelibly marked on the vat or cask containing the blended spirits or wines, or spirits reduced in strength. Original marks and brands must be removed, unless all the spirits or wines be of the same mark.

17. Wines and spirits may only be bottled from casks in a bottling warehouse. No other operation may be performed in such warehouse at the same time.

18. Wines and spirits intended for bottling must be removed from the warehouse to a bottling warehouse in presence of a Customs Officer.

19. Bottles must be packed immediately after filling. Each package must contain a dozen or multiple of a dozen of quarts or pints, and the bottles in each package must be of uniform size.

20. The officer deputed must record in his bottling book the numer of bottles filled before they are packed; the bottles must then be packed without unnecessary delay. The officer is to satisfy himself that the proper number of bottles are placed in each case, and see that packed cases are at once closed and fastened.

21. The bonding officer will have the key of the door of the bottling warehouse.

22. The officer must see that in the labelling and corking of bottles, the provisions of the Merchandise Marks Act are observed.

23. Wines and spirits in bottle may, if it be necessary, be started into casks.

24. Wines and spirits imported in cases may, if it be necessary, be adjusted and repacked, but not more than once while in bond. Labels and capsules may be renewed, but not changed for others not identical in terms.

25. Samples may, with the previous sanction of the Collector, be drawn from any case or cask, whether in the Bonded Warehouse or in the warehouse for operations on wet goods in bond, a note being kept on the bond or customs documents denoting the quantity so drawn.

26. Spirits may be methylated in a warehouse. The spirits are to be gauged and the strength ascertained prior to the operation; deficiency not exceeding legal allowance may be written off.

27. After methylation, a sample must be drawn off and sent for the usual report to the Chemical Examiner.

N.B.—All applications under the above rules must, under Schedule II, 1 (a) of the Court Fees Act, bear a stamp of one anna.
